

HISTORIC RED MANIFESTO ASKS PEACEFUL COEXISTENCE

By STANLEY JOHNSON AND REINHOLD ENSZ MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Communist party Saturday ordered all Communists to support what it called the "Leninist principle of peaceful coexistence" with the West. The Red leadership also told the Russian people that improvement in their living standards is not far off.

The party promised Soviet citizens free housing and public transportation in the 1970s but added an important hedge: "Complications in the international situation and a necessary increase in the strength of the armed forces can delay realization of the plans for improving the people's material welfare."

The party published a new and historic program for adoption by the 22nd congress of the Communist party that meets in October. It was the first new program since Lenin wrote his in 1919.

Peaceful coexistence, the program said, is "a mighty obstacle in the path of the imperialist aggression." It added this prediction: "Socialism (communism) inevitably will take over from capitalism everywhere. Such is the objective law of the development of society."

The program, however, did not exclude the possibility of "nonpeaceful" transition to communism. It said the method of being voted into power by a parliament is best for communism but it added: "However, when the exploiting classes use violence against people, it is necessary to consider a non-peaceful transition from capitalism to socialism."

The party proclaimed and history proved that the exploiting classes will not give up their power voluntarily."

Premier Khrushchev said the same thing in a speech last January and from this, plus the rest of the platform, it is obvious he was the guiding spirit in drawing up the program.

The program officially made it an article of state that "the transition of capitalism to communism is the road to development of humanity."

Divided into seven chapters, the program said "the experience of the Soviet Union proved that socialism and peace are indivisible."

It claimed "the forces of socialism are serving the cause of peace. The Soviet Union saved humanity from fascist enslavement."

Premier Khrushchev, who ordered the program prepared, is en route back to Moscow from his holiday home at Sochi, on the Black Sea. He will lead public discussion of the new program.

In its attack on the capitalist system, the program said inequality of the rate of development is sharpening contradictions between capitalist states. It declared: "The military center has..."

Cuba Lays Hijacking Before U.N.

Plane Incident Excuse for Attack by U.S., Note Says

HAVANA (AP)—The Fidel Castro government Saturday placed the hijacked Eastern Air Lines plane case in the lap of the United Nations Security Council.

The decision announced by the Foreign Ministry appeared aimed at avoiding a showdown between the United States and Cuba over the fate of the $3.5-million Lockheed Electra.

A foreign ministry note to the U. N. accused the United States of massing forces for an "imminent military aggression" against Cuba, using the plane incident as an excuse for its plans.

IT CONTENDED that elaborate military preparations were being made in the Caribbean area under U. S. leadership and claimed these plans could set off "a conflagration of unforeseen consequences."

In Washington the U. S. State Department said in a statement:

"The Cuban note to the Security Council is a transport tactic to divert attention from the actions of the Castro government in detaining a hijacked plane belonging to Eastern Air Lines."

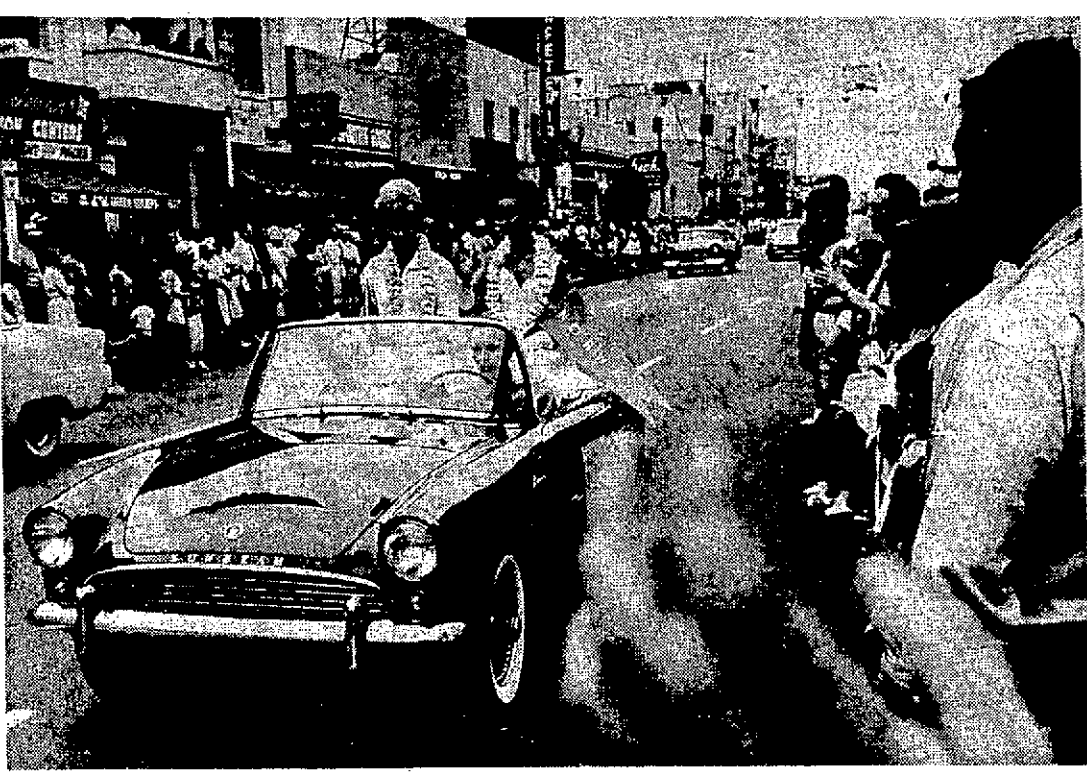

The United States cannot seriously countenance the charges made by the Castro government in its note to the security council that the United States is plotting "imminent military aggression" because of the failure of the Cuban government to return a hijacked plane."

The Cuban note to the U.N. in an obvious reference to expected Soviet Union support, said "Cuba is not alone."

SECRETARY of State Dean Rusk told a news conference Friday he expected a reply within 48 hours on a State Department demand for return of the plane to the United States.

(The Cuban delegation which handed the note to the Security Council president at the United Nations, Ambassador Leopoldo Benites of Ecuador, did not ask for a council meeting. It did ask, however, that the note be circulated to members.)

(State Department officials in Washington said there would be no comment on the Cuban note until they see the text.)

IBC Queens Bid Adieu in Parade

By NEIL BYER

Beauty passed in review Saturday afternoon before one of the largest crowds ever to watch the final parade of the Miss International Beauty contest.

The occasion was the fifth annual Downtown International Days "Farewell Fiesta," a salute by Long Beach merchants to the participants for the last 10 days in the International Beauty Congress.

One parade official estimated the crowd at 60,000. At least it was obvious to any observer that spectators were lined up six and seven deep along the parade route on Pine Avenue between First and Seventh Streets, the girl who had been her roommate during the pageant.

SATURDAY night was the Coronation Ball—high lighted by the official and symbolic transfer of regency from Miss International of 1961—Miss Stella Marquez of Colombia—to Miss Holland, the new queen.

Escorts for the contestants were young naval officers from various Southern California naval installations.

And proudest of the proud with the fairest of the fair was Lt. (jg) C. D. Rottgering from Louisville, Ky., who was paired with Miss International.

"There's no question about it," he said. "I'm the luckiest guy in the whole bunch."

TODAY most of the delegates will be leaving for their respective homes, except those who have been approached by movie scouts. Information was not immediately available concerning just who these were, although it is known that several of the girls might stay over to take a fling at Hollywood.

In the afternoon activities all of the girls drew at least polite and sometimes uproarious applause as they stopped at the archways.

PROBABLY one of the most fortunate of all spectators was young Dan Levin. The 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Levin presented each of the participating beauties with a lei at the archway near Seventh Street and Pine Avenue. In most cases, he received a buss for his efforts. He did not seem to think it was such a bad job he had, after all.

Dan is the son of chairman of the promotion committee for the Downtown Long Beach Associates, sponsors of the annual "Farewell Fiesta."

U.S. Charges K Made Up Berlin Crisis

Demand Allies Get Out Rejected in White Paper

By STEWART HENSLEY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States has prepared a new "white paper" blast charging Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev with wantonly manufacturing an artificial crisis in West Berlin.

Officials disclosed Saturday that the State Department completed the document this week and sent it to President Kennedy for clearance.

It strongly indicts Khrushchev for refusing to let the inhabitants of Communist East Germany vote on their own future. It also rejects anew as immoral and illegal Khrushchev's demand that the United States, Britain and France pull out of West Berlin and permit it to become a demilitarized "free city" behind the Iron Curtain.

THE PRESIDENT himself ordered preparation of the paper as another weapon in his effort to rally world opinion against Russia's effort to impose its own "solution" to the problem of Berlin and divided Germany.

Officials said the exact publication date had not been set but it might come next week.

The document's emphasis on German "self-determination" is designed particularly, officials said, to enlist support of the new Asian and African nations for the Western position in Berlin. These nations base almost their entire policy on the right of "self-determination" of peoples.

THE WHITE paper, which probably will be issued in pamphlet form, points out that the West Berliners have voted overwhelmingly to let the allies remain there until there is a final settlement of the whole German problem. But the Russians have never permitted the inhabitants of Communist East Germany and East Berlin a free vote on their status.

The paper, following up the recent lengthy U.S. aide memoir to Khrushchev on Berlin, fits in with Kennedy's plan to try to seize the diplomatic initiative from the Russians while at the same time bolstering Western military might to provide a stronger bargaining position.

The Western allies have yet to formulate specific new diplomatic proposals on the Berlin and German issues. But Secretary of State Dean Rusk will begin work on this when he meets next weekend in Paris with the foreign ministers of Britain, France and West Germany.

THE MINISTERS also will seek to coordinate allied military measures to mesh with

RUSS SHOW SEA POWER

MOSCOW (AP)—Western naval attaches flew to Leningrad Saturday for a display today of Soviet sea power. The show was heralded by a warning in Pravda that the United States is no longer safe from naval attack.

Experts believe the Soviet Union will show an atomic submarine for the first time in the navy day proceedings.

They also expect to see a guided missile surface ship.

JFK Gets Report on K Talks

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy got a cable report Saturday from his top disarmament adviser, John J. McCloy, on consultations in the Soviet Union—including three days of talks with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The Cape Cod White House said Kennedy immediately made plans to confer next week with McCloy, who is heading home from the Soviet Union.

Presidential Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy, who is spending the weekend at his Hyannis Port summer home, "received a report from Mr. McCloy this morning with some details of his discussions with Mr. Khrushchev earlier this week."

"McCloy is now heading back to the United States and will report personally to the President some time during the coming week."

SALINGER SAID Kennedy did not personally call McCloy home. He said McCloy was in touch with the State Department, and said the disarmament chief "felt he should come back and give a personal report."

The President is to meet Monday with the vice president of Nationalist China, Chen Cheng, and Foreign Minister Shen Chang-Huan. Their visit reportedly involves U.S. moves to recognize Communist Outer Mongolia and talk that Red China may eventually get into the United Nations.

The President flew to Hyannis Port late Friday to join the celebration of his wife's 32nd birthday. The party was held in closely guarded privacy.

Full Strength Planned for 14 Divisions

Expansion Allows Quick Movement of Troops to Europe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Army will expand 10 training centers and set up two new ones to carry out its rapid buildup to 1,008,000 men under President Kennedy's West Berlin preparedness plan, it was disclosed Saturday.

The Army declined to identify the sites of the two new centers but they were expected to be Fort Carson, Colo., and Camp Chaffee near Fort Smith, Ark. Chaffee has been closed for several years.

The training facilities to be expanded are Fort Dix, N. J.; Fort Jackson, S. C.; Fort Knox, Ky.; Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.; Fort Sill, Okla.; Fort Ord, Calif.; Fort Sam Houston and Fort Bliss, Texas; Fort McClellan, Ala., and Fort Gordon, Ga.

THE ARMY said it will take over the training load previously carried by three divisions of the Strategic Army Force (STRAF) in this country. Those divisions will be brought quickly to full combat strength and readiness.

At first glance, when Kennedy announced his military buildup plan, the Army did not seem to get an increased number of combat divisions. The fact is, however, that only 11 of the total 14 Army divisions have been kept combat ready over the last several years.

Now all 14 will be fully up to strength. In effect, the strategic reserve kept in this country will be doubled from three to six divisions. Eight divisions are overseas—five in Europe, one in Hawaii and two in Korea.

WITH THE build up at home, the Army will be in position to move additional divisions to Europe in a hurry if needed.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara told Congress this week that "no decision has yet been made to deploy additional divisions." But he asked for money to provide camp facilities in Europe and to pay transportation costs so that the government would be

New Judges Seen for L.B. in Fall

By DON MADDOCK

Local Superior and Municipal Courts probably will add a judge each this fall.

The Municipal Court expansion is more certain than that of the higher court. There's a big "if" in the Superior Court picture, and any one-judge addition actually would merely return the total to its pre-April, 1960, count.

Municipal Court is expected to boast of six judges instead of five through a bill introduced by Assemblyman Joe Kennick which Gov. Edmund (Pat) Brown signed a week ago.

THE LEGISLATION, which unanimously was denounced by the present Municipal judges, becomes effective Sept. 15. The governor then can fill the new vacancy at his leisure, via appointment.

Presiding Municipal Judge Lyman B. Sutter spearheaded the court's opposition. He asserted any present expansion would be a waste of taxpayers' money, because the court is handling its obligations without undue delay.

Most state legislators obviously disagreed, and many local attorneys went on record favoring the increase.

THE SUPERIOR Court's buildup was made possible

L.A.C. Says: As Nixon Ponders

Whether or not Nixon will be a candidate for governor is causing nationwide interest. Time Magazine and The New York Times are devoting columns to speculation. From them we get the impression that Nixon will be giving up his national leadership if elected governor—or he will lose it if he runs and is defeated.

It is probable he would be elected President if the election was held at the present time. President Kennedy has lost much of the following he had on election day last year. The slim margin he received has been wiped out by his loss of prestige over the Cuban invasion fiasco and Laos affair. But no one knows what recovery he may make between now and the 1964 election. He regained some of his prestige by his speech last Tuesday. Only time will tell how much.

From the statewide Field poll in California it is evident Nixon would defeat Gov. Brown if the election were held today. This is also true if Goodwin Knight was the GOP candidate. The poll shows that it would be about even between Brown and Mayor Christopher of San Francisco. But here again no one can say what the results will be when the election is held 16 months from now.

Nixon has announced that he probably will not be a candidate—but will not make a definite commitment for another 60 days. He points out that his own experience is at the national and international level and says, "I do not think I can turn my back on my responsibilities to the national party."

Time Magazine comments that "the former Vice President was obviously not at all anxious to ignore his private road map which does not include Sacramento as a way stop on the road back to Washington." It also suggests that Nixon as governor would probably have to deal with a Democratic controlled legislature which could make life unbearable for him.

It is also pointed out that Nixon would—as governor—be restricted in what he could do as a candidate for President. Unless he made a definite statement that he would serve out his full four-year term, he would lose many votes. The voters would not like to feel he was a part-time governor using the office as a campaign headquarters.

The first six months in office have not improved the prestige of President Kennedy. This makes it less probable that he could be re-elected in 1964. This development has undoubtedly made the 1964 race more attractive to Nixon than it was a few months ago. If he is to be a candidate in 1964 he cannot afford to be tied down to a full-time job as governor—and he cannot afford to run for the governorship unless he pledges that he will make it a full-time job.

There is little doubt about the fact that Nixon is the leader of the national party. He is called upon to speak in all parts of the country—and has larger audiences than he had as a candidate. His prestige has increased. It would, in our opinion, be a mistake for him to run for governor of California if he expects to carry on this leadership and become the presidential candidate. He has a tough decision to make. But if he can get the GOP leaders in the state to join in supporting one candidate he will be doing the greatest possible service to the party—and to his own position. The sooner he makes such an announcement the better chance the GOP candidate will have.—L.A.C.

Red Manifesto Looks to Peace

moved from England to the United States. America, the mightiest capitalist state, has become the strongest world exploiter. American imperialism, covering itself with the false flag of freedom and democracy, is in fact fulfilling the role of the world gendarme, supporting reactionary dictatorial regimes, rotten monarchies, taking action against democratic revolutionary transformation, unleashing aggression against people struggling for their independence.

The program laid out an economic plan for the next 20 years, and said that at the end of this period, heating, water and gas will be free of charge in the Soviet Union. It said the Soviet economy will achieve "an abundance of wealth and material for the whole population" during the second half of the 20-year plan, and this will enable "distribution in accordance with requirements."

The program, likely to be the key to Soviet propaganda for months ahead, took indirect note of fantastically overcrowded apartment houses and log-cabin shacks in the Soviet Union by promising elections, the program suggested (that means ordered) the 20-year period, "each family, including young married families, will have well-equipped apartments which embody the hygienic and cultured way of life. The homes of peasant families of all types will mostly be replaced with new modern homes or, in cases where possible, will be reconstructed."

The program came out in full force for strengthening Soviet armed forces. It urged all uniformed men, plus "those in the security forces," to display vigilance and constant readiness to fight for their country.

It said: "The party believes it is necessary to support the fighting might of the Soviet state so that they can deliver a decisive rebuff to any aggressor. The armed forces must be mighty, equipped with the most modern thermonuclear and atomic weapons."

"The party is educating all Communists in the spirit of defending their homeland as their first duty."

The new program appears completely nationalistic and in that sense differs from Lenin's which was written when the Soviet leaders were flushed with their victory in the 1917 revolution and thought the world triumph of communism was imminent. Turning to the matter of elections, the program suggested (that means ordered) that at each election one-third of the new legislative deputies should be people who never served in a government body before.

in position to reinforce the Seventh Army in Germany if a Berlin crisis required it.

Numbers of Navy ships and Air Force transport planes are to be expanded for troop movement.

THE THREE Army divisions to be brought up to full strength are the First Infantry, Fort Riley, Kan.; Second Infantry, Fort Benning, Ga., and Second Armored, Fort Hood, Texas. Together they are believed to have no more than 15,000 hard core regular Army men at present. They probably will get 27,000 of the total 133,000 additional men included in the Army's build up.

The other three divisions in the strategic reserve kept at home for deployment in trouble spots anywhere are the 82nd Airborne, Fort Bragg, N. C.; 101st Airborne, Fort Campbell, Ky., and 4th Infantry, Fort Lewis, Wash.

THE ARMY also plans to bring up to full strength within the continental United States six infantry battalions, three tank battalions, two tank regiments, two air defense missile battalions and five artillery battalions—all by another bill which Governor Brown signed into law. It created 51 new judgeships in 12 counties, including 18 more for Los Angeles County.

Courts Here to Get Two More Judges

Presiding Superior Judge Joe Raycraft said last week he "expects" to have another judge here in October, but the main reason is an apparent lack of courtrooms in Los Angeles.

The judge in charge of the entire county Superior Court system, Louis H. Burke, reportedly would like to keep all 18 appointees in Los Angeles to meet a tremendous backlog of cases, but can't find enough unused courtrooms.

Judge Raycraft said the South (Long Beach) District not only is tending to its pending docket much more rapidly than is Los Angeles, but also is leading the state. Either a new appointee or a present judge could be sent here, Judge Raycraft added. This would give Long Beach seven Superior judges.

THE COURT went from six to seven judges Jan. 1, 1960. Then Judge Joseph M. Malby died April 26, 1960. Since then, the regular six have been supplemented by local Municipal judges and Superior judges from other counties on temporary assignment. Shasta County Superior Judge Richard B. Eaton is here now, as he has been several recent summers.

PRESENT Superior judges are Fred Miller, Maurice C. Sparling, John F. McCarthy, George Francis, Beach Vasey and Raycraft.

Judges Charles T. Smith, Percy Light, Martin DeVries, Kenneth E. Sutherland and Sutter are on the Municipal bench.

Each court also has a full time commissioner to ease the judges' burdens. They are Fred Kepka for Superior Court and Loyd Lavender for Municipal.

All courts are in the eight-month-old Long Beach County Building at 415 W. Ocean Blvd.

the steps Kennedy announced Tuesday and Wednesday to strengthen America's conventional military forces and place them in a higher state of combat readiness.

Rusk and the other foreign ministers also will discuss the possibility of increasing U.S. military strength in Europe, which now amounts to five divisions. In addition the conferees must wrestle with economic problems involved in beefing up the Western defense alliance.

Kennedy is determined to get the military preparedness well under way before making any formal diplomatic overtures to Khrushchev. He feels that the Russian must be thoroughly convinced of the West's willingness and ability to fight to keep its Berlin position before Moscow will realize the full danger of the position into which he has thrust the world. Only then, Kennedy believes, will it be possible to get Khrushchev to discuss the crisis on a reasonable basis.

RUSK SAID Thursday that he was somewhat "encouraged" by initial NATO reaction to Kennedy's call for all members of the alliance to contribute to its increased strength. But officials acknowledged privately that it will be some months before the west is prepared to negotiate from its increased strength.

They believe the west has time, since it is considered highly unlikely that Khrushchev will want to force the issue to the point of conflict until after the October Communist Party congress in Moscow—if then.

Among the factors likely to delay any early formal western diplomatic initiative are: West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's reluctance to commit himself to any substantial military build-up or more flexible diplomatic approach until after the September elections in Germany.

Britain's new "austerity" program already has led her to ask for a reduction in her financial contribution to NATO.

The time it will take before Kennedy's proposed military increases to actually become apparent enough to convince Khrushchev the West means business.

MOVIE DRUDGERY? NO BUT—

Miss IBC Hopes for Acting Talent

By GEORGE ERES

The new International Beauty queen, Stanny van Baer, 19, of Amsterdam is interested in a movie career—but only if she doesn't have to work too hard for it.

Stanny, looking fresh as a tulip after only two hours of sleep, faced a battery of newspapermen and cameras Saturday morning and, with self-possession born either of newly acquired royalty or daze, managed to smile even though she kept wishing she could smoke a cigarette.

Ten thousand dollars richer in cash and loaded down with gifts as winner of Miss International Beauty crown for 1962, Miss van Baer, told newspapermen she was interested in movies, then explained through a Dutch photographer who acted as interpreter:

"I am interested only if the studios find I have a natural talent for acting, but not if I have to go through a long period of training and study."

AT LEAST one studio is interested in her and had set up an interview for Monday. The interview now has been postponed to Wednesday.

The new queen of the IBC is the daughter of a Dutch father and a Hungarian mother. She was born in Jakarta, Indonesia. In Holland she has been working as a fashion model and studying fashion at the Modern School of Art, Amsterdam.

She said she was surprised to have won the beauty title and hadn't expected to come in first. Last year's reigning Miss IBC, Stella Marquez, however, felt sure Miss Holland would win, according to Stanny's hostess, Mrs. Inard Kirklin.

"STELLA ALWAYS referred to Stan as 'My Queen.'"

The dress Stanny wore for the IBC finals was the dress Miss Marquez wore last year when she won.

"Stella loaned it to me," said Stanny.

With good grace, but obviously a bit worn out, Stanny stood and sat for numerous pictures, patiently answered questions that she must have been asked a thousand times before and probably will be asked a thousand times again before the year is out.

She posed with a coffee cup to her lips.

"Lower it a bit," suggested a cameraman.

She obediently lowered it.

"Yawn, to show us how sleepy you are?" suggested another. She had been up since 6 a.m. Stanny daintily yawned, a tiny hand in front of her mouth. There were retakes.

SHE POSED with IBC officials, clocks, Teddy bears and various other pieces of merchandise beside the swimming pool at the Lafayette Hotel, where she was kept busy signing autographs when not posing.

She had just come from Ruffums' where she had been selecting the gown she was to wear at the Grand Ball Saturday night. She didn't know the name of the Navy lieutenant who would escort her. She was to find that out a couple of hours before the ball.

Up to Saturday night, when the 5-foot, 6-inch, brown-eyed beauty won the contest, her schedule had been pretty well laid out. After Sunday she was to have spent a few days as the house guest of her hostess.

"Now it's all up in the air," said a pageant press agent. "After Sunday she's on her own. After all we don't have to worry about who will pay her living expenses. She's got 10,000 bucks."

STANNY IS not sure exactly what she'll do, she said. She noted that she would think about her future and make a decision in the next few days.

Having tucked the beauty crown away comfortably, Stanny was asked if she would go through the whole business again if she had to do it all over.

Her brow wrinkled: "The last 10 days were fun. I would go through the last 10 days again."

Brown Acts for Land for La Jolla Campus

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown Saturday asked U.S. Navy Secretary John B. Connally Jr. for help in acquiring the U.S. Marine Corps Camp Matthews for the University of California's San Diego campus at La Jolla.

Brown asked Connally's aid in restoring a federal appropriation to finance the transfer of the Marine Corps rifle range to Camp Pendleton, near Oceanside.

Prisoner Marries Sweetheart—in Jail

EL CENTRO (UPI)—Jerry L. Mayo, 21, married his sweetheart Saturday in Imperial County Jail.

E. H. Kirby, chief jailer, reported Mayo, serving a six-month term for assault, married Mary Sullivan, 18, Holtville, Calif., in the first wedding ever performed in the jail. The ceremony was performed by a Salvation Army captain.

REONA HERZ, 15-year-old Millikan High School student who posed as Miss Costa Rica in the IBC contest, poses with a mock trophy presented by an anonymous fan. The trophy, within one inch of the height of the real Miss International award, is engraved on different sides to Reona Herz, Miss Costa Rica, Ramona Sanchez (the name she used in the contest), and Miss Costa Mesa (which she twice called herself by mistake).

Beauties Receive Favors

Downtown Long Beach merchants did themselves proud with the beauty girls who took part in the International Beauty Congress pageant which officially terminated Saturday night with the Coronation Ball at the Lafayette Hotel.

By now, of course, everyone knows that Miss Holland won the crown for the coming year, as well as $10,000 in cash.

She also received the Miss International Beauty Trophy from the International Beauty Congress, a diamond wrist watch from American Jewelers of Long Beach, a clock from Snow's Clock Co., and a three-piece matched ensemble of costume by Marge of California and a ball gown from Ruffums.

But the newly crowned queen was not the only winner.

OTHER MERCHANTS participating were the J. C. Penney Co., which gave contestants, among other gifts, sweaters, hats, hosiery, handbags and jewelry; Mannings Coffee Cafe, offering the choice of any luncheon; Ruffums', shoes, gloves and make-up kits; Walker's, cologne, sunhats, hosiery and other gifts.

Penney's gave a special jewelry set to Miss International, Kress's gave Miss Friendship a transistor radio, Newberry's had hosiery for Miss Most Popular, and Shicks gave hosiery to each of the five finalists.

Buy Landing Craft

JAKARTA (AP)—Two landing craft and a salvage ship purchased from the United States have arrived from San Francisco. The salvage ship was provided under the U. S. military aid program and the other vessels will be used to distribute food and clothing.

Peace Demonstrations

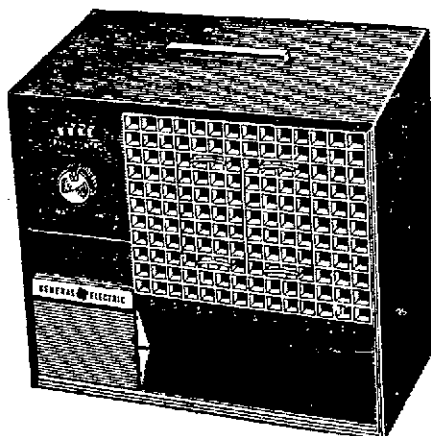

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Some 60 demonstrators marched in front of the Federal Building Saturday to urge a peaceful settlement over Berlin. They bore placards reading "Peace" and "Negotiate Without Nuclear War."

Lessened Stress on Nuclear Arms Boosts Defense

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is curtailing the central role which nuclear weapons have played in U.S. military strategy for almost a decade.

His main purpose, according to informed officials, is to give the United States and its allies a more flexible policy and wider range of choices in meeting aggressive Soviet actions.

Since military power often is the basis of foreign policy, the result may also be to give the Western powers a more flexible diplomatic policy, resulting in a somewhat bolder offensive strategy in the cold war.

The over-all effect of the developing Kennedy doctrine is to mark an end to the during most of the years of the Eisenhower administration.

THE IMPLICATION of that policy—and what made it so controversial in domestic politics—was that it threatened direct retaliation against Moscow for an aggressive blow at the Allied world anywhere along the huge European-Asian frontier of the cold war.

Kennedy, as senator and as presidential candidate last year, was one of the critics of the policy of primary reliance on nuclear power. His plans for building up U.S. military power to cope with the Berlin challenge and with other peril points of the future has now disclosed the broad outlines of his approach to this problem more sharply than any actions he previously had taken.

He himself summarized his purposes in curtailing nuclear strategy as related to Berlin. He said: "We intend to have a wider choice than humiliation or all-out nuclear action."

One authority summed it up this way following the Kennedy speech and his formal proposals to Congress on Wednesday: "What the administration is trying to do is confront Khrushchev with a believable counterthreat so he can understand that we are in deadly earnest and will fight for Berlin."

IN KENNEDY'S view, the United States, its allies and, indeed, the Russians, should have a first choice of making a test of wills in conflict without using any nuclear weapons at all. If the Soviets start a fight without employing nuclear weapons at once, the United States would react with an appropriate counterforce. The need, Kennedy said in his speech Tuesday night, is to "meet all levels of aggressor pressure with whatever levels of force are required."

Tactical nuclear weapons would be employed as battlefield weapons of second choice—the weapons of first choice being nonnuclear or conventional weapons.

With respect to a third set of possibilities, the concept of massive retaliation obviously remains valid. If the Soviets attack the NATO Allies with massive forces, Kennedy's rule of meeting aggression "with whatever levels of force are required" undoubtedly would mean nuclear retaliation in the same sense that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles meant it.

Desert Crash Fatal
BARTSTOW (UPI)—Kenneth T. Goodwin, 56, Hinkley, was killed Saturday when his car collided with another on U.S. 466 11 miles west of here. The other driver, Leroy Sanmillan, 23, Bartstow, was in critical condition.

JETLINER DAMAGED

UN Kills 3 Motions on Tunisia

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Asian and African countries Saturday night moved to bring the Tunisian crisis before an emergency meeting of the General Assembly after the Security Council failed to agree on any new action to bolster last week's cease-fire.

BARNES TOOK the floor in a tense meeting after the council rejected in quick succession each of the three proposals before it. One was sponsored by Turkey and backed by the Western powers. The other two were sponsored by the United Arab Republic, Ceylon and Liberia.

No veto was cast since all the proposals were killed when they failed to receive the seven affirmative votes required. The Turkish proposal fell one short of approval after Turkish Delegate Turgut Menemencioglu withdrew a key paragraph which the Soviet Union had threatened to veto. If necessary, the other two resolutions received only four affirmative votes—those of the sponsors and the Soviet Union.

FRANCE DID NOT participate in either the debate or the voting.

Just before the council adjourned, the Soviet delegate declared:

"Further nonfulfillment by France will have grave consequences for which the government of France will bear grave responsibility."

He tried unsuccessfully to have the Turkish resolution amended to place the blame on France for the fact that the ceasefire had not been fully carried out. The Soviet amendment was defeated by a vote of 4-0, with six countries abstaining.

The Asian-African resolutions contained declarations blaming France.

Russ Civil Defense Reported Far Ahead

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A recently translated Russian civil-defense report indicates the Soviets are far ahead of the United States in civil-defense work, the Houston Chronicle said Saturday night.

The report indicates the Russians are preparing for germ and gas warfare as well as atomic warfare, the paper said.

5 Planes in Day Land in Trouble

NEW YORK (AP)—Five airliners with a total of more than 500 passengers experienced landing difficulties in New York, Los Angeles and San Juan, Puerto Rico, in a 24-hour period ending Saturday afternoon.

In New York, a Pan American DC8 jet from Paris with 136 aboard skidded off a runway at New York International Airport. Earlier, an Eastern Air Lines DC6 with 107 aboard was forced to circle the airport for three hours while crew members loosened a stuck nosewheel.

In San Juan, meanwhile, a Pan American jetliner with 174 aboard made a safe landing after reporting that its hydraulic brakes were not working.

IN LOS ANGELES, two huge jetliners, with 102 aboard, plagued by landing gear and hydraulic system failures, landed at International Airport after long delays.

An American Airlines Boeing 707 jet, with 52 aboard, caught on fire and suffered a tire blowout when its front landing gear collapsed as it touched down at International Airport.

Passengers and crewmen clambered out of the jet as smoke poured through the plane, which landed at 12:17 a.m.

A FEW HOURS earlier, a Trans World Airlines jetliner, carrying 50 persons from Los Angeles to Boston, made an emergency landing at International Airport. No one was hurt.

TWA said one of the two hydraulic systems on the plane, a four-jet Convair 880, had lost pressure, preventing the nose gear from descending.

After three hours of circling, crewmen aboard the jet crawled into the belly and dumped about three gallons of water, coffee and milk into the plane's No. 1 hydraulic system. The fluid permitted creation of enough pressure to get the landing gear down safely at about 7 p.m.

Crash Kills Race Horse and Motorist

SANTA ANA (UPI) — A runaway thoroughbred from the Rex C. Ellsworth stables was blamed Saturday for causing a three-car collision in which a motorist was killed and three other persons injured.

The horse, Daisy, also was killed in the freak accident which occurred after the Thoroughbred kicked out the tailgate of its trailer on a canyon road and ran wild into the glare of headlights.

DEAD WAS William W. Woodward, 51, Upland. The crash was triggered when his car struck the terrified animal.

Woodward's 15-year-old son, William Lee, was injured along with Bruce W. Albert, 52, and his wife, Anna, 41, of Santa Ana. All were taken to Orange County Hospital but none was listed in serious condition. The teen-ager and Mrs. Albert were later released.

After striking the horse, the California Highway Patrol said, Woodward's auto crossed the divider strip and collided with Albert's car and another vehicle driven by David D. Strickland, 24, a medical corpsman at Fort MacArthur.

2 MEN BEATEN ROBBED

Four Indian Maids in Own Uprising

GUADALUPE, Ariz. (UPI)—Authorities say four young Indian maidens staged a modern massacre Saturday that will go down in local history as the Battle of Guadalupe.

Raymond Bacus, 49, and Edward Jini, 30, both of Phoenix, met the women—three of them teen-agers, the other 21—in a downtown Phoenix bar.

They agreed to drive to the desert near this ancient Yaqui Indian village southeast of Phoenix.

When Bacus stopped his car the young warriors gathered tire irons, wrenches and other tools from the floorboards and proceeded to beat the stuffings out of Bacus and Jini.

THE MEN told Maricopa county sheriff's Sgt. Lester Jones their assailants stole their wallets — about $30 from Bacus, somewhat less from Jini—their watches and Bacus' English-model station wagon, and left them bleeding on the desert.

Jini made his way to Guadalupe and telephoned the sheriff's office. Deputies took him to the county hospital, where he was treated for extensive head cuts and was released.

A few hours later, they found Bacus, more severely injured, and hospitalized him at Phoenix.

The girls—two Apaches, a Pima and a Hopi from the Fort McDowell Indian reservation northeast of Phoenix —were arrested on the reservation near Bacus' car.

SAID JONES:

"They started throwing loot in the desert right and left. They said someone gave it to them. They also said someone gave them the car."

Jones booked them on suspicion of aggravated assault (two counts each), strong-armed robbery (two counts each) and grand theft (one count each).

"In the old days," Jones said, "a renegade Indian might steal a man's horse. This time they took his horsepower."

Superairliner Urged by Engle

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., urged Saturday that a $12-million program be started at once to develop a supersonic commercial plane that could span the country in less than two hours.

He said the United States must do all possible to maintain its leadership in commercial aviation. "The supersonic transport aircraft will open a new era of world travel," he added.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Senators Spurn Economy Moves

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Saturday turned back efforts to slash $72 million from a multi-billion-dollar appropriation bill.

The efforts at economizing—and speeches by senators on other subjects—kept to a minimum Senate action at this rare Saturday session.

In calling the Senate to meet Saturday, leaders had hoped to get action on two giant appropriations bills. At the end of the day action on even one measure was far from completed.

One bill includes $9,098,614,500 in appropriations for the Civilian Space Agency and 19 other independent federal agencies. Included is $549 million asked by President Kennedy to speed along the moon project.

The other bill—the Senate never got around to it Saturday—would provide $5,161,380,000 for the welfare and labor departments.

Cuban PWs "Free" Selves

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Two Cubans, who came here as members of a prisoner delegation to negotiate a swap of tractors for nearly 1,200 fellow captives gave up on their mission Saturday—and "freed" themselves.

They said they would return to Cuba only to fight Fidel Castro, but would not go back to Havana Monday, the deadline after more than a month of freedom here.

Their eight fellow-prisoner emissaries denounced the "defeatism" of Mirlo Collazo and Reinaldo Pico, both 27, and derided them for not keeping their pledge to Castro that they would return.

The eight discussed the situation for four hours, then announced they would proceed to Havana Monday as scheduled. They expressed confidence their fellow prisoners will be freed.

Composer of Western Songs Dies

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Oscar J. Fox, 82, Texas-born composer of "The Hills of Home" and many songs with western settings, died here Saturday.

He was known not only for his original songs but for musical singing tours which over the years carried him from coast to coast. He had studied music in Switzerland and New York as well as in his native Texas, but his songs greatly reflected his Texas heritage and environment.

Besides "The Hills of Home," Fox's melodies included "The Old Chisholm Trail," "Jessie James," "Old Paint," and "Whoopee Ti Yi Yo, Git Along Little Dogies."

Adlai's Ex-Father-in-Law Dies

SPRING LAKE, Mich. (UPI)—John Borden, 78, noted explorer and former father-in-law of Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, died in his sleep Saturday following a paralytic stroke.

Borden was the father of Mrs. Ellen Borden Stevenson, divorced wife of the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

In 1927 he skippered the auxiliary schooner "Northern Light" on an exploration of the Arctic coast of Siberia for Chicago's Field Museum. In 1913 he led a similar expedition to the Bering Sea for the American Museum of Natural History, New York.

Jackie Buys Skin Diver Coat

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, who did some skin diving recently in the famous Greek islands of the Aegean, has purchased a skin diver's rubber jacket for use here.

The fast-growing sport of underwater exploring apparently has caught America's First Lady in its spell. It is reported, though, that she also has been using the jacket for another of her favorite sports, water-skiing.

Eisenhower 'Secrecy' on Records Hit

By EDMON LE BRETON
WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators contended Saturday that President Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration kept certain records secret "for political purposes rather than in defense of the constitution" during last year's presidential campaign. The observation came in a report by the House Government Operations Committee, which also said: "Secrecy is not the exclusive property of any one political party. Secrecy is the handmaiden of bureaucracy, especially military bureaucracy."

THE REPORT, covering activities during the latter half of 1960 of the subcommittee on government information, discussed a number of episodes already aired in Congress and elsewhere.

It gave special attention to the controversy over public opinion polls made abroad for the U.S. Information Agency which became an issue in the campaign between John F. Kennedy and the Republican candidate, Vice President Richard M. Nixon. Nixon contended U.S. prestige was high. Kennedy said it had fallen.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee asked for the USIA polls which, according to unofficial summaries, cast doubt on Nixon's contention, USIA refused on the ground the polls were staff reports and working papers and therefore confidential.

THE HOUSE committee said this was a claim of executive privilege to hide "facts which would refute certain campaign statements." The report also said "The Pentagon attempted to suppress some embarrassing research studies at election time."

This referred to a research report on the air raid warning system and one comparing economic growth rates of the United States and the U.S.S.R.

OVER-ALL, the six months under study produced a mixed record, the committee reported. But it praised a quick turnabout by the Kennedy administration which resulted in release of previously withheld foreign aid information.

The report listed at length what it called both improvements and continued restrictions in information availability in the July-December period of 1960.

THE REAL SCOOP, MATE

Claims Tattoos Signs of Anxiety

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The tattooed sailor may be just as intelligent as his undecorated mates.

But, Navy studies show, he is likely to be less well adjusted and to suffer more from anxiety.

A report on "The Psychological Significance of Tattoos" has been published by the Office of Navy Research. It was made by Richard P. Youniss of the Psychology Department of Catholic University of America.

Youniss, a reserve lieutenant in the Navy, noted that tattoos are "more commonly found among naval personnel than any other major segment of the U.S. male population."

He began his studies by taking an informal opinion poll among Navy and civilian personnel at a naval station. The answers added up to belief that the tattooed sailor is: "Emotionally immature; providing that he is a tough guy; attempting to gain some indelible evidence of his identification with a rough-and-tumble masculine group; mixed up emotionally; the impulsive, over-aggressive type; in the lower intelligence range."

A few brief studies made previously had indicated that tattooed men "seem to be more personally and socially maladjusted than those without tattoos."

Not content with these studies, Youniss conducted new ones at the New London, Conn., submarine base. He made psychological tests of 648 men.

He found that men with one tattoo were not too much different emotionally from those with none. He also concluded that, "contrary to popular speculation," there is no difference in average intelligence "between the tattooed and non-tattooed men."

But men with two or more tattoos suffered "greater personal maladjustment" than the others. Moreover, men who wanted more tattoos "showed a significant increase in personal maladjustment and conflict as compared with those men . . . that showed no desire for additional tattoos."

"It is possible," Youniss said, "that obtaining tattoos is an attempt to resolve, deny or symbolically ward off anxiety."

"The high frequency of sexual and aggressive symbols depicted in the tattoos of the individuals in this investigation suggests that the obtaining of or desire for future tattoos frequently reflects the presence of unresolved sexual and aggressive conflicts which are causing current anxieties."

Youniss said more knowledge "about this rather unexplored area of human behavior may well prove to be psychologically revealing and diagnostically significant."

board of directors and recommended by the campaign cabinet, the figure represents a $145,074 reduction of the requested budgets for 1962 made by the 33 member agencies.

James H. Crocker, campaign chairman in accepting the goal at the July board of directors meeting declared that it is time for the community to wake up and realize the health, welfare and youth services they have been accustomed to expect have to be adequately supported.

"This business of having people wait for months at agencies before getting help is ridiculous," Crocker stated.

COMPARING the low per capita giving here against the national average, he said the answer lies in increasing the number of firms permitting payroll deduction and greater emphasis on fair share giving.

"Those who have been making a fair share gift certainly are not the ones we shall ask to give a great deal more," he continued, "but we definitely are going after those who have not been shouldering their community responsibilities."

Extensive studies made during the past two months by 45 representative citizens on the Chest budget committee had set the minimum agencies' needs at $905,515 which, with $4,485 expansion contingency fund added by the Chest board, brought the basic goal to $1 million.

ASSIGNMENT of quotas to the 13 different campaign divisions are expected to be completed by the end of the week. By the same time nearly all business solicitation teams will be organized.

In reviewing proposed allocation of goal funds as recommended by the budget committees, over half the money will go to child care, child health, and young peoples' character building agencies.

"In these world troubled times, home front protection of our children and the welfare of families with serious problems becomes more important than ever," Crocker concluded.

Mrs. FDR Supporting Wagner Reelection

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt announced Saturday she had formed a group of 71 women Democrats to campaign for the reelection of Mayor Robert Wagner.

Mrs. Roosevelt made the announcement at the mayor's residence, Gracie Mansion, where she held a joint news conference with Wagner. The mayor is battling state comptroller Arthur Levitt, choice of city organization leaders, for the Democratic nomination in the Sept. 7 primary.

MORSE ADVISES ACTION IN U.N.

Urges U.S. Face China Issue

By WARREN DUFFEE
WASHINGTON (UPI) —
Sen. Wayne L. Morse said

Saturday the United States should stop ducking the Red China issue in the United Nations. He said this nation should make its case against seating the Peiping regime "out in the open."

The Oregon Democrat said the United States should tell the U.N. General Assembly this fall it is ready to have the question put on the agenda and then "show our case."

"In my judgment, we'd win," he told the Senate, which unanimously approved a resolution opposing diplomatic recognition and U.N. membership for Red China.

Morse, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he was strongly opposed to seating the "international political leper colony" on its present record. But he added, the problem of 650 million Chinese cannot be "wished away."

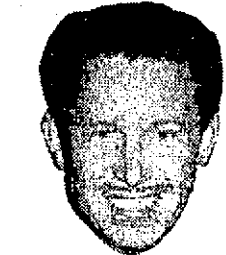

HE ALSO SAID President Kennedy should urge the United Nations to set up a "membership commission" to study the whole question of Chinese representation and report to the United Nations after a year.

Morse was not present when the Senate adopted its resolution on the subject.

He said he was as strongly opposed as anyone to recognition or U.N. membership. But, he said, the resolution ignored what he termed the key problem—a statement of U.S. policy.

"We've never made our case out in the open," he said. "We've made our case as an international lobbyist in preventing the issue from ever reaching the agenda."

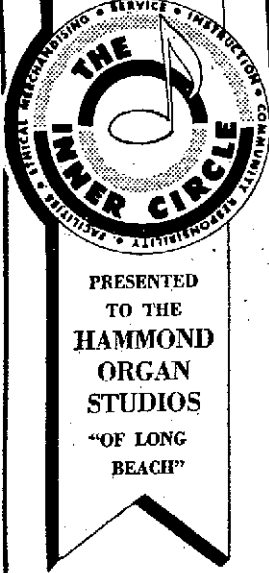

MORSE CALLED for the State Department to take an "offensive, affirmative" position and drop its present "negative" stand.

Spade Bows Out of Land Project

By GEORGE C. FLOWERS

BAKERSFIELD—Reporter's notebook at the Cooley trial:

Donnell (Spade) Cooley has resigned as president of Water Wonderland—$15,000,000 desert development project—according to Russ Kirsan, general manager.

He said Cooley's interest in Water Wonderland Corp. is being evaluated for settlement by lawyers. In the meantime, Kirsan declared, no successor to Cooley has been named. "The board of directors is running the corporation."

KIRSAN SAID Water Wonderland hired a firm of engineers to study its project (basically, to build a lake in the desert and sell lots around it. The engineers have found, he said, that Cooley's dikes didn't match—too high on one side or too low on the other. But, he said, the project will be finished.

Meanwhile, Cooley's name has been painted off all the signs in the Antelope Valley.

THE COOLEY family seems to have more trouble than its share.

While Spade is on trial for the murder of his wife, the rumors fly that his son, John, and the latter's wife, Barbara, are rifted—just waiting for the trial's end to announce a divorce application.

THE HOTTEST man in court last week had to be Gerold L. Enfield, vice president of Water Wonderland, and a longtime friend of Cooley.

In one of Mrs. Cooley's purported confessions, she implicated Dee Enfield (Gerold's wife) in an adventure with two men.

"I told Cooley that he had beaten that confession out of Ella Mae," he stormed from the stand.

And when defense counsel tried to impeach Enfield, Attorney P. Basil Lambros asked:

"Have you ever been convicted of a felony?"

Enfield turned purple. Finally he snorted: "Yes."

Turned out he stole 11 chickens back in Iowa when he was 16. In those days, under those laws, it was a felony. Enfield is 55 now.

MRS. VIRGINIA NELSON, attractive wife of Dist. Atty. Kit Nelson sits in the courtroom knitting, while her husband prosecutes.

"He needs a heavy sweater," she explains.

The sweater she's knitting will require 12 balls of yarn, says Mrs. Nelson, and she's been going through one a week.

THERE ARE just about 30 seats available for spectators at the Cooley trial. A latecomer tried Thursday to buy one for $10 but failed Friday morning, the line had formed at the courthouse by 5:45 a.m. Trial starts at 10.

SOMETIMES unusual questions provoke unusual answers. Defense counsel Lambros asked nurse Dorothy Davis if Easter Sunday (April 2) was like a "normal family" scene at the Cooley ranch.

"Well," said Miss Davis slowly, "first of all we talked about Ella Mae's confessions, and finally I asked him to compose me a song."

COOLEY WORKS nights, in his jail cell, on music, according to Lambros.

"Right now," says Lambros, "he's trying to perfect the song 'Thief.'"

This is the song Cooley allegedly wrote and dedicated to Clifton Davenport, whom Cooley says is the "other man."

STOCK in Water Wonderland originally sold for 60 cents a share. Now it is going for "between 30 and 40 cents." According to Lambros, the Cooley interest had 700,000 shares.

The transcript of testimony in the trial now totals over 1,000 typewritten pages. It requires two reporters, who spell each other, to keep it up to date. In addition, the trial is being recorded on tape.

According to one observer's records, the temperature has dropped below 100 degrees only once since the trial began July 10.

Present Cooley Tape at Trial Monday

BAKERSFIELD—The April 4, approximately nine state's case against Donnell (Spade) Cooley may be concluded Monday when his latest recording is played, Dist. Atty. Kit Nelson said Saturday.

The recording, however, is of a statement Cooley made to sheriff's investigators early in the morning of April 4.

COOLEY'S wife, Ella Mae, died on the night of April 3, according to medical testimony, and he is accused of beating and torturing her to death.

The state has spent 12 days in presenting the evidence with which it seeks to convict Cooley of first degree murder. If so convicted, Cooley would then come before Judge William L. Bradshaw and the jury of 10 men and two women for possible sentence of the death penalty.

NELSON has summoned Deputy Harmon Cooper for testimony Monday. Cooper interviewed Cooley at 3 a.m.

hours after the state said Mrs. Cooley was dead.

The tape recording contains "about an hour and a half" of conversation between Cooper and Cooley, Nelson said.

The Kern County sheriff's office has previously announced that the recording contains Cooley's allegations that his wife died as the result of a fall in the shower of their Water Wonderland ranch home and also received injuries when she leaped twice from a moving car.

DR. JOSEPH BODYSTONE, medical director of Kern County penal institutions, said Saturday that Cooley's health was satisfactory. Cooley suffered his sixth heart attack Thursday, causing court to recess for one session.

Since then, Bodystone said, Cooley has shown no signs of ill effect and, in the doctor's opinion, is able to continue with the trial.

FATE OF WORLD HANGS ON SPY SYSTEM

Intelligence Failure Could Bring War No One Wants

(Editor's Note: For both East and West, the current crisis over West Berlin is a gamble on the efficiency of intelligence services. Both countries maintain networks of agents and spent vast amounts of money, but the record shows that neither system is infallible.)

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—For men in high places a recurrent nightmare is watching the world stumble into a war nobody wants because of a breakdown in intelligence operations.

This is the basic danger in the present East-West crisis over West Berlin. Each side desperately needs an accurate assessment of the other's preparations and intent.

A look at the past record of intelligence operations in both Washington and Moscow is anything but reassuring, for a diplomat troubled by dreams of a holocaust.

The Cuban fiasco last April contributed spectacularly to a crisis in credibility apparently casting a vague shadow across current reports of the Central Intelligence Agency. There are older examples of miscalculation: A CIA chief reported to Congress there was no evidence of trouble in Korea two days before North Korean tanks rolled southward in 1950. Just two months ago the takeover by a Korean military junta apparently caught U. S. planners by surprise.

BUT THE CIA has no monopoly on mistakes. Since the end of World War II the Soviet intelligence apparatus apparently failed to detect the developing unrest in East Germany, Poland and Hungary. It completely underestimated the U. S. reaction to the Communist invasion of South Korea.

It apparently was caught off base again by the U. S. landing in Lebanon, in response to Soviet meddling in the Middle East. Last year the Soviets apparently misjudged Congolese willingness to swap Western Colonialism for the Communist variety. There even is some indication the ease of the Red takeover in Cuba surprised the Soviets.

Hazards of this lack of infallibility on both sides are enormously magnified by such a test of will as Berlin. In both Washington and Moscow, the key factor in decisions now being made is the way each intelligence service answers the crucial question: How determined is the other side? Miscalculation in this case, unlike Cuba or other fringe areas of partial commitment, could be disastrous.

THE UNITED STATES is a relative newcomer to large scale peacetime intelligence operations. The CIA was founded in 1947 to help furnish raw material for foreign policy decisions and prevent a second Pearl Harbor. From very small beginnings, the CIA is now a huge bureaucracy employing 10,000 to 12,000 people in Washington alone. It correlates, evaluates and distributes information gathered by 12 or more departments, agencies and technical services with total personnel estimated at somewhere between 20,000 and 30,000.

Appropriations are concealed in the budgets of other departments. The expenditure for foreign information work probably is around $1 billion annually, although lower estimates have been published.

Despite its hush-hush character, the CIA frequently lands in print. There have been a number of well-founded reports since 1948 that CIA agents have actively sought to overthrow three foreign governments—those of Iran, Guatemala and Cuba. The first two succeeded. There have been other published reports that CIA agents have appeared in public as advisers to governments in Laos and South Viet Nam.

WHILE CURRENTLY taking its licks and facing possible reorganization as the result of a special study ordered by President Kennedy after the abortive Cuban invasion, the CIA can cite many successes in its brief history. It correctly advised President Truman Russia would abandon a move against Greece and Turkey if American support for these countries was made emphatic. It was correct in predicting the United States could break the Berlin blockade without war.

Probably its greatest coup was obtaining a text of Premier Khrushchev's famous speech downgrading Joseph Stalin nearly two months before it was released by the Kremlin. Publication of the text before the Soviets had a chance to edit it virtually wrecked the Communist Party in the United States.

The Soviet Union maintains at least two major spy networks in every technically advanced nation.

THE OPERATIONS have been revealed by Soviet defectors and duly documented in public hearings.

First, and foremost is the network operated by the Committee on State Security (KGB) in Moscow which concerns itself with political intelligence.

The second net is that known as the Glavnoye Razvedatchnoye Upravleniye (GRU) which specializes in the collection of military intelligence.

At the moment the KGB, which has headquarters in the Machovaya district of Moscow, reportedly is headed by A. N. Shelepin, a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party and a member of the Foreign Affairs Commission of the Supreme Soviet.

THE KGB, WHICH was once known as the notorious MVD, Cheka, OGPU and GUGB, contains four directorates.

The first directorate corresponds roughly to the U. S. National Security Council in that it directs over-all operations and reports to the decision-makers.

The second directorate is the terrorist group and has no known counterpart in the western world.

The third and fourth directorates are concerned with collection of industrial and commercial information, including data on patents and new manufacturing methods.

The name of Lt. Gen. A. S. Panyushkin, former ambassador to the United States, is connected by the State Department's directory of Soviet officials to the KGB. Some people believe Panyushkin now heads the infamous second directorate.

THERE IS A subsection of the second directorate known as Division 9 which specializes in murder, kidnapping and blackmail for Soviet political purposes.

Division 9 operates not only in the Soviet Union but throughout the world. Division 9 has left a trail of murder for all to see.

Here are some examples selected at random: In December 1957 a Red Army sergeant, Anatoli Ponomarenko, deserted and ultimately reached England where he went to work for an emigre group writing anti-Soviet pamphlets.

After 70 days in England a middle-aged woman, posing as a refugee, apparently doped the sergeant's food and he woke up in the Soviet Embassy.

THE SOVIET Embassy insisted he had felt remorseful and wanted to go home. Sgt. Ponomarenko was spirited out of England sometime between March 14-18, 1959.

In September 1959 one of the West's more valuable Russian defectors, Nikolai Khokhlov, was admitted to a Frankfurt, Germany, hospital suffering a form or arsenic poisoning.

Khokhlov knew about such things. He had been a member of Division 9. The poison was identified ultimately as a relatively rare compound which could be absorbed through the skin.

Khokhlov had defected to the West after being sent to Germany to assassinate Georgi Okolovich, a leading member of an anti-Soviet refugee group in West Berlin. Khokhlov said he was to have killed Okolovich with a poison-tipped bullet fired from a harmless-looking cigarette case. He had the case to support his story.

IN DECEMBER 1959, police officials in Munich, Germany, finally attributed three murders since 1954 to Russian agents from the terrorist group. The three:

On Nov. 11, 1954, ex-Soviet Army Major Abdul Ratalibev was knifed in broad daylight on a busy street. He was broadcasting for Radio Liberation, an anti-Soviet station.

On Oct. 15, 1959, a man identified only as "Bandera"—Ukrainian for fighter—was found dead of poison on the threshold of his apartment. He led an organization which carried out clandestine operations behind the Iron Curtain.

In that same year a Slovak emigre leader, Marcus Cernak, opened a registered parcel at the Munich post office. It exploded, killing Cernak and a woman bystander.

It is only rarely that these political murders come to light for there are those in the Western world who hold that to publicize them contributes to their terrorist effect.

THERE IS ONE known case of Division 9's activities in the United States—the death of Maj. Gen. Walter Krivitsky, who defected in 1936 to escape the great purge by Premier Joseph Stalin.

For five years Krivitsky remained in hiding, but on Feb. 10, 1941, just two days before he was to testify before Congress, the general was found dead in a hotel room here. There is still a mystery about the cause of death.

The list of murders laid at the doorstep of Division 9 is long and includes Czechoslovakia's Tan Masaryk and the assassination of Leon Trotsky in Mexico.

The details and operations of the Soviet espionage and intelligence systems are known throughout the Western world as a result of the defections of Igor Gouzenko, a Russian Embassy code clerk, in Canada in 1946, and that of Vladimir Petrov, a KGB member and third secretary at the Russian Embassy in Australia in 1956.

THERE HAVE been a host of other defections.

In 1960 U. S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter estimated the number of States next spring.

also attacked "whippers-up of the cold war," "militarist, revenge-seeking, neo-Fascist organizations," and "West Berlin radio stations and publications"—all engaged, according to the statement, in trying to hold back the peaceful Socialist development of East Germany.

It said they must be "subdued and made powerless."

Refugees reaching West Berlin are now flown out from West Berlin's airport.

The statement issued by the Communist regime said any East German who helps the refugees helps those who are "preparing the murder of brothers and the murder of peoples." It appealed to all its citizens "to help arrest the traders in human beings and bring them to their righteous punishment."

The Communist statement

Soviet agents at large in the world at about 300,000. This figure includes between 10,000 and 12,000 master agents working outside the Soviet Union.

Since World War II some 360 individuals in 11 nations have been convicted of espionage for the Soviet Union, including 13 in the United States.

On May 13, 1960, the German federal republic reported that over 18,300 persons had been arrested in eight years in connection with Soviet spy operations.

Over the past 10 years, too, 48 Soviet officials have been expelled from non-Communist nations for espionage and subversion.

WHILE THESE numbers may sound impressive, they represent only a tiny fraction of the numbers engaged.

The five to six million Communists living outside the Iron Curtain nations are all potential agents and agitators, and the Soviets make free use of them.

The Communists, of course, do not have a complete advantage. The Western nations have potential agents among the millions of disillusioned living behind the Iron Curtain.

Even the Soviet Union itself is not immune. Only 48 per cent of the USSR's population is comprised of Great Russians. The nation for the most part consists of 40 separate nationalities.

Some of these nationalities—the Ukrainians, for example—have strong nationalist undergrounds seeking to overthrow Soviet rule.

IN MUNICH, Germany, alone there are 110 Iron Curtain refugee organizations with contacts in Communist-held territory.

In brief, the Soviet Union's intelligence network is large and ruthless, but there is no indication anywhere that it possesses political infallibility.

Indeed, its record in judging Western reaction to a direct challenge is one which should give the Kremlin pause from time to time as the chances of war are weighed.

Japan Ballet Tours

TOKYO (AP)—A leading Japanese ballet group, the Komaki ballet team, plans an eight-week tour of the United States next spring.

E. Germans Urged to Check Refugees

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany's Communist regime Saturday called on its citizens to help stem the tide of refugees fleeing to the West.

It asserted that young women who had sought "adventure" in the West "have found themselves going downhill because of the lack of public morality in West Germany."

An official statement said such women may wind up in brothels and that many young male refugees had been pressed into the French Foreign Legion.

The tone of the statement contrasted with the usual weekend rush of refugees into West Berlin. Authorities expected the official count for the month to exceed 30,000, the highest level since the East German anti-Communist revolt in June, 1953.

East Germany also announced construction of a new 3,960-yard runway for jet planes at Schoenefeld Airfield, the terminal outside East Berlin where they seek to divert West Berlin's air traffic.

Refugees reaching West Berlin are now flown out from West Berlin's airport.

The statement issued by the Communist regime said any East German who helps the refugees helps those who are "preparing the murder of brothers and the murder of peoples." It appealed to all its citizens "to help arrest the traders in human beings and bring them to their righteous punishment."

Truman Praises JFK, Hits Russian 'Bluff' on Berlin

LITTLE FALLS, Minn. (AP)

Former President Harry Truman, who won his own Berlin showdown in 1948-49, said Saturday the Russians are bluffing.

Truman said Russia is too scared of Red China to risk war.

He said President Kennedy's address last week called their bluff.

"That was what it was for, that's what it did," he said.

Truman spoke to newsmen while at Camp Ripley, the Minnesota National Guard camp, to review his old World War I outfit, the 35th Infantry Division of Missouri and Kansas national guardsmen.

Truman took a 21-gun salute on arrival then trooped the line of the 8,000-man unit at Truman Day ceremonies

Saturday.

He, his cousin, retired Maj. Gen. Ralph Truman, former commander of the division, and the general's son, Maj. Gen. Louis Truman, Continental Army Command Headquarters, were principals in the ceremony.

At his news conference, Truman recalled the Berlin crisis in 1948 in which he responded with the Berlin airlift.

He said, "the Russians are the greatest bluffers in the history of the world. When their bluff is called they quit. Their bluff has been called by President Kennedy's speech.

"All we need to do is show them we mean business."

"Russia is scared to death of what's behind her (Red China)."

The Truman reunion came by accident when Gen. Louis Truman was selected to present the new 50-star and army flags being given this year to all National Guard units.

Division authorities decided to invite both the ex-President and ex-commander and two other Truman cousins, Fred and J. C. Truman of Kansas City.

It was the first time Louis Truman had visited his father or the ex-president in three years.

New Law Protects L.A. Market Carts

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A city ordinance making the removal of shopping carts from the premises of grocery stores punishable by a six-month jail term and/or a $500 fine will go into effect Thursday.

The law makes it a misdemeanor to "remove any shopping cart, shopping basket or other similar device from the premises or parking area of any business establishment."

U.S. Stiffens European Air Force Units

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—The Air Force is bolstering the strength of its European bases with weekly flights of supersonic F105 Thunderchiefs.

Some details of Operation High Flight were disclosed Saturday by the Mobile Air Materiel Area Command at Brookley Air Force Base. The command is charged with prime logistic responsibility for the Thunderchief.

The stubby winged F105s fly nonstop to Bitburg, Germany, from where they are distributed as replacements for the F100 Super Sabers, long the backbone of the Tactical Air Command.

The flights take 9½ hours and the speedy 105s are refueled by aerial tankers over the Atlantic.

The number of planes in the weekly flights was not disclosed.

ELECTRONIC GOVERNOR
Demonstration device mounted on test car by inventor Norman L. Kellogg of Garden Grove is electrically-activated governor for carburetor and the braking system of cars he said could be controlled by roadway wires. His plan of car-automation was offered to nation.—(Staff photo.)

GIVEN TO NATION Highway Guide for Autos Set

By BOB GEIVET
GARDEN GROVE—Inventor Norman L. Kellogg Saturday made available to the nation his patented system of laying electronic-guidance wires in pavement, and automating vehicles so they can be controlled by radio and radar.
His offer was in response to the government's announcement that it plans a $50 million experiment in automating 100 miles of highways.
Kellogg developed a machine for laying the stranded wire in pavement; there would be a sensor, a thermo-heater wire and a guidance line. Wired beams, seven-eighths of an inch high would be laid to receive signals to control speed of vehicles.
ON EACH CAR or truck would be what Kellogg described as a "simple" device to pick up radio impulses from the roadway wires. These would control speed through carburetor governors activated automatically.
Each traffic lane could be so wired; vehicles traveling those lanes would be governed automatically as to speed, even if they changed lanes.
Kellogg said that it would eliminate the somewhat common practice of lane-changing and speedups on the major arteries.

A SERIES of lights, set into an instrument-board panel, would be activated by the vehicle's speed.
Controls of speed in each lane could be pre-set by traffic authorities.
The lights would flash to warn the driver, and his carburetor governor would be activated if he sought to exceed the stated speed; so would his brakes. A solenoid on the vehicle brake system's master cylinder would be activated at the same time.
Under Kellogg's plan, the automation would "take over" at pre-set speeds, such as 20 miles per hour. Leaving automated highways would be no problem; the vehicle's steering, carburetion and braking system would work normally, he said.
KELLOGG got his final basic patent in 1959 for the machine to lay the control wires. He said it can install the controls for 33 cents a foot, paving five miles per hour.
Radio-radar units for vehicles would cost from $50 to $75, and be interchangeable from one unit to another, he explained.
Besides such automation for highways, Kellogg said it would be possible to use his system on parking lots and in warehouses or other large installations.
More than one manufacturer is interested in his plans, he declared.
PAUL HARDEMAN Stanton electronics plant head, is dickering to try the system on parking lots. This would be on a limited scale. Ford Motor Co wrote him that, if the government requires, it would be "first" to install the gear.
The wiry 56-year-old inventor who claims 40 years of "tinkering" including rockets, missiles controls and electronic rays, said his plan is "wide open" to all manufacturers.
It would be a "bonanza" for them, he said, disclaiming any desire to control his own plan.
"The important thing is that it will save lives," he explained. "And it will work."
Mexico Increases Fish Catch in 1960
MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Mexican fishing industry increased its catch last year by 20 per cent to 206,370 tons, the government reports. Of the catch, 39,776 tons of shrimp were sent to the United States.

CRIPPLE WALKS AFTER TRIP TO SHRINE

Girl Reports Miracle at Lourdes

By ANTHONY AUSTIN
MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UPI)—Two weeks ago Anne-Emilia Spaiani, 25, was resigned to the life of a cripple. A highway accident injured her leg a year ago. She could walk only when she wore a cast and with the aid of two walking sticks. She limped badly.
Today she walks unaided, with no cast and only the slightest limp. She believes firmly she has been healed by a miracle at Lourdes.
The Bureau of Medical Verification at that place of pilgrimage will look into her case. It will take at least a year to decide whether a miracle has taken place. But Miss Spaiani is sure she is right. And many people of Monaco share her conviction.

ON JULY 2 Anne went to Lourdes with this year's Monegasque pilgrimage of 200 persons.
On July 5, at 8:45 p.m., while sitting on her bed in the Hospital of Notre Dame des Sept Douleurs in Lourdes she said to a woman in the next bed: "My head is swimming..."

ANNE WAS born in Genoa, Italy, to a family of modest means. During World War II, her father was in the Italian resistance. He was caught and executed and his wife was deported to Nazi Germany, where she died in a concentration camp. Anne was placed in an orphanage in Genoa.
After the war her sister had occasion to visit France, and in the village of Cap d'Ail, just over the border of the principality of Monaco, she met and married a Frenchman, an electrician named Barrera. Six years ago Anne came to join them. She went to work in a factory in Monaco and she became engaged.
On June 24, 1960, she and her fiancé, Charles Galliano, 26, were on their way up into the mountains on his motor scooter to visit Charles' relatives in the village of La Turbie. On the way there was a bad accident. Both were taken to the Saint Roch first aid hospital in Nice.

CHARLES, WITH a severe head injury, died after being in a coma for about three months. Anne had an open fracture of her left ankle. Surgery was performed. Then complications set in.
According to what is known publicly of her medical history, the ankle condition affected the nerves of her left leg, putting on them, and thus causing a displacement of the hip bone, which in turn caused a shortening of the leg. Anne was not able to walk, except when her leg was in a special cast, and with the aid of crutches. Because she needed longer treatment, she was transferred to the Pasteur Hospital in Nice and, three months later, to the Poly-clinique de Princess Grace in Monaco to be nearer her family. There she stayed for five and a half months, her condition getting no better. She was able to dispense with crutches but had to use two canes to walk—with a painful limp.

The next morning Anne got up all by herself, washed and dressed, and went to mass at the Grotto de Massabielle.

where, Roman Catholics believe, the Virgin Mary appeared to Saint Bernadette 102 years ago.
The next day, July 7, the Monegasque pilgrimage returned to Monaco. When the train arrived at the station, Anne got off unaided and was taken to the Polyclinique de Princess Grace for a medical examination.
Seven doctors of the hospital performed tests, made her mount steps, kneel, stand on tiptoe. They took X-ray shots. Tuesday, July 11, Anne, who up to then could wear only slippers, left the hospital wearing high-heel shoes.

The doctors who examined her have said nothing beyond indicating unofficially that a "distinct amelioration" had taken place. They are preparing a full report, which will be sent to the Bureau of Medical Verification in Lourdes.

Denies Nevada Militia Would Repulse Southern Californians

LAS VEGAS (UPI)—A Las Vegas Civil Defense official Saturday denied that a 5,000-man militia "organized along infantry lines" would be formed merely to protect local residents against Southern Californians in the event of a nuclear war.

J. Carlton Adair said the force would be used to "protect, law, order and property."

"We couldn't want to shoot down Southern Californians or anybody else," he told United Press International, "but we would not let anybody loot our property — no matter who they might be."

Adair was quoted by five sources as telling a Civil Defense luncheon attended by 400 persons that in the event of a nuclear war "a million or more persons might stream into this area from Southern California."

"THEY COULD come in like a swarm of human locusts," he said, "and pick the valley clean of food, medical supplies and other goods. Our law enforcement agencies are not numerically equipped to handle such an influx of humanity so we have drawn up plans for a militia."

Adair said Saturday that the statement was correct — except that he did not recall using the word locust.

"We're not forming the militia to repulse anybody unless it is to protect our lives and property," he said.

The problem is, he said, with the remainder of the million persons that might come here across the state line.

"IF WE AREN'T hit as hard as Southern California," Adair said, "we would do all we could to help them. We would try to provide fuel and supplies so that they could go on through the state and into the Midwest.

"But at the same time we are charged with the responsibility of preserving lives and protecting our property. We all know that some of the evacuees are going to use any means to insure their survival instead of ours — no matter if they come from Southern California or some place else."

Trade Journals Reflect Trends

By LOU JOBST

The trade, shipping and technical maritime journals, rarely read by the man on the street, provide a different view (if you're looking for one) of the international scene. Take these familiar topics:

FARM SURPLUS—The coffee surplus this year will be 18 million bags, nearly 50 percent over the worldwide consumption of 44 million bags, the Foreign Agriculture Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports.

INTOURIST—A federal tourist agency, with an annual budget of $4.7 million, has been established within the U.S. Commerce Department.

YANKEE IMPERIALISM—The Colca Cola Co. has opened three more bottling plants in Spain, bringing to 11 the number of plants situated in major Spanish cities.

REDS RAISE SPECTER OF WEST—The Red Chinese government is using the people's historic superstition and fear of ghosts to prove the Chinese have nothing to fear from western countries. One ghost story in a new government collection deals with the situation in Laos and the central character (Chinese proletarian) upon meeting the Yankee ghost identifies himself as a ghost and gets the Yankee ghost to carry him, wearing out the ghost and leaving him to the mercy of Chinese adversary.

DEBT CEILING—Debts of Latin American importers to U.S. exporters in 14 of 23 nations rose $900,000 in June to a record (I.O.U.) total of $220,700,000.

REFUGEES—Stating "world emergencies have become a permanent thing," R. Dean Goodwin, spokesman of the Baptist World Alliance, announced the organization, put to work on a temporary "year or two basis" in 1947, has become a permanent agency for handling refugees to U.S.

ANGLO-AMERICAN ALLIANCE—While American trade with the Soviet bloc fell to a 13 year low last year, British business with the "Iron Curtain" camp took a sharp upturn. English sales to communist countries are up 33 per cent. U.S. imports from the communist nations fell from $235 million in 1948 to $83 million last year; exports have fallen from $397 million to $193 million in the same period.

INVESTIGATE TRANSPORTATION INDUSTRY—The California Public Utilities Commission has ordered a major investigation of all phases of the transportation industry—trucking, shipping, rail and air—in the state. Some 14,820 carriers have been called as respondents. The investigation is a fact-finding one to determine if and what new regulations and laws are needed.

Gagarin Lands at Brasilia for Official Visit

BRASILIA (UPI)—Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin arrived here Saturday for an official visit as guest of the Brazilian government.

Gagarin flew here from Cuba with an overnight stop at Curacao in the Netherlands Antilles.

He was received at the airfield by Foreign Minister Afonso Arinos, representing President Janio Quadros, and by Air Minister Grun Moss and Education Minister Brigidio Tinoco.

As the big Ilyushin plane touched down hundreds of Brazilians invaded the airfield to get a closer look at the Soviet hero.

Five Germans Freeze to Death in Alps

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Five German tourists froze to death near Austria's tallest mountain peak, police reported Saturday. This brought to 42 the unofficial death toll in the Austrian Alps this season.

The German climbers sought to scale the 12,400-foot-high Grossglockner Peak by way of the difficult Stuedl Ridge Friday and were caught in a raging snowstorm.

List New Books at Library

Recent additions to the Long Beach Public Library collections on American history and biography include these titles, according to Blanche Collins, city librarian:

"The Good Years: From 1900 to the First World War," by Walter Lord; "Historic Decade, 1950-1960," editors of Year, Inc.; "The Great Epidemic," documenting the influenza epidemic of 1918, by A. A. Hoehling; "The Politics of Upheaval," volume three of Arthur Schlesinger's "The Age of Roosevelt" series.

Other new acquisitions: "The American Heritage Picture History of the Civil War," edited by Bruce Catton; R. Ernest Dupuy's "The Compact History of the Civil War," Arch. Whitehouse's "The Years of the War Birds," the story of the men and planes of World War II; Louis Snyder's "The War: A Concise History, 1939-1945; Fletcher Knebel's "No High Ground," an account of the bombing of Hiroshima, and "The Taste of Courage," edited by Desmond Flower.

Some recent biographies available: "The Man Who Rode the Thunder," by William Rankin, a personal story of the military jet pilot who survived the highest non-pressure suit ejection on record; "John Paul Jones," by Samuel Eliot Morison; "Man of Reason," the life of Thomas Paine, by Alfred Aldridge, and "I, Benedict Arnold; The Anatomy of Treason," by Cornel Lengyel.

Highland Park Mother Booked in Baby's Death

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mrs. Gloria Verdugo, 20, of Highland Park, was booked Saturday on suspicion of murdering her 8-month-old son.

The housewife told detectives the baby, Edward Anthony Verdugo, began holding his breath.

She said she slapped her son's face to make him stop and the youngster ceased breathing.

BUILT BEST MODEL CAR

Benny Bonniwell, 12, of 1325 E. Hill St., built a first place winning model of the Black Widow Model T in the junior division of the contest sponsored by Bob's Hobbies-Crafts. More than 100 persons, ages 6 to 29, entered the contest. Models are on display at 2226 E. Fourth St.

$1,000 REWARD

Houston's Silver Set Is Sought

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A $1,000 reward was offered today for the return of the silver service of the heavy cruiser Houston.

The offer was made by Lloyd Gregory, chairman of the battleship Texas Commission.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz of Berkeley, Calif., and Adm. S. M. Robinson of Houston have been trying to locate the silver.

"They have reason to believe the service was put ashore at Manila early in 1942," Gregory said.

This would have been before the Houston was sunk by the Japanese on March 1, 1942.

Gregory said the silver, if located, would become an important exhibit in a shrine aboard the battleship Texas, permanently berthed at the San Jacinto battleground near Houston. The shrine was established by the survivors of the first cruiser Houston.

JFK No-Strike Drive Faces Trouble at Vandenberg

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg prepared Saturday to relay a new plea from President Kennedy for non-strike work at key missile bases during the Berlin crisis.

Goldberg plans to emphasize the critical world situation to union officials, government contractors and rank-and-file workers during a flying tour next week.

Unions and companies involved in building and operating the nation's ICBM installations already have given no-strike, no-lockout guarantees to the President. But the tour by Goldberg and some members of the 11-man Missile Sites Labor Commission is designed to underline White House insistence on uninterrupted and economical production at the bases.

The labor secretary Monday plans to fly first to Cape Canaveral, Fla., site of the U.S. astronauts' launchings, for a survey of labor-management relations.

From Florida, his group will fly in an Air Force jet to Strategic Air Command headquarters.

Gen. Anders Fined

LONDON (UPI)—Gen. Wladyslaw Anders was fined five pounds ($14) and banned from driving for a month after pleading guilty Saturday to careless driving which resulted in a minor accident. Anders was wartime commander in chief of Free Polish forces in Britain.

quarters near Omaha, Neb., for a briefing on America's strike-back power in case of war.

Commission members may run into trouble at Vandenberg Air Force Base, next stop on their itinerary.

About 125 civilian security guards have threatened to strike the West Coast missile center over a reported 45-cent hourly wage cut by their employer.

A spokesman for the guards said the walkout would be timed to coincide with the arrival of the Goldberg commission.

The final stop on the cross-country tour will be at Mountain Home Air Force Base, Idaho, where facilities to launch the titan Inter-continental missile are being constructed.

The President established the commission after disclosure of overtime abuses and slowdowns on missile base work were made by the Senate investigations subcommittee.

The commission recently handed down its first decision in a long-standing feud between two unions over cable-laying work. It ordered the unions—the Operating Engineers and the Electricians—to divide the work.

Peace Corps Work for 'Over 65s' Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—The president of the National Council on the Aging Saturday asked the Peace Corps to open its programs to persons over 65 years of age.

Sargent Shriver, Peace Corps director,

"Who is better qualified to teach welding to unskilled persons than a person who has been a welder all his life?" Shriver asked.

uninterrupted and economical production at the bases.

The labor secretary Monday plans to fly first to Cape Canaveral, Fla., site of the U.S. astronauts' launchings, for a survey of labor-management relations.

From Florida, his group will fly in an Air Force jet to Strategic Air Command headquarters near Omaha, Neb., for a briefing on America's strike-back power in case of war.

Commission members may run into trouble at Vandenberg Air Force Base, next stop on their itinerary.

About 125 civilian security guards have threatened to strike the West Coast missile center over a reported 45-cent hourly wage cut by their employer.

A spokesman for the guards said the walkout would be timed to coincide with the arrival of the Goldberg commission.

The final stop on the cross-country tour will be at Mountain Home Air Force Base, Idaho, where facilities to launch the titan Inter-continental missile are being constructed.

The commission recently handed down its first decision in a long-standing feud between two unions over cable-laying work. It ordered the unions—the Operating Engineers and the Electricians—to divide the work.

The President established the commission after disclosure of overtime abuses and slowdowns on missile base work were made by the Senate investigations subcommittee.

Peace Corps Work for 'Over 65's Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—The president of the National Council on the Aging Saturday asked the Peace Corps to open its programs to persons over 65 years of age.

"A large number of our 17 million persons over 65 still have the pioneering spirit that made this country strong," G. Warfield Hobbs of New York City wrote to R.

Sargent Shriver, Peace Corps director.

"Who is better qualified to teach welding to unskilled persons than a person who has been a welder all his life?" Hobbs asked.

Gen. Anders Fined

LONDON (AP)—Gen. Wladyslaw Anders was fined five pounds ($14) and banned from driving for a month after pleading guilty Saturday to careless driving which resulted in a minor accident.

Anders was wartime commander in chief of Free Polish forces in Britain.

BEACH COMING

THE FIRE that menaced the local YMCA camp at Big Bear Lake last week-end was pretty frightening, but there were some plus results.

For one thing, it gave an opportunity for trying out the fire drill program on which the lads had been briefed when they arrived in camp. When the siren sounded the youths broke up into groups of eight, each with an adult counselor. Evacuation to the designated point was quickly accomplished and all gear was moved to a safe place. It was a realistic fire drill and it was a success.

The event also demonstrated the neighborliness and good spirit of people of Big Bear. Some 150 Lakewood boys had to be evacuated from camp. The Big Bear education board sent buses and the youths were taken to the town, where they were housed by the American Legion. Townspeople were quick to offer all sorts of assistance.

The Camp Oakes boys never missed a meal. When the fire got within 500 feet of camp, it was after dinner. They were back and everything was going fine by breakfast time the next morn.

A LETTER appealing to the free enterprise instincts of her son was intercepted by Darlene Cullivan of Long Beach the other day.

It suggested the boy sell Christmas cards door to door. Enclosed was a no-postage-needed card to send for samples so parents need not know of the deal. It was a chance, the letter said, to put hands on a lot of cash without waiting for Christmas or digging into the weekly allowance.

Mrs. Cullivan doubts if the boy could make a good selling pitch or could make change if he happened to effect a sale. He happens to be just three years old.

"Please read every word of this letter," said the mis-sive. Young Cullivan can't read one word, yet.

SOME good words today for a Long Beach life-guard and a Long Beach policeman.

Dorothy Denton's 11-year-old daughter was badly cut in an accident at the beach. She reports that a lifeguard, whose name she forgot to obtain, did such a good emergency job on the wounds that the doctor, to whom she took Connie, declared it looked as if she had had expert medical attention already.

The policeman up for kudos is Ray Barnhart, a motorcycle officer. He found a ticket in the lobby at the Miss IBC affair the other night and made a search for the owner. Presently he discovered an elderly lady who appeared to be distressed. He inquired, and learned her trouble. She had lost her ticket. People standing around got a real thrill out of her show of happiness and relief when Barnhart handed it over.

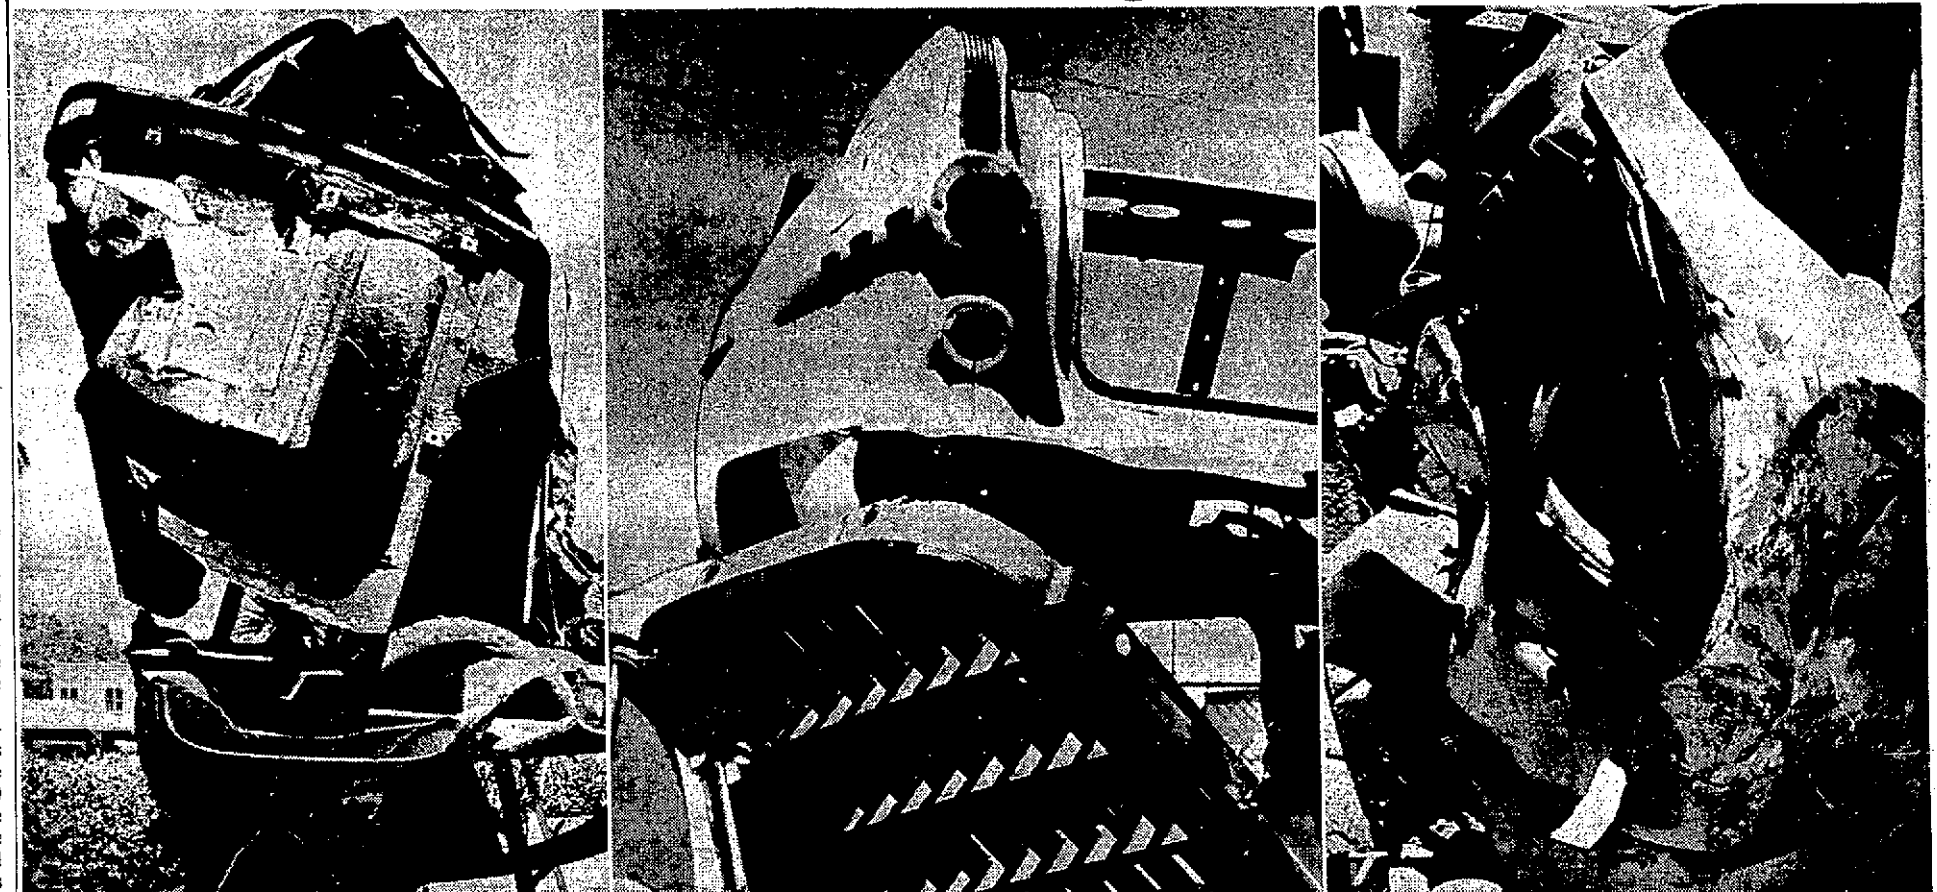

THERE are more deer hunters in the local population than you might suspect, and here's word of a public service for them.

Sgt. Bob Shaw, range master at the police pistol range, 7090 E. Carson St., has arranged for them to "zero in" their rifles, 8:30 to 3:30, on weekdays the coming week. This is in advance of the coastal deer season opening Aug. 5. He plans another such service before the inland season Sept. 23.

Hunters should bring their own ammo. A small range fee is charged, according to Bro. Shaw, who is sure deer hunters read this column.

Bixby Park shuffleboarders entertained San Diego a few days ago, will meet Pasadena soon. And Recreation Park lawn bowlers staged a tournament last week from throughout California. The senior athletes are having a summer of it!

School of Primitive Sculptors Discovered

New Board for Civic League

A long time community organization, the Long Beach Civic League, received a "shot in the arm" this week with the announcement of the appointment of an entire new board of directors under the direction of Dr. Thomas Kiddie, president.

Serving with Kiddie as vice president will be Marvin Tinsler, James A. Edmonds, Lionel Dyck Jr. and Clark F. Story. Filling the position of Secretary is Robert A. Wenke. Morris Hayter serves as treasurer of the revamped organization.

Speaking of the re-organization of the Civic League, Dr. Kiddie said, "A city the size of Long Beach has a definite need for a community organization such as the Civic League. We have neglected the important areas of local taxation, government economy and civic participation for too long a period of time."

"IT IS THE AIM and desire of the League to fill this void for the citizens of Long Beach and provide them with a proper organization that will represent their views before our local governmental agencies. With a history of positive action for progress for our city, the Civic League is now embarking on an aggressive program of united citizen effort to promote a forward looking plan for Long Beach," Kiddie said.

"We encourage all citizens to join with the Civic League in our attempt to effect tax economies, planned growth and progress, and efficiency and economy of operation in our local government. League membership is open to any local citizen interested in developing a sound progressive community," said Kiddie.

COMPLETING the roster of new board members are Dr. Myrvia Elsted, Donald G. Gill, W. W. Lorbeer, N. L. McLaughlin, Robert D. Powell, Don F. Pratt, Richard Shelley and Oliver W. Speraw.

The League's program is already underway in that several members are presently serving on special committees studying such issues as a new City Charter, Public Library bond issue, Music and Art Center issues and general civic development under the City's Master Plan.

The Civic League downtown office is located at 601 Pacific Ave.

Mail Volume Up

The volume of Long Beach mail increased by 6 per cent in the four-week period ending July 21, compared to the like period of a year ago. But Postmaster George J. McMillin said receipts declined 4.5 per cent, a drop of $16,905.

Group of Anonymous Primitives Flourish on W. Anaheim Street

By GEORGE ERES

Exhibit at the Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., of metal sculpture of auto parts, has brought to light a group of Long Beach primitives in the field of metal sculpting. Artistic value of the Long Beach group, a select few doing their work out on West Anaheim Street, was not genuinely recognized by the general public heretofore.

A previous City Council, composed heavily of art lovers, however, was aware of their value and decided to nurture their craft by stringently prohibiting any ad-

Hunt for Natural Gas Reservoir Continues

Engineers Rule Out Port Site

By GEORGE WEEKS

City officials are turning inland in their search for a leakproof underground formation that will serve as a natural reservoir for a reserve gas supply for use during periods of peak household demand.

Under study by the City Council's Harbor, Industries and Oil Committee is an engineering report virtually ruling out such a storage program in a harbor-district section of the Wilmington Field.

After months of analysis, James A. Lewis Engineering Co., Dallas, reported that the 237 Zone, Fault Block IV-D, is not pressure-competent—meaning that gas injected there for storage and reuse would probably move away into other zones and fault blocks. It had been considered the most promising formation in the harbor area.

On the basis of the report, City Manager John R. Mansell recommended that search for a competent reservoir move in other directions—specifically toward the Airport Field developed by Texaco, Inc.

A MEETING with Texaco officials has been scheduled for early next month for the purpose of initiating a new study, Mansell said.

The Lewis report, ordered by the city at an estimated cost of $10,000, concentrated on the formation between the Edison Fault and the Harbor Entrance Fault.

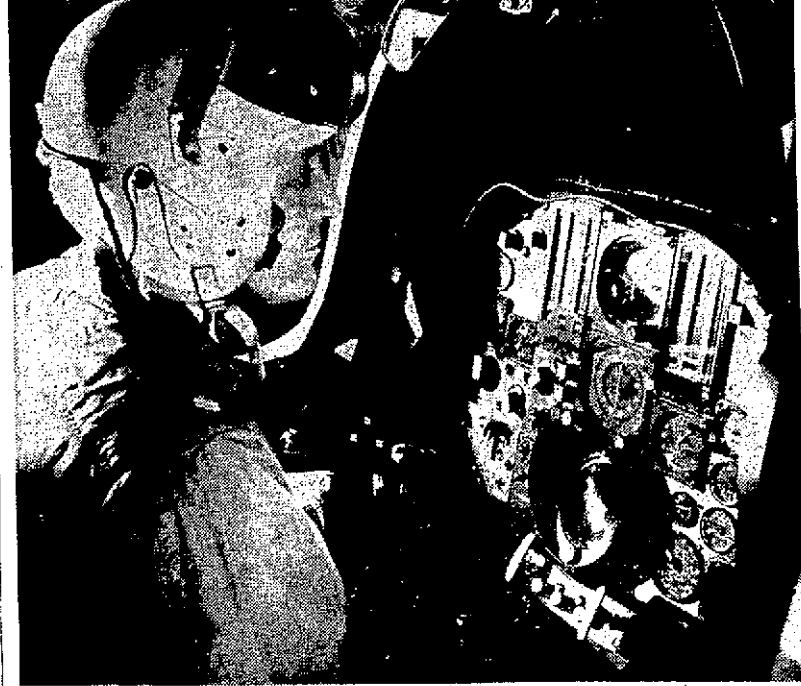

It found that the Edison Fault was incompetent. Some decline in gas pressure and drainage of oil had occurred there even prior to development, the engineers reported.

GAS DEPARTMENT officials have recommended the underground storage technique as one way of assuring the city of a month's reserve supply.

One-man crews of the Tactical Air Command's front-line F105D fighter bombers—pilot, navigator, gunner and bombardier rolled into one—now are being trained to operate the complex aircraft under flight conditions without taking the supersonic plane off the ground.

The first of seven flight simulators, each costing $1,300,000, was unveiled for newsmen at Nellis Air Force Base Las Vegas last week.

Build by ACF Industries in Riverdale, Md., the simulator is designed to reproduce not only actual flight conditions in a sealed cockpit on the ground, but also to develop the same kind of emergencies the Republic aircraft might

EDITORIAL

Yes, This Country Has the Money for Bomb Shelters

THERE ARE DAYS WHEN the editorial comment is written in the news, itself, and we merely have to associate the proper stories with one another.

Thus, an item from Washington contains the question:

Can Congress be induced to provide money for bomb shelters for the American people in this time of crisis?

PROVIDING IRONIC COMMENTARIES on that item are two other Washington stories reporting:

One, that the administration's farm bill had sailed through the House of Representatives with little opposition, assuring the spending of more multi-millions of tax dollars on a farm program that has long since proven to be a stupendous error of economics.

Two, that the House education and labor committee had approved a $263 million program to re-train workers who have failed to keep pace with technological changes.

Still a third item arrives from New Delhi. It reports that the U.S. government has made available to a private Indian firm two loans totaling $2,300,000 for completing and equipping a 350-room, air conditioned hotel.

THE WORKER-TRAINING BILL, alone, carries a price tag that would more than cover everything that President Kennedy has asked for shelter purposes.

The yearly handout to the farmer would put a fallout shelter in every back yard in America.

The $2,300,000 New Delhi loan would provide protection for one good-sized town.

What is more, there would be plenty left over to sponsor the franking privileges and the unnecessary junkets of government officials.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY speaks of the sacrifices required in the name of national defense. A casual look around is sufficient to assure one that the knife can be thrust a good distance into the national fat without encountering bone or sinew.

This nation doesn't have to sacrifice its luxuries in order to support national defense. It can get rid of a fraction of its utterly foolish spending and still enjoy luxurious living while maintaining the strongest defenses in the world.

3 Magic Number in Foreign Aid Debate

By ROBERT E. LEE AND WILLIAM BROOM
WASHINGTON—The magic number to watch for when Congress starts debate next week on a long-term foreign aid bill is three.

That is the number of years influential House Republicans are willing to go for in providing the long-term authorization President Kennedy says is necessary to make foreign aid work properly. But the White House is not yet ready to throw in the sponge on its request for a five-year program.

A small group of GOP members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee recently called at the White House and presented in writing amendments to the bill that they thought could attract enough Republican support for House passage. Terms of the memorandum were declined—also in writing. But the GOP proposals are close to what some White House insiders are prepared to accept if the going gets really rough.

The GOP congressmen said outright that a three-year program had a reasonably good chance of getting through the House, but President Kennedy said five years are necessary. The Republicans also proposed that a huge revolving fund be set up to handle foreign development loans. It was their answer to conservative objections that Mr. Kennedy's proposal would require the House to abdicate its responsibility for making annual appropriations. The Republicans even offered to take all strings off the $300 million in Marshall Plan and other loans which are annually repaid, and allow this to be thrown into the foreign aid kitty.

The GOP revolving fund proposal was close to a similar plan advanced by a Democratic member of their committee, Rep. William Moorhead of Pennsylvania. It drew some Democratic support.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY of Labor Jerry Holleman, who comes from Texas, went back home to make a speech last night praising the administration for many things, including frank speech. Then Holleman himself laid it on the line:

"Before this Congress goes home, we will have taken the first step in President Kennedy's program to advance the well-being of all Americans—with the help of Divine Providence and the right number of votes." He might have added that a fast outfield would be helpful, too.

THE INTENSELY serious attitude of the President toward the Berlin situation was underlined Tuesday night when he made his radio-television address to the nation. Invariably on such occasions in the past Kennedy has managed to find time for a pleasant word or so to the small group of correspondents chosen by lot to sit in his office while the cameras grind. Tuesday, however, he strode in purposefully and without a word, read his speech, remarked to no one in particular that it was hot and left without saying hello or even nodding to anybody.

Berlin Tensions Sidetrack Conflict-of-Interest Issue

WASHINGTON—So much attention has been focused on the Berlin crisis, both by President Kennedy and the public, that one of his great issues in the campaign—conflicts of interest—has been neglected.

However, not a few interesting ones have been taking place—some quite legal, which Kennedy can't do anything about; others not so legal. Here are some which the public might be interested in knowing about.

DR. SHANE MCCARTHY, former director of President Eisenhower's Youth Fitness Council, used to caution children not to eat too much candy. Now he's hired by Sweets, Inc., the candy manufacturers' trade association. His job necessarily must be to induce children to eat more candy.

VANCE BRAND, former director of Ick's Development Loan Fund, after extending a huge $129,600,000 loan to Turkey for a steel mill, is now retained as a consultant by Koppers, one of the firms which will profit most from the steel mill loan.

SAM WAUGH, former chairman of the Export-Import Bank under Eisenhower, has now gone to work for the Blaw-Knox Co., the big Pittsburgh industrial firm which has benefitted from loans made by the Eximbank.

These are some of the conflicts Kennedy can't do anything about. On the other hand, here is one which he can do something about but which his solicitor general, Archibald Cox, working for the President's brother, the attorney general, is not doing anything about. Atty. Gen. Bill Rogers under Eisenhower did do something.

The case involves the flagrant conflict of certain members of the Federal Power Commission in discussing cases with lobbyists for the oil and gas industry.

The state of California has petitioned the Supreme Court for a hearing in the merger of El Paso Natural Gas with Pacific Northwest Pipeline in a combine which California contends will create a monopoly inimical to the people of California.

"Ninety per cent of California's homes are heated by gas," Gov. Pat Brown contends, "and California industry depends on gas as a fuel. Three-quarters of our gas needs come from one out-of-state supplier—El Paso."

The Federal Power Commission, however, after some conflict-of-interest lobbying, ok'd the El Paso-Pacific Northwest merger. The Justice Department, under Eisenhower, joined California in asking the U.S. Court of Appeals to set the merger aside, partly on the ground that Harrington

Wimbely, ex-commissioner of the FPC, and lobbyist for Pacific Northwest, had ridden to Philadelphia with FPC Commissioner Kline while the merger case was pending—a conflict which no federal judge would have tolerated and which should not be tolerated by those who sit in judicial authority on federal regulatory agencies where the gas bills of millions are at stake.

NOTE—Of course, one of the most flagrant conflict-of-interest cases in the nation involves the law firms of senators and congressmen which receive fees from important clients doing important business with the United States government. Such set-ups, which involve senators such as Smathers of Florida, McClellan of Arkansas, and Schoeppel of Kansas, are legal, Congress just won't pass a law regulating its own members.

What Sacrifices, Mr. Kennedy?

THE NATION is in general agreement with President Kennedy's stand on Berlin.

The people and the Congress will go along with his request for additional manpower—the billions needed to beef up our arms.

In fact, there is no other choice.

Mr. Khrushchev's threats must be turned back by our determination not to yield our established rights in West Berlin.

The United States cannot accept the Russian premier's unilateral alteration of international agreements. To do so would label us as spineless and cowardly nation and destroy any present or future claim to leadership of the free world.

The President, in both his speech to the people and his message to Congress, made it abundantly clear that we shall not shrink from our responsibilities.

"We do not want to fight," the President said, "but we have fought before."

Commendably, there was no note of belligerency in the President's address. He carefully refrained from building up a war psychosis. By suggesting various possibilities for negotiation, the President gave Mr. Khrushchev no opportunity to denounce the United States as a war-mongering nation.

The way is open to further discussions.

The choice of war or peace is now before Khrushchev. Our President has given him no cause for miscalculation.

Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov recently remarked at a Washington diplomatic reception that "the American people are not ready... when the chips are down, they won't fight for Berlin."

Menshikovs who thought us to be weak and unprepared.

It is my view that the canny Khrushchev, well aware of our capacity to sweep Russia with atomic bombs and rockets, will prefer to negotiate the Berlin question.

For there is no profit in death and destruction.

FROM TIME to time, President Kennedy has mentioned the sacrifices that must be made by the American people.

But he never specifies. We hear a good deal of talk about closing tax loopholes and cutting down on expense accounts.

Yet this is piddling stuff compared to the billions being spent on welfare programs, farm subsidies and sundry federal projects designed to coddle the voters.

We hear nothing about reducing non-essential expenditures. The number of government employees continues to rise at an alarming rate. States and cities are being relieved of their proper responsibilities by handouts

So-Called Anti-Communist Film Maligns America's Allies

DURING THE 1930s, Americans were horrified as they watched Hitler and Mussolini institutionalize the concentration camp, secret police and torture as departments of national government. The dictators' thirst for foreign conquests was rightly seen as an eventual threat to the United States. Many Americans sought something they could do about it.

They were recruited by the numerous "antifascist" organizations that sprang up across the country. They distributed antifascist pamphlets, sang antifascist folk songs and helped raise money to aid antifascist refugees and oppositions undergrounds in the dictator-dominated countries.

Many of them didn't think to ask at the time what antifascist organizations were for. It seemed enough that they were against fascism.

Too late they discovered that many of the "antifascists" were pro-Communists who were using the worldwide revulsion against Nazism as an instrument to promote Soviet foreign policy.

This entrapment of innocents under the guise of antifascism is a useful historical lesson today when our nation and the Free World faces another gigantic political and military threat from an alien ideology.

In the past few years we have had anti-Communist groups springing up throughout the country just as antifascist groups sprouted during the 1930s. Again, as in the 1930s, it would be well to ask each such group not only what it is against, but what is it for?

Viewed from this perspective, the refusal by the Department of Defense to permit a U.S. Navy band to play at an anti-Communist rally in Santa Monica last week becomes clearer.

Included on the program at the Santa Monica meeting was a showing of the film, "Communism on the Map." The film shows a hazy understanding, to say the least, of just what Communism is. It seems that the democratic socialism found in many countries of Western Europe is the same thing as Communism.

The movie explains that countries such as France, Sweden and Norway are for all practical purposes in the Communist camp this very minute. As the film proceeds, the Communist tide rolls across the map and the only countries that do not turn red before the finish are Spain, Switzerland and the United States. The latter is left with a question mark.

This may be good anti-welfare statism, but it is not very good anti-Communism. Norway and Denmark are prosperous, democratic nations with a long tradition of individual freedom. They are allied with us against the Soviets in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. True, they are governed by Social-Democratic parties committed to a program of democratic socialism, but it is nonsense to cross them off the Free World map, while keeping Spain, which, while anti-Communist, is not free but totalitarian and whose low standard of living is producing an evergrowing Red underground.

Sweden and Switzerland are both democratic, neutral nations with strong ties to the West. But Sweden is written off to the East in the film and Switzerland is not. Why? Presumably because Sweden's populace chooses in free elections to elect a welfare-state, vaguely socialistic government.

The Department of Defense refused to give official sanction to this attack on our allies by allowing the Navy band to appear on the same program.

Principal speaker at the Santa Monica rally was W. Cleon Skousen, a former FBI agent and author of "The Naked Communist." Skousen devoted the bulk of his remarks to attacking the United Nations.

"Russia has been using the United Nations to further its ambition to take over the world," he charged. "And the U.N. Charter has permitted us to be abused and paralyzed in time of crisis."

This attack on the U.N. Charter from a self-professed "anti-Communist" is interesting, coming as it does when that same Charter is under heavy attack from Khrushchev and the Communist bloc, who want to scrap it for their "troika" or three-man executive plan.

The Santa Monica meeting is only one of a series of anti-Communist rallies sponsored recently in this area by right-wing groups. In addition to denouncing our allies and attacking the U.N., speakers at these meetings have been demanding repeal of the income tax. Inasmuch as this tax bears the major burden of financing our arming to defend our liberties, it is difficult to see how this can be construed as an anti-Communist proposal.

Hitler and Mussolini were zealous anti-Communists. So were Eisenhower and Truman. There is obviously much difference between them. It is not enough to be anti-Communist. You have to be for liberty.

Scouts Quoted on Flag Display

EDITOR:
A. M. Langdale's letter ("For Shame to Disgrace Flag") demands an immediate answer before other such "insulted intelligent American people" embarrass our city, state and nation with their lack of information on proper display of their nation's flag.

"When flags of two or more nations are displayed, they are to be flown from separate staffs of the same height. The flags should be of approximately equal size." This is a quote from a leaflet distributed by the Boy Scouts of America (or perhaps they also are too "international" for A. M. Langdale).

THIS wonderful pageant produced by Long Beach, not for the purpose of promoting the doctrine of one world as was stated in the Langdale letter, but of promoting the doctrine of world peace through understanding and respect for all nations, does not deserve to be criticized by one who knows so little about his own nation's flag display. This is an attempt to hide a narrow mind beneath the guise of patriotism. From such small minds arise all of the petty prejudices that plague our world today.

Pageant Should Stick to Girls

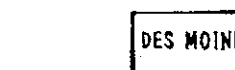

EDITOR:
So now the U. N. is reduced to the miserable state where they must trade on the good will of an international beauty pageant. Witness the forlorn huckstering of a certain stage-screen TV personality on said beauty pageant, to drum up enthusiasm for the U. N. conglomerate of public hog trough feeders and assorted leeches.

Many American towns with French names mean specific objects in French. The inhabitants of these towns may or may not be familiar with what these words mean in French, but in any event a Frenchman would seldom recognize the original name of any such city as we pronounce it today.

Here are the original pronunciations of the names of some cities with their meanings:

Butte (bewt): Hill.
Baton Rouge (bah-tohn-roozh): Red Stick.
Des Moines (deh-mwahn): Of the monks.
Detroit (deh-trwah): Straits (of water).

MEDICINE AND YOU

Body Acidity Is Sex Determinant

(Prepared in collaboration with George X. Trimble, M. D., medical education director, Memorial Hospital of Long Beach.)

By BEN ZINSER

The degree of body acidity in a woman may help determine the sex of her child, according to research reported in the journal Obstetrics and Gynecology.

In a review of factors in sex determination, Dr. Landrum B. Shettles of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, New York, says:

An alkaline douche, before insemination, shifts the sex ratio factor in the direction of male offspring. An acid douche favors development of a female child.

He explains that an alkaline douche may increase, and an acid douche decrease, the rate of locomotion of male-producing sperm.

Another finding: The nearer insemination occurs to ovulation, the greater the number of male offspring. The farther from ovulation, the greater the incidence of females born.

IN THE MEDICAL publication What's New, a geneticist offers this explanation of why more males are born than females:

The Y chromosome—the male determining factor in fertilization—is smaller than the X chromosome—the female determining factor. Therefore, sperm bearing the Y chromosome should be able to move up the female reproductive canal at a greater speed than sperm bearing the X chromosome. (Velocity is dependent on mass.) Thus there is a greater chance that Y-bearing sperm will penetrate the ovum first, resulting in more boy babies than girl babies.

THE SAME REPORT in What's New also offers an explanation as to why women live longer than men.

Both human male and female tissue cells contain the chromosome considered to represent the biochemical potential for life. In women, however, these cells contain twice as much of this factor as the male cells do. Thus they should be better able to endure the stresses of environment.

IF YOU HAVE the mumps on one side of the face only, can you have it again on the other side?

Very unlikely, says Dr. Edward B. Shaw, consultant to the Journal of the American Medical Association. Mumps, caused by a virus, rarely recurs because one exposure to the disease usually confers lifetime immunity.

Too often, says Dr. Shaw, a mother will think her child has mumps when in reality he has cervical adenitis—inflammation of glands in the neck. These glands become tender and enlarged in several infectious diseases of children and because of their location may resemble mumps.

Mumps, incidentally, may affect any one or all of the six salivary glands, the breast, pancreas, sex glands or the meninges (membranes of the spinal cord and brain).

But as for mumps recurring on the other side of the face, Dr. Shaw says: "Probably pure folklore."

AN OLD TECHNIQUE undergoing revival may prove helpful in the surgical treatment of burns, two medical publications report.

Surgeons often have trouble delineating the precise area of burn damage in difficult cases. But this determination is made easier with a technique employing intravenous injection of green or blue dye into the burned patient. The resultant staining shows the state of blood circulation in normal and burned skin.

Dyes were first used to assess burn areas in 1945, but the technique was abandoned because patients vomited. The dyes were blamed for the vomiting. But one doctor reports he now has tried the method on 150 patients without evidence of unpleasant side effects.

2 Policemen Bruised as Driver Takes Off

Two San Pedro policemen escaped with bruises Saturday after falling from a suspect's moving auto. The men were left hanging onto the sides of the car when it took off as they were questioning its occupant.

Nicholas J. LaMont, 19, of 760 W. 16th St., surrendered to police and confessed driving the auto, police said.

Officers Jerome H. Rogers and James D. Evans reported they stopped an auto on Pacific Avenue near 10th Street shortly after midnight.

With Rogers standing on the driver's side and Evans on the passenger's, the auto suddenly sped away. Both policemen grabbed onto it as it moved, with Evans falling off in a short distance.

Rogers said he clung to the driver until the car reached about 40 miles an hour, then lost his grip and sprawled onto the pavement. Both officers were released after an examination showed them to be suffering no ill effects.

LaMont gave himself up after telling police he was advised to do so by friends. He explained that he "panicked" when the officers began questioning him. He was booked on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Man Killed Playing 'Torero' With Train

CARLSBAD (UPI)—A man killed Friday night while playing bullfighter with a moving train was identified Saturday as a San Diego longshoreman.

The victim was William E. Jones, 34, according to his brother-in-law, Roosevelt Sibbett. Jones was struck by a Santa Fe train as he stood on the track waving his shirt at it.

Wild Sprinkler System Damages Marshall Field's

CHICAGO (UPI)—An automatic sprinkler system went awry Saturday and flooded parts of six floors in Marshall Field & Co.'s Loop store, causing "hundreds of thousands of dollars" damage.

The sprinklers came on shortly after the store opened, on the fourth floor of the building in a section which houses a pet shop, toy department and arts and crafts.

Thousands of gallons of water poured through to the third floor lingerie shop and into sections of the second, first, budget and stock floors of the store.

The greatest damage was on the first and second floors, where water cascaded into the art gallery and antique shop. Employees scurried to remove the most valuable paintings from the walls.

Dog-Vaccination Drive Slated in L.A.

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI)—Sixteen persons died and 100 others were hospitalized during a heat wave in the southern province of Khuzistan.

The thermometer climbed to 104 degrees in Tehran Saturday.

Nearing completion are a new bridge on Appian Way over upper Alamitos Bay, pavement widening on both sides of the span and the extension of Appian Way from Nieto Avenue to the intersection of Fourth Street and Park Avenue.

Estimated cost of the projects is $571,000, most of it paid from tideland oil money.

The bay bridge and the extension of Appian Way will give traffic an uninterrupted route from Park Avenue through the stadium area and across J. H. Davies Bridge to Pacific Coast Highway.

Traffic signals are being installed at Fourth Street and Park Avenue, at the western terminus of Appian Way. In addition, the City Council has

By JOHN WHEELER
 SACRAMENTO (AP)—California soon will launch a unique assault on the frightening, crime-filled world of narcotics addiction. The plan combines a prison-hospital with tough commitment and parole policies, scientific research and the most advanced techniques available in sociology, penology and medicine. Penologists emphasize there is little hope of dramatic, quick success in bringing addicts out of their tortured retreats from reality. But with an estimated 10,000 to 20,000 addicts in the state—second only to New York—officials say the plan should give them the first real control over users of hard narcotics such as heroin in U. S. history. The legislature approved Gov. Brown's hospital program after first enacting stiffer penalties for persons trafficking in narcotics—which generally includes addicts. However, officials point out that convictions are many times hard to obtain and that the persons who are sentenced often have been associated with crime and addiction too long to be good rehabilitation risks. The new program will concentrate on reaching addicts in the making, narcotics users who are not too firmly "hooked."

California's program provides for sentencing of addicts, or those in danger of becoming addicted, for up to 10 years. Those who have been convicted of crimes of violence or other serious acts would be excluded. Addicts or potential addicts convicted of a misdemeanor can be sentenced for up to five years even though the original charge might have been only jaywalking. Persons caught up in a life of addiction—but guilty of no other crime—can be turned in by family, minister, or themselves. They can be committed for up to five years. Once in the program, addicts must spend a minimum of six months under treatment at the prison hospital before becoming eligible for parole. On parole, officials expect this pattern: Probable reversion back to the use of narcotics; discovery through surprise examinations; return to the hospital for more treatment and then parole again. If California's theory is correct, some addicts will gradually build an inner strength, increasing the length of their narcotics-free periods until they master the habit. Those who go three consecutive narcotics-free years on parole will be eligible for discharge, although those convicted of other crimes will be returned to court for possible sentencing to prison. Richard McGee, director of the State Corrections Department, said addicts who continue to fail may be in the program for the rest of their lives. These would be resented as soon as their old sentences expire. McGee said such control is necessary since each addict tends to "infect" others in an effort to sell narcotics to finance his own habit. There are some 3,500 addicts in California prisons now—one out of every six male adult prisoners. McGee said the new program and the removal of narcotics offenders from county jails under the new penalty bill will add another 2,400 in the first year. Only those considered good candidates for the treatment program will be sent to the prison-hospital. Statistics show California's problem is centered in Los Angeles among minority groups. McGee says one-half of all addicts in the state are of Latin American ancestry. The addiction rate for Negroes is double that of the population as a whole. "The depraved arise from the deprived," McGee said. At the hospital, therapy will seek to ease the psychological pressures which cause addicts to turn to narcotics for relief, McGee said. The institution will be set up along the same general lines of the federal facilities at Lexington Ky., and Fort Worth, Tex., with one difference—those who are released will be under closer parole supervision. From the standpoint of community safety, narcotics addicts are considered better than the average parole risks, the director says, because their desire to retreat usually means they shun violence. He acknowledges there have been bloody exceptions. McGee says the research phase is the most exciting aspect of the program because little is known about addiction or what can be done about it. For example, a Seattle doctor said a drug, diphosphoryridine, could eliminate the agonies of withdrawal. Dr. Lester J. Pope, chief of the department's medical services division, said he is skeptical. He said the key to the problem of drug addiction is finding the psychological factors that cause a person to turn to drugs in the first place.

Two in Crackup of Plane Unhurt

SAN DIEGO (AP)—A pilot and passenger escaped injury Saturday when their light plane crashed in the backyard of a home in the heavily populated Santee residential area. The pilot, Laurence Hance of Chula Vista, and his passenger, George Leist, were unhurt. "My hair stood on end," said Mrs. Ruby Hughes, who witnessed the crash from her window. "I looked out to see a cloud of dust and then the airplane." The plane, a single-engine Tri-Pacer, skimmed under a 30-foot power line and rammed through a barbed wire fence. It nosed to a stop 18 feet from the porch of a house.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Six visiting Venezuelan governors left here by airplane Saturday for New Orleans, their next stop on a five-week tour of the United States.

Copters' Subsidy Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The taxpayers paid a subsidy of more than $10 for each passenger who rode three helicopter services operating from airports into downtown New York, Chicago and Los Angeles last year, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., said Saturday.

Russell told the Senate the three services carried 490,000 passengers last year and were paid government subsidies totaling $5 million.

He made the comments in debate on an appropriations bill which, among other things, would provide $6.9 million for such subsidies in the current fiscal year, which began July 1.

THE APPROPRIATIONS Committee report on the bill said the government decided on the experimental subsidy because transcontinental jet flights in "4½ hours have little meaning" if passengers need one to two hours of surface transportation getting to and from the airports.

Russell said that since 1954 the helicopter services have collected more than $36 million in subsidies and even more than that for carrying mail.

Russell said he had dropped a plan to propose an amendment which would bar any one line from receiving more than 20 per cent of the helicopter subsidy of $6.9 million for the current year.

HE SAID 88 applications were on file with the Civil Aeronautics Board for similar subsidies.

"The CAB has limited to these three and has not even permitted a hearing on the others," he said.

Because the House Appropriations Committee has said no more funds will be allowed for such subsidies after this year, Russell said he decided to abandon his effort to require a broader division of the funds.

"There are powerful forces sometimes called a lobby," he told the Senate, and so he decided it wise not to increase their numbers.

Smokers Get Blame in 2,152 L.A. Fires

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Smoking was blamed Saturday for 2,152 fires here since Jan. 1. Another 1,253 fires resulted from misuse of matches and lighters.

Fire Chief William L. Miller said that, despite thousands of warnings, smoking in bed remains a leading cause of fire deaths.

Salmon River Fire Nearly Controlled

REDDING (AP)—A 250-acre blaze 60 miles northwest of here in the Salmon River wilderness was expected to be fully controlled early Friday.

The blaze was encircled early Saturday and crews were burning brush on steep slopes above the fire lines.

Viet Nam to Get U.S. Vessel Tuesday

The Navy landing ship USS Oceanside will be transferred to the Republic of Viet Nam under terms of the Military Assistance Program in ceremonies at 3 p.m. Tuesday on Pier 9, Long Beach Naval Station.

The ship will be recommissioned VNS Huong Giang, after delivery by Rear Adm. F. Julian Becton, commander of the local Naval base, to Lt. Col. Ly Trong Song, armed forces attache to the Viet Nam Embassy, Washington, D.C.

Col. Song will vest authority to command the Huong Giang in Lt. Khuong Huu Ba. In the transfer ceremony, Adm. Becton will present Lt. Ba with a special plaque from Adm. Arleigh Burke, U.S. chief of naval operations.

The ship was prepared for the transfer by the Harbor Boat Building Co., Terminal Island, under contract to the 11th Naval District.

After a training period at San Diego, the Huong Giang will sail for Viet Nam.

Youth-Aid Board of 7 Near

Gov. Edmund G. Brown is expected to name members of the new Delinquency Prevention Commission soon, Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick (D-Long Beach) said Saturday.

The seven-man commission which advises the director of the Department of the Youth Authority was established by legislation introduced by Kennick and passed at the recent session of the State Legislature. Commission members will serve without pay.

In signing the measure, Brown said:

"I consider this legislation of great importance in helping us to prevent delinquency among the young people of California. If we can stop delinquency, we can stop crime."

LONG BEACH Young Republicans will hold an open house in the Panorama Room of the Lafayette Hotel Sunday from 7 to 10 p.m.

Dancing will be featured during the evening. All interested persons between the ages of 21 and 40 are invited by Bill Martin, hospitality chairman.

CONGRESSMAN Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) will appear on KRAC's "Washington Report" Sunday at 4:30 p.m. He will be interviewed by Washington correspondent Art Barriot on means to improve our cold and hot war defenses against communism.

Democratic Picnic Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick (D-Long Beach) will speak at the annual picnic of the Democratic Women's Study Club Wednesday at Recreation Park. The picnic begins at noon.

PRIMITIVE SCULPTORS Art Unconsciously Produced en Masse

ditional licenses for this type of operation except by special permission.

These artists have a new lilt to their gait as they joyously swing sledge hammer and welding torch doing what to the common man may seem like just auto wrecking.

But to the man in the know, these men are creating works of art. Recognition comes slow, of course, as it does to all true artists, but the primitives on Anaheim Street one day, too, may obtain the fame that is their just due.

No one can look at one of the tortured works that emerge from the creative urge of these metal craftsmen and fail to recognize in the jagged lines all the sheer tumult and terror symbolic of today's weary world.

Heaped upon heap of metal is massed, pressed, molded and twisted. Here, indeed, is the Juggernaut. These massive collages, reminiscent, albeit remotely, of the Picasso collage period, are not light subject matter.

There is realism here, impressionism, a bit of Braque, and do not the artists jibe slightly at Dadaism? Perhaps.

These multi-dimensional behemoths of art have their own intrinsic as well as extrinsic significance.

But, of course, the uninitiate is little able to become one with this awareness.

After all, just what can you explain to a man who views the mass of welded tender and auto parts sticking up over the fence at 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. and complains now come HE can't get a permit to operate a junk yard in a residential neighborhood?

Senior Citizen Leader to Speak

George McLain, president of the National League of Senior Citizens, will speak at a league picnic Wednesday at Bixby Park. The picnic is scheduled from noon to 4 p.m.

McLain has just returned from a trip to Washington and will report on Congressional progress on the senior citizen's program. Don Pullen, national organizational director, and other league officers will be present.

Recovery Units Organized Here

Air Force Reserve facilities on Long Beach Municipal Airport buzzed with activity Saturday for the first time since the 452nd Troop Carrier Wing moved to March Air Force Base last year.

The occasion was the activation of the newly-formed 8646th Air Force Reserve Recovery Group and Squadron commanded by Col. Claude J. Norton of Santa Ana.

The non-flying units are composed of men from Long Beach, Orange County, the South Bay district and the Compton, Bellflower, Whittier area.

Norton said that current schedules call for the units to meet two Saturdays a month. Members of the Ready Reserve unit are paid for their attendance at the monthly training sessions on the Municipal Airport site.

Norton pointed out that the Recovery units are a new concept in the Air Force Reserve program. Groups have been established at strategic locations in the United States to provide haven, in the event of war, for combat aircraft returning from missions and unable to land at their homes base.

THE RESERVE commander said that it is believed in wartime that many of the home bases of the combat bombers would be destroyed, making it necessary for the aircraft to seek other landing facilities where necessary services could be provided.

The Long Beach Recovery Group and Squadron aims to cooperate with the civilian agencies in control of the airport in making these services available.

THE 8646TH and other organizations of the same type include units for communications, crash and rescue, refueling, medical, transportation and other services.

Reserve airmen are still being sought to fill vacancies in the units here. The personnel office at the base, located at Spring St. and Redondo Ave. will be open from 7:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday to answer questions regarding the Recovery units.

Pilots Get Flight Test on Ground

trying the controls "crashed" the simulator into a mountain. After a few adjustments to the mechanism, both the pilot and plane were ready to back up and start over.

Training exercises conducted in the simulator thus can give all the realism and mental strain of an actual flight without the danger of destroying either pilot or aircraft.

The actual F-105D is an all-weather fighter-bomber now just entering service with TAC. Nicknamed the Thunderchief, it can carry either conventional explosives or nuclear bombs over long ranges at supersonic speeds.

THE THUNDERCHIEF holds the world's speed record for the 100 kilometer closed course at 1,216 miles an hour. It has its own complete radar navigation system to guide it to any target in the world and is armed with an automatic cannon which fires a fantastic 6,000 rounds a minute.

The F105 is scheduled to replace the F100 fighters now beefing up American forces in Europe and the Pacific. One Thunderchief squadron now is located within 300 miles of Berlin.

Training in the F105 for the entire Air Force is conducted at Nellis by the 4520th Combat Crew Training Wing.

THE ACF simulator now in use at Nellis weighs 16 tons, has a total of 393,747 parts, including those in the simulated cockpit which duplicates in every way the original. Two men can watch the student pilot inside through scanning devices and keep track of his maneuvers by means of instruments outside.

ALSTON BUGGED BY 'BUG'

Dodgers Nab Buc Spy!

PITTSBURGH — The Dodgers heard some static on their walkie-talkie signal set Friday night, then glanced at the rival dugout and discovered the Pirates were ecstatic. Bob Skinner and Johnny Logan had tuned in on the Dodger frequency and were stealing the signs.

The Pirates borrowed a similar set, used by the Forbes Field ground crew, hid an antenna behind the Dodger dugout and were set up in the spying business.

Before manager Walter Alston cracked the plot in the fifth inning, he had listened to taxi calls, an amateur radio station and

3 Cub Home Runs Finally Dump Redlegs Out of First

CHICAGO (AP)—Home runs by Ernie Banks, Billy Williams and Ron Santo powered the Chicago Cubs to a 7-6 victory Saturday which tumbled the Cincinnati Reds out of the National League lead.

The Cubs pounded out 11 hits and knocked righthander Joey Jay from the mound in the fifth inning when Williams clobbered a three-run homer to give the Cubs and southpaw Jack Curtis a 6-1 lead.

Curtis scored his seventh victory and third over Cincinnati but needed help in the eighth inning when the Reds rallied for four runs—two of them coming on Jerry Lynch's pinch homer.

It was Lynch's eighth homer, his fourth as a pinch batter and third against the Cubs. Seventeen of his 27 runs batted in have been at the expense of the Cubs.

Chicago got to Jay, who was tagged with his sixth defeat against 14 victories, for two runs in the first inning and made it 3-0 in the third on Banks' 17th homer. Cincinnati picked up a run in the fourth on Gene Freese's 19th homer, but Williams made it 6-1 in the fifth with his 14th homer.

Elio Chacon, Leo Cardenas and Vada Pinson singled in succession to start the eighth inning for one Cincinnati run.

Hits Pinch Single in Ninth, 5-4

Duke Belts Homer to Spark Stirring Comeback vs. Bucs

By GEORGE LEDERER
L.P.T. Staff Writer

PITTSBURGH — The strong Dodger bench flexed its muscles Saturday in a hair-raising, 5-4 victory over Pittsburgh that nudged Cincinnati from the league lead for the first time since June 15.

The Dodgers assumed command by .002 points with a two-run ninth inning comeback that featured a pinch-hit homer by Duke Snider and a game-winning pinch single by Ron Fairly.

Manager Walter Alston used six pinch-hitters, half of whom were successful, 18 men and various defensive combinations and put them together for the jig saw puzzle award of the year.

The pieces fell into place so neatly that the Dodgers emerged with their seventh straight victory, their 11th in the last 12 games and their ninth in 10 starts on the current trip.

NOT SINCE June 22-28 of the feverish 1959 pennant year have the Dodgers won seven in succession.

The Pirates gained a 4-2 edge in a weird seventh inning, in which eight men batted and only two scored. Larry Sherry faced five Bucs and failed to retire one.

Roberto Clemente started the round with his 16th homer and a bases-loaded walk to Bill Mazeroski made it 4-2. Ron Perranoski, the eventual winner, relieved Sherry.

Tribe Hammers Four Home Runs

By ROSS NEWHAN

It was a poor night for the Angels. Parlaying Perry's pitching and Piersall's power Cleveland clubbed the Angels, 8-3, before 17,976 bath night fans.

The two Jims sent five Angel pitchers to early baths, with only Ron Kline and Tom Morgan able to enjoy their scrubbing after runless relief stints.

Perry hurled an eight-inning no-hitter and a nine-inning four-hitter as he gained his eighth victory against a like number of defeats. It was his first complete game since June 18, a far cry from last year when the righthander was the ace of the Cleveland staff with an 18-10 record.

He prevented the Angels

PLAYERS OF THE DAY

RON FAIRLY singled as pinch-hitter in ninth to drive in deciding run in 5-4 win over Pirates.

STEVE BILKO got only extra base hit, a double, as Angels lost to Cleveland, 8-3.

JIM PIERSALL

HE RETIRED the first nine men in order, got clubbed around in the fourth, and then retired the final 16 men in a row. He actually faced only four men over the limit, walked one (in the fourth) and struck out three.

Meanwhile, he was being backed by a 14-hit assault which brought the Angels their fourth defeat against seven wins on this home stand and only their 10th defeat in 29 games since June 27.

Piersall provided the spark to the Indian attack with a homer and two doubles and has now collected six hits in nine at bats against Angel pitching the last two nights. Over-all this season, Piersall has rapped the Angels to the tune of a .439 average.

Piersall's Always a Hit

REGARDLESS HOW YOU SCORE...

By ROSS NEWHAN

The American League is currently packing 'em in with re-releases of two popular shows: Dial M for Murder featuring the power-packed two some of Maris and Mantle, and The Wild One, featuring that madcap, Jimmy Piersall.

As a long-range hit, Maris and Mantle can't be beat, but for a one-night stand, Piersall always leaves 'em laughing. The Cleveland center-fielder was at his best the other night at Wrigley Field when he put on his show for about 20 sports-writers gathered around the batting cage.

"How can they draw only 5,000 people?" Piersall asked the group, "they've got more writers.

"Is there a sportswriters' game tonight, why don't you guys get off the field and let them see the players?" he kidded the scribes.

Then he launched in on one of his favorite subjects—official scorers and how they robbed him of hits recently in Minnesota and Kansas City.

"It's bad enough being a sports writer let alone an official scorer. Who's the scorer tonight?"

When informed it was a writer from a Los Angeles paper, Piersall went over to the reporter and draped his arm about the scribe's shoulders.

"You're a nice guy," he said. "Please don't be a scorer."

Then it was time for Piersall to bat. He leaped into the cage and lined a drive to leftfield.

"Don't get hurt out there Wagner," he jokingly snapped a remark aimed at the Angels' Leon Wagner who would be in that position when the game started.

Vic Power walked into the cage and Piersall, not realizing his turn was over, looked at the first baseman and then walked out. "Go ahead, you can have the cage, I'm not prejudiced like Gabe Paul (Cleveland general manager)."

A WRITER asked Johnny Temple if Piersall was always like this. "Yea, drawled Temple, "he's always wide open."

Piersall resumed his attack on official scorers.

"If they'd just rule the same way all the time it would be all right, but they see Piersall and right away it's an error instead of a hit.

"We were playing in

BARBER SLAYS PGA GOLIATHS

By WILL GRIMSLEY

CHICAGO (AP)—Jerry Barber, a watch-fob golfer with a king-sized swing, shamed the game's goliaths Saturday by shooting his second straight sub-par round and taking the half-way lead in the PGA championship with a score of 136.

The 5-foot-5, 137-pound mite from Los Angeles, beaten in a heartbreak finish in the same tournament two years ago, added a 67 to a first round 69 for a two-stroke lead over Doug Sanders and Don January, tied at 138. Sanders shot a second round 68 and January, with a chance to tie the course record 65, took a bogey at the 17th for a 66. January took the lime-light from his playing partners—Arnold Palmer, the new British Open champion, who shot 72 for 145, and Masters winner Gary Player of South Africa, who had a 74 for 146.

First-round leader Art Wall Jr. could do no better than a 72 after opening with a 67 and held third place at 139—one shot ahead of a trio, tied at 140. They were defending champion Jay Hebert, who had 68-72; bespectacled Ernest Vossler, 68-72, and tough Ted Kroll, who came charging in with a 68 after a first round 72.

The second round, postponed from Friday because of a heavy cloudburst, was played in oppressive heat and humidity on a rain-soaked course which played heavy and sluggish. Its 6,722 yards seemed like miles.

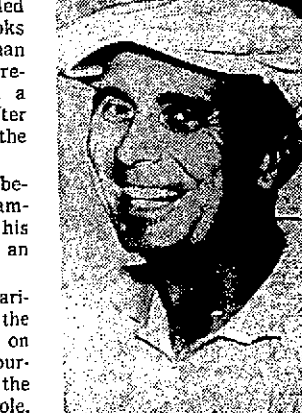

Less than half a dozen among the nation's leading professionals were able to break the 35-35—70 par of the tradition-rich Olympia Fields Country Club course.

Besides Sanders and Kroll, these included former U.S. Open champion Cary Middlecoff, whose rallying 69 placed him at 143, and Bud Holscher of Hollywood, Calif., who bounced back with a 68 after an opening 77 for 145.

The spongy fairways were filled with pock marks from the heavy traffic and frequently well-hit shots fell into almost impossible lies.

The tournament is still a wide open affair as it swings into today's 36-hole showdown.

Tied at 141 were the new U.S. Open champion Gene Littler, Don Fairfield and Bob Rosburg. Two former champions, Walter Burke and Doug Ford, were in the group tied at 142, along with Mason Rudolph, Gardner Dickinson and Wes

Ram-bling in Redlands

By JERRY WYNN

REDLANDS—Move over Ink Spots and Mills Brothers. The Rams have a vocal quartet that hits like a fullback, moves like a halfback and barks like a quarterback.

Dick Bass, Dave Jones and Coleman Lindsey sing, and Duane Allen doubles as singer and piano player. They were joined by Charlie Britt in a lounge session one night last week that wowed the entire squad. The repertoire ranged from rock-and-roll to hillbilly.

Lindsey, a 230-pound rookie fullback nicknamed Yama Bahama, is the group's virtuoso. He can yodel with the best of the Swiss mountaineers. Jones, 255-pound rookie tackle called the Deacon, supplies the low notes; Bass, the sophomore scatback who was a disc jockey in college, takes charge of the high notes and wolf calls, and Allen, the highly-regarded rookie end from Santa Ana JC, lends the harmony.

Second-year defensive halfback Britt is an aspiring actor with Hollywood looks and a fine voice. He appeared in a few "Ozzie and Harriet" television shows during the off-season.

"HEY, GABBY, THAT'S THE SPIRIT. That's the old pepper, Gabby. Give us a little more noise, Gabby."

Exclamations such as these are forthcoming daily during practice from the defensive linemen and linebackers. They all sing the praises of this ball-of-fire Gabby.

Who is Gabby?
He's strong, SILENT Jack Pardee, the veteran linebacker from Texas A&M who trainer George Menefee calls the "toughest man on the squad."

Gabby never says a word.

FRANK VARRICHIONE, THE VETERAN tackle acquired by the Rams from the Steelers for Lew Michaels, is the Faintin' Frank of Notre Dame fame.

It was he who faked the collapse in the Irish huddle several seasons ago that stopped the clock and enabled Notre Dame to score and tie Iowa on the final play of the game . . . thus depriving the Hawkeyes of a perfect season.

"I was supposed to go down on the field," recalls Frank, "but I thought the clock had stopped when the ball went out of bounds. But an official saw Ralph (quarterback Guglielmi) purposely toss the ball out, and allowed the time to run. I found this out later."

"So when I got back into the huddle, Ralph said 'what's wrong, why aren't you down?' Down I went."

"I don't know why Evashevski (Iowa coach Forrest) got so mad. He pulled plenty of stunts himself. All teams do."

EWES AND AHS:

Jon Arnett is the undisputed attraction for the females on campus. There are several hundred girls taking part in a cheerleaders' school, and whenever they see the Rams, they cry out for Jon. A recent father with a beautiful wife, Arnett is more interested in practicing his golf shots.

Is Del Shofner trying to emulate Sampson? After a poor season in 1960, the former all-pro end has let his perennial crewcut grow into a wavy JFK model.

The San Francisco Scabbies have a new recruit. To go along with Y. A. Tittle, R. C. Owens, J. D. Smith and C. R. Roberts, the 49ers have picked up J. W. Lockett, a defensive end who is ambidextrous. He once pitched both games of a doubleheader, the first r.h., the second l.h.

THE MOST EMBARRASSED MAN in camp the other day was this reporter.

While standing on the sideline watching the team drill, I heard a voice from the stands apparently aimed in my direction.

"Wynn, Wynn," it sounded, "get that ball off the field. A player will trip on it."

Making like Arnett, I dashed on to the field to retrieve the ball. I straight-armed a few imaginary Big Daddy Lipscombs on the way back to show the other reporters my hidden talent. But they had the last laugh.

For looking at me perplexed was WINN Hirsch, the all-year-old son of Crazylegs and camp ballboy whose job I had stolen.

Oh, well, once a ballboy, always a ballboy!

Slam by Cepeda Nips Phillies, 4-3

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Orlando Cepeda hit a first-inning grand slam homer behind an intentional walk to Willie Mays Saturday night and it was just enough to give the San Francisco Giants a 4-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

It was Cepeda's 29th homer of the season, his first major league slam and marked the second time this month that he followed an intentional walk to Mays with a homer. He hit a three-run blast off Dallas Green on July 17 after Willie was passed purposely.

Los Angeles' Ferrarese (2-7) was the victim.

Lefty Mike McCormick (9-3) needed all the runs to win as the Phils outlived the Giants, 10-7.

Bobby Gene Smith hit his second homer behind a single by Don Demeter in the fourth and then scored Demeter, who had doubled and taken third on Lee Walls' infield hit, with a sacrifice fly in the sixth.

Cepeda had a single in addition to his homer to set his batting log in Connie Mack Stadium this season at 23 hits in 46 times at bat.

Yogi, Subbing for Maris, Helps Ford to 19th Victory, 5-4

NEW YORK (UPI)—Yogi Berra, subbing for injured Roger Maris, led off the eighth inning with a home run to give the New York Yankees a 5-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles and help Whitey Ford achieve his 19th triumph of the year.

The victory was the 13th in a row for Ford, whose 19 wins equaled the high water mark of his professional baseball career. He has been beaten only twice this season.

Maris, suffering with a pulled hamstring muscle in his left thigh, originally had been listed to start in right field but Yankee manager Ralph Houk substituted Berra in his place when the field was left wet and soggy after a prolonged rain.

THE YANKEES snapped a five-game Orioles' winning streak and increased their American League lead to two games. Ford allowed seven hits, struck out seven and walked three.

He was staked to a four-run lead in the third inning when the Yankees routed Orioles' starter Hoyt Wilhelm.

The Orioles got to Ford for two runs in the fourth and tied the score at 4-4 with two more in the seventh. Berra's 13th homer into the lower right field seats off loser Jack Fisher, Baltimore's third pitcher, broke the deadlock.

RIGHTHANDERS START AT BOSTON

2nd All-Star Tilt Monday

BOSTON (UPI)—Right-handers will duel in this year's second major league All-Star game Monday with the shadow of Fenway Park's chummy leftfield wall at their backs and an awesome array of hitters at their front.

Roberto Clemente's single in the 10th inning brought the National League its third consecutive win, 5-4, over the American League at San Francisco July 11 in 1961's first All-Star game.

Of the 30 All-Star

classics played since 1933, the AL has won 16. However, the AL lost 10 of the last 14 games.

Both Paul Richards, AL Manager, and NL pilot Danny Murtaugh will name their starting pitchers to-day. But one thing is certain—they will be right-handers.

Fenway Park's 37-foot high leftfield wall is only 315 feet from home plate—an inviting target for right-handed swinging batters. And both clubs are loaded with them.

Knowing this, Murtaugh added Dodger pitcher Don Drysdale to the NL roster. The righthander is among the knockout leaders in the senior circuit.

Richards countered with a complete shakeup of his mound corps. Since the July 11 game, he added righthanders Don Schwall of Boston, Cleveland's Barry Latman and Minnesota's Camilio Pascual to the roster in addition to lefty Luis Arroyo, the Yankees' top reliever.

KRCA (4), 12 Noon

Latman, or Ken McBride of the Angels, could also get the starting nod.

Outfielders Frank Robinson of Cincinnati, Mays and Orlando Cepeda of the San Francisco Giants, and Milwaukee's Hank Aaron lead the National League in home run output. They all bat righthanded and will take careful aim on the big green wall.

PRACTICED WHAT THEY PREACH...

Hirsch, Ram Coaches Reveal Career Thrills

By JERRY WYNN

REDLANDS—A fine specimen of rookie football player walked into the Ram training camp one day last week and asked for a tryout. He said he had just been discharged from the Army. He wanted to play defensive halfback.

Not in need of another player at that position, general manager Elroy Hirsch proposed that the rookie would have to pass a test before a contract could be considered. The rookie flunked.

He could not cover the "old geezer" of an end who was catching passes from the "old geezer" of a quarterback.

But he shouldn't have felt too badly. Not many pass defenders could stop Crazylegs Hirsch from receiving the passes of Bob Waterfield.

The true incident is an example of why Ram players have an unusual amount of respect for their coaches. George Bernard Shaw's cutting remark that "those who can, do; those who can't, teach," just doesn't hold water here. Hirsch and every one of the six Ram coaches were once great players whose physical condition and zest for football has deteriorated only by age.

What were their greatest thrills on the playing field? The question was posed by this reporter. Here are the replies:

ELROY HIRSCH, general manager; position—halfback, end; college—Wisconsin, Michigan; pro team—Chicago Rockets, Rams.

"Funny, but my greatest thrill did not come in a game. It was being introduced before the annual College All-Star game at Soldier Field in Chicago when I was a rookie in 1946. There were more than 90,000 people in the stands, and I'll never forget that moment when the two huge spotlights encircled me in the darkness as I ran onto the field, and the band played "On Wisconsin."

"As a pro, nothing could equal the thrill of winning the world's championship with the Rams in 1951."

BOB WATERFIELD, head coach; position—quarterback; college—UCLA; pro team—Rams.

"I got a big thrill right at the start as a pro when the Rams won the championship during my rookie year. That was in 1945 when they were the Cleveland Rams.

"The single game that stands out for me was the playoff for the division title against the Bears at the Coliseum in 1950. They had beaten us twice during the season. I threw a couple of touchdown passes, and Fears, and Hirsch both had good days. We won, 24-14. It was a win we wanted badly."

(Waterfield threw all three touchdown passes that day, and kicked the field goal to account for all the Ram points. He completed 17 of 24 passes for 248 yards.)

HAMPTON POOL, offensive coach; position—fullback in college, end in pro ball; college—Stanford; pro team—Chicago Bears.

"The 73-0 win by the Bears over the Redskins in the 1940 world's championship game. The Redskins had beaten us, 7-3, two weeks before, and we were steaming mad. The final score shows what a team can do that is psychologically prepared to play football.

"I scored a touchdown on the first play of the second half when I intercepted a corner pass from Sammy Baugh thrown from his 20. I leaped for the ball, ticked it, and caught it coming down. Then it was a free ride into the end zone."

TOM FEARS, end coach; position—end; college—UCLA; pro team—Rams.

"I caught the touchdown pass in 1951 that gave the Rams the world's championship. We were playing the Browns at the Coliseum, and the score was tied 17-17 with about eight minutes left. Van Brocklin threw the ball about 20 yards. I made a feint and the two defenders, Tommy James and Warren Lahr, ran into each other. The play went for 73 yards.

"I also will never forget the playoff game when we beat the Bears (24-14) in 1950. I caught three touchdown passes from Waterfield."

VIC LINDSKOG, defensive line coach; position—center; college—Stanford; pro team—Philadelphia Eagles.

"The championship game in 1948 when the Eagles beat the Cardinals, 7-0, in Philadelphia. The game was played in a blizzard that was so bad, we couldn't see the line markers. The Cards had their great backfield of Christman, Trippi, Harder and Goldberg, but they couldn't do a thing against us.

"In 1944 when I played defense as well as offense, I once intercepted a pass and ran it back 67 yards for a touchdown. It was against the old Brooklyn Dodgers, and I still can remember Bruiser Kinard chasing me down the field."

DON PAUL, defensive line coach; position—linebacker; college—UCLA; pro team—Rams.

"I had so much fun playing each game, it's hard to pick out one thrill. But winning the world's title in 1951 was indescribable. It's a thrill that lasts all year, and they can't ever take it away from you.

"I also like to remember one important game against Detroit in 1953. I was feeling good, and we won, 37-24. The next day, my son was born."

JIM DAVID, defensive backs coach; position—defensive back; college—Colorado State; pro team—Detroit Lions.

"Just to be playing football was a thrill. I was part of something, a good team, and glad to be a part. The Lions were always involved in close games where our defense figured.

"In the 1953 world's championship game against the Browns, I picked off a 35-yard pass from Graham in the last minute to stop a drive. Then we scored on a long pass from Layne to Doran with about 20 seconds left to win, 17-16.

"There was another game I intercepted three passes by Unitas, but all the games were thrills."

BEATTY TIES MARK

Polish Spikers Trail U.S., 68-49

WARSAW (UPI)—Jim Beatty, storming from behind in the home stretch, equalled the American record of 3:40.9 for 1,500 meters Saturday to lead the U.S. men's track and field team to a commanding 68-49 lead over Poland at the end of the first day of their meet at 20th Anniversary Stadium.

The U. S. women's team, however, trailed the Polish girls in points, 26-25, despite the two brilliant races by Olympic champion Wilma Rudolph.

The big 19-point lead rolled up by the American men as they won eight of 11 events Saturday seemed to assure them of their fourth and final victory of an all-conquering European tour when the meet ends today. The U. S. women, who won two of five events, are expected to fall further behind and suffer their fourth defeat.

FRANK BUDD of Villanova, the "world's fastest human," captured the 100-meter dash in 10.5 seconds in a photo finish with Polish star Marian Foik and will meet the same foe today in the 200 meters. And Lt. Jay Silvester of the U. S. Army won the shotput with a husky heave of 61-5.

A crowd of about 70,000 watched the meet—some 40-

Marconi, Jon Shine in Scrum

REDLANDS — Jon Arnett and Joe Marconi led a crunching ground attack while Zeke Bratkowski connected on three of four acrobatics for 71 yards to highlight the Rams' six-touchdown spree in their first major scrimmage here Saturday night.

Arnett scored on short bursts of six and three yards while Marconi bulldozed for 89 yards on 10 carries to top ground gainers.

Marconi's biggest gain was a 55-yard dash in the controlled scrimmage. The veteran fullback scored once from the one-yard line. Arnett packed the ball 12 times for 64 yards.

FRANK RYAN, who started over rivals Bratkowski, Buddy Humphrey and Jim Maxfield, completed four of 11 passes for 39 yards. Three of his tosses were dropped.

Bratkowski came on and engineered two touchdown drives including one 19-yard payoff strike to Del Shofner.

Humphrey completed two of five shots for 28 while Maxwell, a former Navy quarterback about to be discharged from the service and signed by the Rams Saturday, connected on two of four for 18 yards.

TOM WILSON, gaining 45 yards on nine tries, hit paydirt from the three. Chuck Longo scored the other TD on a four-yard run.

Clendon Thomas led defenders with seven tackles. Al Hall had six and Lindon Crow five.

Former Long Beach State star Dick Keeler turned in a smooth performance at guard, playing both offense and defense.

UNANIMOUS DECISION TO GRIFFITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Welterweight champion Emile Griffith used speedy hooking combinations to body and head Saturday to win a unanimous 10-round decision over middleweight contender Yama Bahama in their nationally televised non-title fight and thereby entered his bid for a shot at the 160-pound crown.

The three ring officials favored Griffith over his 28-year-old opponent on a rounds basis as follows: Judge Artie Aidala, 8-2; judge Tony Castellano, 7-2-1, and referee Harry Kessler, 5-5 on rounds, but 6-5 for Griffith on backstopping points.

"I DON'T think either of us can make it anymore, but we'll have a lot to say about what club will win."

So said Cardinal manager Johnny Keane of his team and Milwaukee which he classes in the role of "spoilers" in the NL race.

CATCHERS Haywood Sullivan and Joe Pignatano of Kansas City, vexed over their inability to hold pitcher Gerry Staley's knucklers, have a new mitt. It measures nearly two feet in diameter and cost $100.

Sports Beat

If Doug Sanders wins the PGA championship, James Schneider of Kankakee, Ill., figures he's entitled to a cut of the prize money.

Sanders' tee shot on the 13th hole Saturday hooked and was headed for the woods and thick rough when the ball hit Schneider on the side of the head and bounced back onto the fairway for a favorable lie.

Schneider was knocked unconscious but revived quickly. As he was being loaded into an ambulance he jokingly said: "If he wins by one stroke, I think I'm entitled to half the purse. I saved him one stroke for sure, maybe two."

MISSISSIPPI Southern, who for years ruled the small college ranks in football before being elevated to major college status last year, may find itself back among the small ranks again this season.

The reason: Southern can't schedule enough big schools. It must play half of its 10-game schedule against major opposition.

L.B. Skaters Grab U.S. Championship

FT. WORTH (Special) — Doug Eley and Judy Nance of Long Beach Hippodrome captured senior pairs in the American Roller Skating Championships Saturday and will represent the U.S. at the world meet in Tokyo next year.

Doug and Judy teamed with Eugene Labriola and June Goodison to finish second in senior-fours competition.

All-Stars Mapping TV Upset

CHICAGO (UP)—The champion Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League are two-touchdown favorites, but a spirited, beefy and swift college squad could score an upset in the 28th annual All-Star football game in Soldier Field Friday night.

The pros hold a 17-8 edge in this colorful mid-summer grid classic, two games resulting in ties, but no less an authority than owner-coach George Halas of the Chicago Bears calls this the best All-Star squad in 11 years.

The All-Stars, coached by former Cleveland Brown star quarterback Otto Graham, last Wednesday battled to a 14-14 tie in a game-type scrimmage with the Bears in Rensselaer, Ind.

HALAS MADE a comparison between this All-Star club and the 1950 collegiate combine which tripped these same Philadelphia Eagles, 17-7. However, since that time, the All-Stars also whipped the Cleveland Browns, 30-27, in 1955 and defeated the Detroit Lions, 35-19, under coach Graham in the 1958 contest.

Other experts regard the current All-Star crop, the pick of last season's collegiate senior performers, as the best to face the NFL champs since the 1955 conquest of the Cleveland Browns, Graham's former club.

Next Friday night's contest will attract at least 65,000 to the mammoth stadium on Chicago's lake front and it will be televised nationally via ABC at 6 p.m., PDT.

OF SOME 56 all-star grid-ders, Graham has hand-picked 25 players weighing between 230 and 285 pounds.

Graham has three extremely capable quarterbacks—Bill Kilmer of UCLA, Norm Sneed of Wake Forest and Tom Matle of Ohio State.

As targets for these sharpshooters will be ends Aaron Thomas of Oregon State, all-America Mike Dikta of Pittsburgh, and Southern Methodist's Glynn Gregory, and halfbacks Bernie Casey of Bowling Green (Ohio), all-America Joe Bellino of Navy, George Fleming of Washington, Tommy Mason of Tulane, and Pervis Atkins of New Mexico State.

BILLIE JEAN GOES AFTER TITLE TODAY

HAVERFORD, Pa. (UPI)—The women's singles final of the 62nd annual Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis Tournament was postponed Saturday until today because of rain.

The match pits top-seeded Billie Jean Moffitt, Long Beach, Calif., against Justina Bricka, St. Louis.

The rain also washed out a semifinal match in the men's division between Jon Douglas, Santa Monica, Calif., and Jack Frost, Monterey, Calif. It will be played today.

Baseball Manager Must Be Lucky

POT POURRI: Everyone, of course, thought Angel skipper Bill Rigney had pulled the "rock" of the year earlier this month when, trailing the Yankees by a score of 1-0, he sent pitcher Ryne Duren to bat with the bases loaded and two out.

Duren, of course, is a weak hitter who hadn't had a base hit in over two years, but he came through with a single through the box to score two runs and set the stage for three more to tally on Albie Pearson's following homer.

Commenting on this, George Selkirk, the "Twin-kletoes" of an earlier Yankee era, said it is such plays on how managers are made. "You've got to have luck in this game," he admitted during the A's recent visit to Wrigley Field.

Selkirk, now director of personnel for the Kansas City A's, reveals that an incident along the same lines helped make him look good as a manager of the Yankees' old Newark farm club in the International League. Yogi Berra was the catcher that year.

"We were a run behind in the eighth and playing at home," Selkirk recalls. "We had the bases filled with two out. Berra was my hitter and I told Yogi not to worry about hitting it over the fence, but to play for one run because if we tied them, we'd beat them because of our pitching."

"Yogi worked a 3-and-0 count and then smashed the next pitch over the wall for a home run. I asked him later if he missed the sign and he said 'no, I got the hit sign when you rubbed your chin.'"

"I never had the heart to tell Yogi that was the 'take' sign!"

MANY FANS UNDOUBTEDLY HAVE wondered, in view of the shortage of starting pitchers who can hurl complete games, why managers don't consistently use pitchers for three-inning stretches. This, they figure, not only would enable them to have a fresh pitcher in there all the time, but they could use their hurlers more often.

However, baseball men say this doesn't work out. Only a very few rubber-armed relief pitchers can pitch day-in-and-day-out and still maintain their effectiveness, and even then they have to be given an occasional period of rest.

One top pitcher points out that "if a pitcher is used say three times in five days, he must be rested for three days after that. You lose as much going four innings as you do in nine."

"One manager, who later directed a major league club, experimented one winter in the Caribbean League by pulling out each pitcher after three innings figuring he'd have a fresh man throwing all the way. It worked except that he soon ran out of pitchers. All had to be rested at the same time."

This has also been tried in the majors from time to time and the results are the same.

ALBIE PEARSON, WHO RECEIVED only $3,000 when he signed with the Red Sox in the early 1950's, told the story awhile back about buying a bright red Buick with a small down payment and a 36-month contract when he reported to the Louisville club in the Boston chain in '54.

"The Red Sox must have had 19 kids in the Louisville camp that year who received $50,000 or more to sign," Albie recalls.

"I didn't want to be shown up by them, so I bought the big Buick to bolster my ego. But when I drove into the players' parking lot my ego was quickly deflated. I saw nothing but Cadillacs."

ROCKY BRIDGES WAS BORN WITH a natural humor, according to Dave Davies, who was a playground director here until he retired last year.

Dave remembers well the first time he saw Rocky. "He was running for president of the playground monitors and was called on to make an election speech to the monitors."

"Rocky got up and very seriously said: 'All right you guys, if I'm elected I'll give you anything you want—maybe!'"

Fishin' Around

Albacore and More Albacore

Albacore fishing still dominates Southern California's outdoor scene, and, what's more, those long-finned tuna will continue to be the main item of conversation until they decide that they have had enough feed here and head northward along the Japanese current.

Albacore totals for Wednesday and Thursday dropped considerably and put a temporary scare into skippers and fishermen alike. However, the decline was due mostly to rough water off the east end of San Clemente Island, where most of the fish are being caught.

The weather smoothed out again Friday and several thousand albacore were counted at landings here, in San Pedro and in Newport Beach. Pacific Landing's Fisherman II, with 256 fish, was a sample of the high numbers.

Today's fishing, like that of three previous Sundays, is what the theater men would call a full house. Every available boat is running and virtually every craft has a full load of eager-beaver anglers, hoping to get their share of the great fighting fish.

EVEN THE SMALL CRAFT, inboards and outboards, will be out today, and that fact should provide a somber warning to inexperienced boatmen who think that they can make the long haul to San Clemente Island and back. That part of the ocean is NOT for the small outboards. Neither is the channel between here and Catalina Island unless all safety precautions are met.

This is not to say that outboards shouldn't be trying for albacore, but you should know what you are doing. Numbers of outboard cruisers have made the trip successfully.

Take the case of Till and Bill Testa, who own Harbor Marine Sales, 5098 Long Beach Blvd. They have made several trips in an 18-foot boat, running approximately 160 miles for the round trip. And they have come home with plenty of albacore. They also had a third man aboard—Leonard Perrone.

Such trips require good planning and the Testa brothers take no chances. They watch the weather reports, they carry everything—even more—than Coast Guard regulations require, nearly 100 gallons of fuel, an extra battery and prop for the 75-hp. Johnson and spare parts.

A JOHNSON MOTOR like the one used on their boat has an alternator-generator that charges itself all the time and provides plenty of electricity for running the bait-tank motor.

The Testas leave early in the morning, clearing the Long Beach breakwater at 2 a.m. They arrive at the fishing banks about 5:30 a.m., traveling the entire distance at normal cruising speed.

Then they have sense enough to come home before the afternoon chop starts, and that is most important for outboarders traveling even a few miles offshore.

You may well see that we are preaching a bit of outboard safety along with this albacore report. Why? Because entirely too many small boats have been trying the same trip and running out of gasoline. That's extremely dangerous when you are 30 miles from home, and it means that the Coast Guard or some larger boat will have to come to your rescue.

If you don't have a ship-to-shore radio, the cruise may well end in tragedy.

RETURNING FROM BRITISH COLUMBIA after a most interesting trip, we find not only albacore jumping at us, but also the deer hunters. As for deer prospects, a full analysis was carried in last Thursday's Press-Telegram. The coastal deer season begins next Saturday. Ranchers, fearing that hunters might start brush and forest fires, asked Gov. Brown to postpone its start, but he refused to do so.

Next comes dove season, which opens on Sept. 2, a Saturday, and runs through Oct. 1, a Sunday. As usual, the largest concentrations of birds will be in Imperial Valley, so be prepared for a real hot hunting trip. Remember that September is one of our hottest months. This year's dove limit will be 10, daily bag and possession.

Band-tailed pigeon season begins Sept. 30 and ends Oct. 29 in the northern part of the state; Dec. 16-Jan. 14 in the south and the limit will be eight. Shooting hours for doves and pigeons are from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—Only hunting season not yet announced is that for migratory waterfowl. Dates for that will be set in August when the federal government announces the framework for the states. Don't look for any bonuses this year; the duck situation is desperate due to drought in the Canadian prairie provinces.

We began this column about albacore, so we'll end it on other species of ocean fishes. Barracuda, a few yellowjacks, bonito and kelp bass are hot at offshore banks. Try a half-day boat; you'll have plenty of fun without a long boat ride.

Surf in brief: opaleye at the breakwaters; bass early in the mornings and late afternoons; plenty of perch around the rocks and piers; corbina, bonito, halibut and croakers in the surf. Best baits: Worms, clams and crawfish.

Test Rule Changes at World Ski Meet

The seventh World Water Ski championships at Long Beach's Marine Stadium Aug. 24-27 will test a series of new international water ski statistics.

Designed to establish a degree of uniformity between United States and European standards, the new laws represent a significant change in the fast-growing sport. The rules range from a change in the maximum speed to a different scoring system.

Long Beach's Marine Stadium, site of the 1932 Olympic rowing championships, will regain its international flavor when it hosts the 33rd annual event. An estimated 40,000 spectators will watch the outstanding skiers from every continent compete in the "Olympics of Water Skiing."

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Brown announced Saturday he will not delay the scheduled Aug. 5 opening of deer season because of fire hazards.

He had been asked by anxious land owners to deny access to dry areas by hunters and fishermen.

But Brown said "the record shows that results of such action would probably have relatively little effect in cutting the fire hazard."

Richards, Clover in TV Duel

It's strictly a two-battle today between Ted Richards of Del Air, the former Long Beach star, and L. B. City champion Dick Clover in the final round of the Southern California Golf Assn. Championship.

Richards fired a two-under-par 70 at the rugged Los Angeles CC North course Saturday for a 36-hole total of 208 and a two-stroke lead over Clover, who also shot 70. Clover's 210 tally is six strokes ahead of third place sharers Bob Howe, Larry Bouchey and Bill Ransom.

Richards and Clover will play together today, tee-off time 11 a.m. KTTV (11) will televise the round from 1-5 p.m.

Handicap flight play ended Saturday. Don Crystal of Virginia CC finished third in the Secretary's Flight.

AUD BOXING TO RESUME Olympic TV Fight's End; May Stage Monthly Bouts

By FRANK HARVEY
The Olympic Auditorium, which has staged regular weekly boxing shows under the promotion of Cal Eaton for the past 17 years, may go on a bi-monthly or monthly basis in the near future.
A television contract with station KTLA expires Aug. 10, and it is reported that the contract will not be renewed.
Even with the added revenue from TV the Olympic has been losing money on most of the weekly shows, and reports indicate that if a new contract is not forthcoming the Olympic will concentrate on staging one or two top shows a month and endeavor to bring more title fights to Southern California.
The Grand Avenue Club has a pair of first rate scraps scheduled for August.
Andy Escobar and Eddie Garcia will vie for the now vacant California lightweight title Aug. 10, while state featherweight champion Danny Valdez will defend his crown against Gil Cadili Aug. 17. Neither fight is slated for TV.
BOXING WILL resume at Municipal Auditorium here on a bi-monthly basis Aug. 9 when lightweights Jimmy Fields and Andres Garcia supply the action in the 10-round feature.
Matchmaker Earl Beebe has also signed Eddie Alvarado, popular Inglewood bantamweight, for an appearance Aug. 23.

Tele-Vues by TERRY VERNON

Songwriters Sammy Cahn and Jimmy Van Heusen expressed their sentiments about love in a recent Oscar-nominated song.

But unlike love, television can be mighty dull the second time around.

And except for the usual news and panel shows, that's about all there is on the living room monster today—repeats.

SPORTS BRING the one fresh picture to the otherwise repetitious screen.

There are a couple of major golf tournaments this afternoon, but one overlaps the other so you'll have to choose between the pros at Chicago and the amateurs in L.A.

Monday—noon, in color, there's the second All-Star Baseball Game of 1961.

And that old sportswriter, Ed Sullivan, has an all-star lineup for his show today, taped earlier for airing at this time. Meanwhile the Sullivan home set is dark while Ed and Sylvia continue their talent-hunting vacation trip to Tokyo, Hong Kong, Teheran, Istanbul, Athens, Munich, Rome Paris and London. And escape repeats.

BILL WELSH and the KTTV cameras have moved from the curvaceous fairways of Long Beach to the golfing fairways of the Los Angeles Country Club.

Finals of the 61st annual Southern California Amateur will be telecast live from 1 to 4 p.m. on channel 11. Welsh will be at the 18th hole, while Don Lamond will report from the 17th.

Final round action of the 43rd annual PGA golf championship at Olympia Fields Country Club in Chicago will be telecast from 1:30 to 3 p.m. on channel 2. Chris Schenkel, Tom Harmon and John Derr will cover the action.

(Note: Should a playoff round be needed to break a tie after today's play, it will be telecast at 2 p.m. Monday, also on channel 2.)

SUNDAY DAYTIME The work of chaplains on the hospital healing team with physician and psychiatrist is shown via tapes during the twice-yearly "Southern Baptist Hour" (4) at 10:30 a.m. . . . A dramatic production of the Australian Broadcasting Commission is aired on "The International Hour" (2) at 11:30 a.m. A retired school headmistress becomes the target of a subtle persecution campaign by a neurotic former pupil . . . Southern California Amateur Golf Tournament finals (11) at 1 p.m. . . . PGA National golf championship (2) at 1:30 p.m. preempts "Accent" and "Ted Mack" on the CBS network . . . Education in underdeveloped, socially changing countries, is studied during "College Report" (4) at 2:30 p.m. in color . . . Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., is questioned on his outspoken foreign policy views on "Issues and Answers" (7) at 3 p.m.

6 P. M. "Meet the Press" (4), in color, has Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss of the Federal Republic of West Germany, and Wilhelm G. Grewe, West Germany's ambassador to the U.S.

"The 20th Century" (2) repeats its study of our 6,000-mile missile "shooting gallery." Films show a missile test from blast-off at Cape Canaveral to nose cone recovery past the islands of the Caribbean.

7 P. M.

"Shirley Temple Show" (4), in color, repeats the poignant story of a country boy's compassion for a wounded fawn. Charles McGraw, Jane Darwell, Robert Crawford Jr. and Tommy Kirk are started.

"Dennis the Menace" (2) finds his pet hamster chewing off trouble during the repeat. "City at Night" (5) shows a videotape of the finals in the "Battle of the Bands," held last month in the Hollywood Bowl. Amateur musicians from 13 to 20 years compete in five categories—big bands, school bands, combos, vocalists and vocal groups. The Mellowmorn of Long Beach, winners in the latter division, are featured.

"Maverick" (7) has Jack Kelly in a dual role as Bart is mistaken for a notorious outlaw (repeat).

"Theatre Nine" (9) shows the Burt Lancaster 1950 movie, "The Flame and the Arrow," in color. Medieval days in an Italian village.

"Films to Remember" (11) screens the 1932 film classic "Grand Hotel." Greta Garbo, John Barrymore and Joan Crawford star in the Vicki Baum story, with Francis X. Bushman as movie host.

8 P. M.

"Ed Sullivan" (2) has a new program taped earlier this season. Pearl Bailey, Joe E. Lewis, Edgar Bergen and Mortimer Snerd, Alfred Drake and Marion Marlowe are headline guests.

"The Lawman" (7) goes to the rescue of homesteaders victimized by land-grabbing ranchers (repeat).

9 P. M.

"G-E Theatre" (2) repeats "The Play-Off," story of an aging pro golfer who must decide whether to continue the tournament trail or settle down and make a home for his wife and son. Dana Andrews stars, with Nancy Davis, wife of series host Ronald Reagan. Vin Scully plays a sports announcer (it figures).

"Sunday Mystery Hour" (4), in color, stars Dane Clark as an expatriate doctor who becomes the pawn of a ruthless town constable in Guatemala.

"Holiday Lodge" (2) tells in flashback of Wayne and Shuster's frantic campaign to win their jobs of recreation directors.

"The Asphalt Jungle" (7) repeats the story of six young girls shot by a sniper in the same section of the city.

"Open End" (11) reviews the problems of religion in America today. An analysis of the impact and influence of religion in our society is presented by laymen and theologians.

10 P. M.

"Candid Camera" (2) has double-talk comedian Al Kelly confusing customers and clerks in a hardware store. Allen Funt and Dorothy Collins pose as quarrelsome newlyweds in another repeat segment.

"Loretta Young Show" (4) repeats the story of a man who becomes addicted to a narcotic prescribed to ease his pain after surgery.

"What's My Line" (2) seats Johnny Carson in the guest panelist chair (taped).

"This Is Your Life" (4) repeats its salute to Robert Stack.

"Editor's Choice" (7) interviews the Prime Minister of the Federation of Nigeria—Alhaji Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa.

MONDAY TIPS

A new series of stories for children 4 to 12 debuts at 9 a.m. daily on channel 11. Patricia Blake acts out the parts in her narratives as "The Princess" . . . Curt Gowdy and Joe Garagiola describe the 31st All-Star Baseball Game from Fenway Park in Boston. Airtime is 11:45 a.m., in color, on channel 4.

Fire Damages Trestle on WP

TRACY (AP) — Fire partly destroyed a 300-foot wooden trestle on Western Pacific's main east-west line six miles southwest of here late Saturday.

Chief inspector Williams Sutton of the Tracy rural fire department said damage could range from $50,000 to $100,000.

Sutton said the blaze spread quickly and ignited the trestle's underpinnings. He said the blaze could have been touched off by sparks from a passing train.

Arab Rebels Slay 12 French Soldiers

ALGIERS (AP) — Twelve French soldiers were slain while sleeping when Algerian nationalist rebels infiltrated their post near Orleansville early Saturday.

The rebels first cut the throat of a Moslem sentry, then got into the post with the aid of three Algerian members of the little garrison.

Kneeling Man Slain on Gangland 'Ride'

CHICAGO (UPI)—Chicago by neighbors who heard an auto horn blaring and saw victims for "rides," apparently abandoned another of them in a parked car Saturday.

The charred body of a man, thought to be that of Michael Joyce, 30, a hoodlum with a record of 25 arrests, was found by firemen in a burning auto on the city's West Side. The man had been shot to death.

It was the fourth such slaying in the last three months. The first of the victims was a prominent gambler, the second the co-owner of an auto rental firm and the third a dope peddler.

The body thought to be that of Joyce was found in a kneeling position along side the front seat of the auto, the hands folded in a posture of prayer. He had been shot twice through the back of the head. Police believe he had been forced to kneel before being shot. The auto apparently was set afire by the killers.

What's That Funny Noise?

EXPERTS?

Women at the Wheel

By ELISE EMERY

"H'm, better check this out," said our Women's Section editor, Iola Master-son, handing me a release from New York.

The story quoted a sales engineer for a maker of an anti-rust preparation:

"A good 70 per cent of the women we interviewed showed a surprising awareness of the mechanics of and care necessary to properly maintain an automobile," and he cited national incidents to prove it.

I began an unscientific survey.

"What do you think?"

"Well," Iola said, "I remember my mother telling about the time she and a friend were dead-stopped on the highway by a dense fog. They showed a surprising awareness of how to get where they were going."

"MY MOTHER, who was driving, couldn't even see the white line. Her friend was wearing a white petticoat! She raised her skirt, walked ahead of the car, following the center stripe, and my mother followed the ample white petticoat signal."

I decided to go to more authentic sources.

John T. Hope, safety consultant for the Automobile Club of Southern California, said, "Women don't compare too well with men in mechanical knowledge." They don't have the proper training."

Then he added hastily, "Women's mechanical ability was proven during the war—but just how much that carries over to their knowledge of a car—" His voice trailed away doubtfully.

"YOU SEE," he started again, "men like to tinker with a car as a hobby, but very few women can make regular repairs. Boys like to tear down old cars, but that's too dirty and greasy for girls."

"Only a small percentage of women know what to do when trouble develops. Actually, no one knows, unless he is trained. I knew a man who drove buses for 20 years, then got his first car. He couldn't even take a screw out of it because he had never had to make any repairs."

Lewis L. Brown, Los Angeles secretary of the National Automobile Club had this tactful comment:

NOT REVOLVING? HOW REVOLTING!

Pretty Beverly Smith, 3432 Karen Ave., found a certain depressing flatness on drive to afternoon party. Exploring the car trunk, she discovered some unlikely looking tools, by process of elimination decided one was a jack. Beverly and other drivers could get more wear from tires by avoiding high speeds, keeping proper air pressure, rotating tires every 5,000 miles, avoiding quick starts and stops, having wheel alignment checked.—(All photos by Joe Risinger.)

better informed all the time, but I wouldn't say they are on a par yet with men. There are a limited number of sports car enthusiasts, shop and service station attendants.

"MORE WOMEN are thrown on their own resources now; either they live alone or their husbands are too busy to take care of the automobile. From repeated trips to the garage, some women can detect troubles pretty well."

Brown's own wife? "Oh, Kathryn usually asks me to drive her car and diagnose what's wrong."

Dr. Warren Boring and Dr. Carmen Ness, who at Long Beach State College teach teachers to instruct high school students in driver education, agree that drivers should keep close watch on such fundamentals as oil level, and water

Driver's Check List

Your car should be checked regularly for driving safety. Check points include:

Battery. Check cells every week, keep filled with distilled water. Windshield wiper. Radiator. Keep filled with water. Headlights. Must use from half-hour after sunset to half-hour before sunrise. Check upper and lower beams.

Oil gauge. Shows level of oil.

Horn. Should be loud and clear.

Steering, should be easy, positive, no excess play.

Foot brake. Must stop car in 25 feet at 20 miles per hour. Check brakes every 5,000 miles.

Hand brake. Must hold car on a hill.

Rear red light. Must be seen for 500 feet.

White light for number plate. Must be seen for 50 feet.

Exhaust system. Must be tight, no leaks.

Directional signals. Rear view mirror.

WHAT TO DO?

Outstaring flat doesn't work, so Beverly gingerly sets about trying to change tire. She should (1) pry off hubcap with screwdriver. (2) Loosen nuts with wrench. (3) Jack up car, remove nuts. (4) Remove wheel, replace with spare. Replace nuts and hubcap. But never attempt car repairs on busy highway.

level in the radiator and battery.

"But," they said ruefully, "many women don't even know how to lift the hood."

If you suspect trouble may be developing, they advise, have the car checked at once and stay off the freeways where a breakdown could be disastrous.

I CALLED the Norwalk station of California Highway Patrol and talked to Officer Leonard Foote who drove a patrol car on the freeway for 18 months before his present assignment as public relations officer.

"Anyone who tries to make roadside repairs in our Southern California freeway traffic takes his life in his hands," he warned.

"Women," he added guardedly, "usually can't explain what happened when the car breaks down —they don't even know what part of the car made that funny noise."

"But they can be sure that the car has gas. From 80 to 85 per cent of stopped cars have run out of gas."

HIS SUGGESTIONS to all drivers:

If trouble develops, immediately pull over to the right, as far off the highway as possible.

Open the car hood and tie a white cloth—handkerchief, scarf, anything white to the radio antenna, door handle or side mirror. These are nationally recognized distress signals.

STAY IN THE CAR.

TEACHER'S AID

Barbara Doyel is one of two women in 34-man class at Long Beach State College. She is taking driver education for teachers, will teach students at Brea-Olinda Union High School to drive. Here she demonstrates instructional device for learners, who must also know rules of the road.

DISTRESS SIGNALS

White cloth on car, hood raised are highway distress signs across the nation. Christina Drake arranges signals, starts timing to see how long she must wait for help to arrive. Signals, originated on eastern thoroughways, were brought west by tourists. Freeways are regularly patrolled by California Highway Patrol officers, alert to assist motorists. Often other drivers who have been aided previously will stop to help stranded driver. Park automobile at extreme right of road, stay in car.

WELCOME!

Capt. Victor Bailey, who heads CHP Norwalk office, was on way to official function in Los Angeles when he saw Christina's car, returned to investigate. In Norwalk station's area, freeway is patrolled on 'round-the-clock schedule.

Brilliant Ball IBC Climax

At a constantly accelerating pace last week social events and parties followed on the heels of one another until Saturday night when the splendor of the International Beauty Congress grand ball served as a fitting climax for the entire event.

During the pageant, under the auspices of the Judges' Committee, a dinner was given each night for the judges and celebrated guests. Charles Campbell has been chairman and arranged the dinners.

On Wednesday night Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hart and Mr. and Mrs. Campbell entertained at the Reef Restaurant. Thursday evening a party was given at the Virginia Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Collins Jr., and on Friday Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davis were hosts in their home, 4300 Myrtle Ave.

LAST EVENING Mr. George P. Taubman, president of the IBC this year, and Mrs. Taubman entertained at cocktails in the Ballerina Room of the Lafayette immediately preceding the ball. Honored guests were the IBC board of directors and officials, the judges and their wives or husbands, and visiting dignitaries from all over the world, here especially for the pageant.

Assisting the Taubmans were Mayor and Mrs. Edwin Wade, Dr. and Mrs. John Cottrell, Messrs. and Mrs. Albert Davis, W. A. Harrington, J. W. Becker, James Crocker, Charles M. Campbell, John P. Davis and Oscar Meinhardt.

Among the beautifully gowned women were noted Mrs. Becker, wife of last year's pageant president, who wore vivid red chiffon, styled with softly floating skirt and V-neckline. With it she wore jeweled slippers and sparkling jewelry. Mrs. Albert Davis chose a gown and matching coat of yellow sari fabric, gold banded, made from material she bought in Fiji on a recent trip. Mrs. Cottrell was in a white silk crepe printed in grey and beige, its patterns outlined in sequins.

A GOWN she bought in Florence at Casa della Moda was worn by Mrs. Vernon Fay. It was a gay floral print in bright greens and blues trimmed with bands of aqua and blue velvet, and worn with green shoes. Mrs. Campbell wore a powder blue Ceil Chapman gown, its plume of imported lace encrusted with jewels. With it she wore slippers of matching fabric. An off-the-shoulder flowered silk print in royal blue and green was worn by Mrs. John P. Davis. Mrs. Harrington was in rose silk organza designed with intricately overlapping folds of fabric. Numerous other gay gatherings throughout the city preceded the ball.

right lane for safety, you may have to walk over to the far right, close to the fence.)

"In our freeway area it won't be more than 15 to 20 minutes before a patrol car comes by; it might be 30 minutes in other spots. But don't start walking for help. Three out of five of our last pedestrian accidents were caused by people walking on the freeway; besides, it's illegal.

"AT NIGHT," turn on your parking lights. That's required by law; another vehicle might be in trouble, pull over and hit you if lights aren't on."

I decided to try that 20-minute wait for assistance.

Dr. Robert Smith of Long Beach State College loaned his car; Christina Drake, 238 Coronado Ave., volunteered to act as lady-in-distress, while photographer Joe Risinger and I waited some distance ahead to see what would happen.

Christina parked—distress signals aloft—on the Santa Ana Freeway between Lakewood and Paramount at 4:10 p.m. with traffic thickening like fudge in the final bealing.

Fifteen minutes later a patrol car passed us in the center lane. Passenger cars and trucks like freight trains were bearing down on us in increasing home-bound traffic.

WE WERE ready to give up when—just 20 minutes after we stopped—the patrol car rolled up in our lane.

"Having trouble?" asked the officer. He was Capt. Victor Bailey in charge of the Norwalk CHP station. On his way to an official dinner in Los Angeles, he had seen our distress signs and detoured to help.

Unaware of our experiment, he had proved the point that help does arrive soon if you wait.

Altar Society

St. Anthony's Altar Society will sponsor a dessert luncheon and card party on Wednesday in Catholic Center. The public is invited.

Sponsors Benefits

First of a series of summertime benefit bridge luncheons will be given by Children's Benefit League on Monday at noon in the Mounted Police Clubhouse. All proceeds will go toward the organization's philanthropies, the Children's Clinic and the Psychiatric Clinic for Children.

The league donates $250 monthly and completely staffs all volunteer jobs at the former agency, and gives $200 monthly plus partially staffing the latter.

They also take special cases referred by the Children's Clinic and buy orthopedic braces, or donate camperships. In addition they aid the Children's Dental Clinic by buying dentures. They expend approximately $2,500 yearly in these additional projects.

CO-CHAIRMAN for the bridge luncheons are Mmes. Arden Carlson and L. W. Clarke. They have chosen pastel flowers as centerpiece for the individual tables. Cash prizes will be awarded to bridge and canasta winner.

Hostesses for the event are Mmes. Fred Gosch, Anthony Affre, Archie Jones and Joseph Striegel.

Three Are Midsummer Brides

Honeymooning at Lake Tahoe following their recent nuptials in All Saints Episcopal Church are Mr. and Mrs. George Frederick Dunker Jr. (Carol Rutledge Smart). Mr. and Mrs. Kennard R. Smart of Los Alamitos are parents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Dunker Sr. of Livermore are the bridegroom's parents.

The bride was graduated from Wilson High School and both are graduates of UCLA where she was a Chi Omega and he a Phi Kappa Psi.

They will live in Berkeley where the new Mrs. Dunker will teach while he attends the UC, Berkeley, Law School. He completed two years Navy service as a Lt. (jg).

FOR HER wedding the bride chose a gown of white taffeta trimmed with lace and a coronet headpiece confining her veil. Her bouquet was of white rosebuds.

Attending the couple were Mrs. Gary Mitchell, matron of honor; Mrs. Robert Ohland, Lynn Fitzgerald and Martha Havens, bridesmaids; Julian LeCompte, best man; Kennard Smart Jr., Gerald Belt and Donald Ward, ushers.

KAVENEY-PAVAVO Judie Pavao, daughter of David C. Pavao, 4421 Blackthorne Ave., and the late Mrs. Pavao, recited wedding vows with Edward James Kaveney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmet P. Kaveney of Wilmington in a morning ceremony at St. Cyprian's Catholic Church.

Alencon lace over taffeta trimmed with seed pearls and sequins was worn by the bride. A lace princess crown held her veil. Anna Marie Kaveney was maid of honor, and Colleen Kaveney, Irma Martinovich and Sally Ann Neylan were bridesmaids.

SERVING AS best man was Raymond Croteau, and seating the 250 guests were Dr. James Diffley, Hugh MacDonald and John Kaveney, bridegroom's brother.

Both graduates of St. Anthony's High School, the bride attended Mount St. Mary's College and Kaveney attended Loyola University. They are residing in Torrance.

HOLSTON-KOELLER Wearing a gown of white peau de soie with bell-shaped Chantilly lace skirt and a short train Susan Jerelyn Koeller became the bride of William E. Holston in a formal evening service at Community Presbyterian Church. Her bouquet was of roses and stephanotis.

Preceding the bride were her sister, Carol P. Koeller, maid of honor; JoLynne DeVeney, Sue Brock and Raul.

Hot Items on Cool Aisles

Shopping was no problem this week. Cool store interiors were a lure in themselves. Once inside here's what caught the eye.

UNDER $2

Amber, green and amethyst, these are colors available in thumb print glassware pattern. Inexpensive, the line's a dream as colorful decorator pickup. Sherberts; goblets, water glasses, salt and peppers, and candy dishes and jars range in price from $1.10 to $3.50.

Round playing cards haven't been around for years and years, but now they're back. Three inches in diameter, easy to handle and shuffle, they're bound to surprise your favorite foursome; start a conversational gambit. Available in handsome clock-works design of black, white and gold, or amusing miniature pink elephant pattern.

UNDER $7

Progress keeps rolling along. Now it's a revolutionary new roller skate. Skates slip on any type of shoe, sneakers to Sunday best, in seconds! Exclusive spring action automatically adjusts to fit any size children's shoe. One simple screw adjustment is all it takes. No clamps mean no ripped soles, and the cap protects against scraping and scuffing. All-steel construction.

Ceramics is his business. Sascha Brastoff, noted for abstract creations and unique dinnerware, now features vases, ash trays, other items in handsome antiqued gold finish. Every signed piece is original work of art, no two pieces are same. Followers of line will want to own these. From $5 to $15.

The sun tanning sun hat is hat to tan in. A large plastic, cartwheel bonnet with tie-under-chin scarf it's lovely to look at, guarantees tan... no burn. Rays are filtered through while wearer relaxes in sun. Two sizes, two prices, $2.98 and $6.98.

And away we go! And even by top-down convertible, the bubblest bouffant hair-do will stay in place. The secret—U. S. made spray available in instantly refillable reservoir container. Spray is crystal clear, non-sticky, holds hair in place even in damp, humid weather. Purse container in Florentine gold and black and gold finishes, refills at $2.50 for 15 ounce bottle.

UNDER $20

Lebanese lovelies. From Beirut comes elegant carving set of Jezzine ware. In nightingale pattern, handles are carved gazelle horn with bright inlaid disks of dyed camel bone. Shafts available in nickel, brass or silver. Complete table settings also may be ordered in same line.

UNDER $50

As elegant as stately minuet, Minton bone china in minuet pattern is perfect choice for formal table setting. Quiet, understated design in pink or white and gold. From England of course. Five piece place setting $45.

The Wild Waves Say ..

By IOLA MASTERSON
I, P-T Women's Editor

IF YOU heard cries of "Merry Christmas" and the familiar tune of jingle bells last night I trust you did not scurry in search of the nearest head specialist. You were not, as it turns out, suffering from hallucinations. Jean "Bill" Klaus and Bill Lockett had a Christmas party. Honest to Pete they did.

Last Yule for one reason and another they couldn't have their traditional holiday party and Jean promised sulking friends she'd have it in July. A fully decorated tree (aluminum) filled the front window and the pine in the patio was ablaze with lights and baubles, too. Jean cooked an authentic Dec. 25 dinner — turkey, cranberries, pumpkin pie — the works. The only thing missing was hot toddy. In deference to the weather they served cool champagne. Instead.

Even St. Nicholas, looking very much like host, Bill, greeted guests on arrival. Among those attending, in elfish mood no doubt, were Gladys and Jack Hayden, Mary and Dr. Scott Mighell, Dottie and Clint Conatser, Rosalie and Harry Low, Jody and Ray Lake, Barbara and Fred Hesley, Connie and Phil Putnam, Cathy and Mike Murphy and Ann and Earl Hershman.

In the spirit of Noel this fun loving, mixed up bunch

TODAY, AS they did yesterday, Nance and Bill Winston will hold forth at a dock warming party at their new 24x24 bay float in front of their home at 279 Bay Shore. Friends have been asked to drop by (not in, unless properly attired) anytime for some sunning, paddle boarding or swimming on or beside the dock. Beer and skittles will be served by the water's edge.

HERE'S A shockeroo. Marietta and Walt Jordan are pulling up stakes and will be moving to Yucaipa (that's a town near Riverside, Mabel, no matter if it does sound like I was saying "ouch" probably mid-August. They've bought a view lot which overlooks a golf course to hold the new house they'll build. And it isn't because they don't love us any more but because our sea coast weather doesn't love Marietta. It gives her the sneezles and wheezles.

COSMOPOLITAN AND very exciting parties have dotted the week's calendar, all inspired by the IBC pageant. For instance at Bonnie and Hank Ridder's elegant pre-show cocktail and buffet Tuesday the guest list was liberally sprinkled with dignitaries from around the world — including former Princess Fathia Ghalil of the royal house of Egypt, sister of Farouk, and Mrs. David M'Divani and her son, Prince Michael. And when Mayor Sam Yorty arrived to bring greetings from our suburb to the north it was just like in the movies. He came and went by helicopter, landing quite handily in the adjacent Virginia Country Club golf course!

Elsewhere on these pages we bring you a word sketch on the glamorous Betsy and George Taubman party last night when IBC week ended on a gala ball note.

AS SURE as August (and August is, as of this week) friends look forward to this summer month anticipating Janice Cole and Florence Cole's traditional luau luncheon party at Florence's in-the-mood "Aloha House" on Granada.

Party date in '61 is next Thursday from 11:30 a.m. Guests have been advised that they MUST wear South Pacific style garb—or else. Some guests, knowing it's an all feminine shindig, dream up some pretty snazzy garbs, too.

Assisting the cool Coles will be Joni Ferguson, Luba Kadavy, Marge Stanton, Phil Esposito, Anabel Parks, Eve Harvey, Eldred Bricey and Fran Cavaliere. About a 100 have been bidden. Traditionally there'll be Hawaiian dancers to entertain (from Val Moore's), exotic decorations to admire and good friends to see.

UNDER THE watchful eye of general chairman, Jane Rhorer, members of Assistance League's Deb Ball decorating committee have been working, if not around the clock at least around the weeks, in preparation for August's top drawer social event on the 26th.

So far Connie (Mrs. Charles) Campbell has had nothing but beaming approval from Jane. They won't drop a hint except that decorations, many of them imported, are arriving from overseas and that the general theme will be gardenish. Others working with Connie are Willa Gilmore, Lillian Maggart, Kay Turner, Elaine Taylor, Kay Nesbit, Mildred Arnold and Hilda Utecht.

SHOWING her mima and brothers how she can grow "strong" from now on will be little Maureen Sharon, Gen Strong's very new baby daughter. Maureen was born Tuesday at Community.

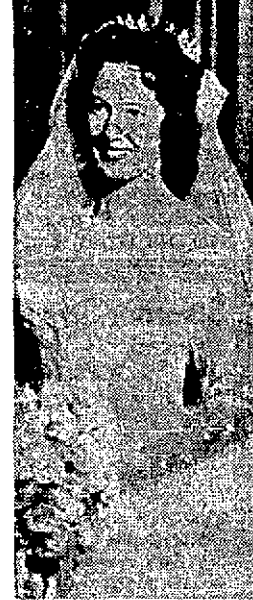

ADD TO citizens who are now looking backward at their Hawaiian vacations the names of Bev and John Henderson, Millie and Bill Barrie and Lois and "Rusty" Fellows. For Lois and "Rusty" there was a little business stirred into their pleasure. They went to arrange purchase of a big new dry dock for their Fellows and Stewart boat landing. It will be tugged to our harbor area from its former berth in Pearl Harbor, I am told, which sounds like quite a chore. So with fingers crossed we plead, "Stay dry, dock!"

VACUUM the red carpet! Shirley Planting has just arrived from home in Birmingham, Mich., with children, Susie and Scotty, for a summer visit with her mother and old home town friends. Already "in the works" is a luncheon in her honor which Dorothy Wise and Sylvia Sherwood will co-hostess at "Sherwood Forest" in Park Estates on Aug. 16. About 100 are being bidden to the drop-in affair. Incidentally, Chuck will not be making a vacation visit here this summer. He's staying put to oversee completion of the new Planting home now a-building.

HALFWAY hoping they'd get lost in the trees so they wouldn't have to come home so soon were Binky and John Vosburg and children who spent a relaxed, lovely few days at Forest Home.

Smith-Egan Nuptial Vows Are Solemnized

Before some 325 guests during a nuptial mass at St. Barnabas Church, Mary Dean Egan became the bride of Curtis R. Smith. Both are of Long Beach.

Mrs. Curtis R. Smith

For the ceremony, the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Egan, 3519 Cerritos Ave., wore a full-length white dress of Schiffl lace with Sabrina neckline, wrist-length sleeves and tiered train.

She was attended by Mrs. Joan Ennis, matron of honor; Linda-Lee Leonard and Cindy Patterson, bridesmaids; Maureen Ashley, flower girl.

ATTENDING the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Curtis Smith, 3620 Olive Ave., were Brad Benson, best man; James B. Egan, William Bailey and John F. Egan, ushers.

Following a honeymoon at Palomar Mountain, the couple will be at home in Long Beach.

Both are graduates of St. Anthony High School. The bride, who teaches classical ballet, studied at Long Beach State College. Her bridegroom, an English teacher at Mayfair High School, Lakewood, was graduated from Loyola University, Los Angeles.

Stilwell-Crowell Vows Said in Methodist Rite

East Long Beach Methodist Church was setting for recent evening wedding of Suzanne Crowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crowell, 1615 Obispo Ave., and Barry Stilwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stilwell, 401 Panama Ave.

Mrs. Barry Stilwell

In the bridal party were Carolyn Crowell, maid of honor; Sandy Kelly and Sandy Beaudoin, bridesmaids; Jerry Beaudoin, best man; Steve Gurr, Ralph Smith, ushers; Robin Crowell, flower girl; and Jim Crowell, ring bearer.

A FORMAL white satin wedding gown with lace insets and train was designed by the bride's mother. The bride's fingertip length veil was held by a pearl crown, and her spray bouquet was of carnations and an orchid.

Both young persons were graduated from Wilson High where she was a member of Yoga and Odean Service Club and he of Lambda Sigma. He was also graduated from Long Beach City College.

Following a Santa Barbara honeymoon, the couple is residing at 790 Coronado Ave.

Newlyweds Here

Spending the summer vacationing in Long Beach prior to their return to Berkeley in September are newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Philip Michael Madden.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Madden, 643 Euclid Ave., and the former Karen Littelle Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Sheldon Johnson of Pasadena, were married at Holy Family Church in South Pasadena. The Rev. James P. Lynch of Long Beach performed the ceremony.

The bride's gown was an elegantly simple sheath of silk organza over peau de soie, en train, appliqued with Alencon lace. Her illusion veil fell from a coronet of tulle and seed pearls, and her bouquet was of butterfly orchids and stephanotis.

Presidents Install

Past Presidents Club, Long Beach Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, will install Rose Davis as president Monday at 8 p.m. in Veterans Memorial Bldg. Mary McFall, past president of Department of California, will be installing officer.

Serving with Miss Davis will be Dorothea Baker, Elsie Schelley, Mary Noble, Lois Butler, Bertha Robinson, Clella Jordan, and Eileen Cain.

GOWNED IN avocado green shantung were Wendy Harris, maid of honor; Joan Prestlin, Judyth Hart and Patricia Cobb, bridesmaids. John Madden was his brother's best man, and seating the 175 guests were Patrick Madden, Jon Sullivan, Ray Rinella and John Gilmore.

A garden and poolside reception followed at the bride's parents' home. The couple left for a honeymoon trip to Santa Barbara, Carmel and San Francisco.

The new Mrs. Madden was graduated from UC at Berkeley where she was a Delta Gamma. The bridegroom attended Long Beach City College where he was affiliated with Tong, and is attending UC at Berkeley where he is a member of Sigma Nu and Phi Delta Phi, legal fraternity. He returns this fall for his last year of law studies at Boalt Hall.

From Tahiti to Iceland They All Had a Ball

The only people who sat in rocking chairs last Sunday night were not guests of the four couples who hosted IBC girls. Feting the beauties in their lovely homes were Jackie and Malcolm Lucas, Eleanor and Jim Foasberg, Mil and Sam Cameron and Madeleine and John Paap and it was not a night for sitting but moving in a party whirl.

Assisting at the Foasbergs were Muriel and Dr. Bob Hastings, Kay and Ocho Slaton and Carol and Earl Carson. Miss Monaco, one of their honorees, like every one of the other girls, loved to dance. Her favorite, the "Charley Stone."

Assisting Mil and Sam were Marilyn and Jim Crocker, Byron Palmer and Marietta and Oscar Meinhardt. Guests and honorees had a great time between house and the specially canopied platform on the beach in front at Alamitos Bay.

At the Paaps there were 102 present for sit down dinner (yup, between garden and house all were seated) including 16 IBCs. Here too, dancing, swimming and making new friends took precedent. John tells me they served 250 pieces of fried chicken, two 30-pound turkeys; two 15-pound hams and goodness only knows how many pounds of other good things to eat.

As to what happened at the Lucas—don't know. Jackie has been such a busy bee all week I never have managed to catch her on the telephone. But it's a safe prediction to say everyone had a wonderful time there as with the other hosts.

Galazs Honored at Dance

More than 500 friends and guests attended the recent dance at Lakewood Country Club honoring the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Gumecindo Galaz of 12685 Pasadena Ave.

The couple's grandchildren were hosts and hostesses for the event which followed a smaller afternoon reception at the home of their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Galaz.

The elderweds repeated wedding vows at a solemn high nuptial mass in Holy Innocents Catholic Church, preceding the two parties.

MRS. GALAZ wore a rose lace dress for the church ceremony and carried an orchid and lilies of the valley bouquet.

She was attended by her six daughters, Mmes. Tony Solorzano, Tony Moreno, Pete Marquez, Jim Halicus, John Roa and John La Combe. The couple's sons, Albert Galaz, Raymond Galaz and Ramon Galaz, were ushers.

The Galazs have lived in Long Beach for more than 25 years. They were originally from New Mexico.

Engagement Is Revealed

Mrs. Marbel Middleton of Long Beach, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Wendy Maureen Middleton, to Ronald S. Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon S. Craig also of this city.

The bride-elect attended Long Beach City College. Her father was the late Mr. Edwin L. Middleton.

Craig was graduated from the University of British Columbia with arts and law BA degrees.

The wedding will take place Sept. 16 at Silverado Park Methodist Church.

New 'Hatitude': Tilts and Towers

By MARY ELLIS
L. P.T. Fashion Editor

There's a new 'hatitude' for fall-winter chapeaux: more often than not, they take off in two directions.

—Either they list to the side like a sailboat in a gale.

—Or they tower straight up or back like a nose cone in flight.

One of the leading exponents of the side-slide is mad-about-hats Sally Victor, who is observing her 25th anniversary as a designer.

At her fall showing, models couldn't get the hats far enough down over the right cheek to suit the designer. "Farther, farther," Mrs. Victor kept saying.

THE TILT, or profile hat as some designers call it, also was the dominant shape at the Millinery Institute of America's trend showing for fashion editors attending the New York Couture Group's semi-annual press week.

Brims were rolled, folded back away from the face, turned back at one side only, softly rippled or made of fur.

MILLINERS favored high crowns, some eight or ten inches tall—most of them rounded into globular shapes.

Newest idea of all: A double-purpose hat with fur brim that detaches from a smart felt toque.

ABOVE:
Purity of line, sleek sophistication are molded into dramatic travel cloche by Mr. John. Design is of plush velour in newest color sensation, "Baldini brown."

RIGHT:

Miss Alice excitingly defines after-dark enchantress with unique black tricornie in satin, ostrich, jewels; tilts it to give coquettish elegance.

SALLY VICTOR'S side-slide tilt beret, perfect for new halo coiff designed by Coiffures Americana. Hairstyle features bouffant ruff of tresses that swirls up and away from clear brow, spreads into angelic circle that frames face.

ABOVE:
Lilly Dache takes black to its highest power in global-crowned profile hat for fall. Double how frames face for striking flattery.

LEFT:

House of Dior Reveals Sexy 'New Look' in Fall, Winter Paris Fashion Showing

By NORA MARTIN

PARIS (UPD)—The house of Christian Dior this week unveiled a shapely, sexy "new look" for autumn and winter fashions that featured short hemlines giving a glimpse of the knee-cap.

The subtle, sinuous look was baptized the "charm 62 line" and was shown before an enthusiastic audience that included Princess Lea Radziwill, sister of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy. The President's sister-in-law seemed to enjoy the new line.

The 35-year-old designer, Marc Bohan, who succeeded Yves St. Laurent last January, showed he was out to lure women into showing shapely legs under short-skirted clothes.

Promising to renew the success of his first collection in January, Bohan received an ecstatic welcome from his audience. Repeated applause greeted the deadpan models in Dior's perfumed, silky salons in an exciting and fast-paced show.

SOME OF the new late-day dresses were extremely low cut.

The new charm line breaks down to suit and dress styles more figure-molding and sexy-looking than for a long time.

The suits had short, snug jackets with set-in sleeves and an attached hood as the newest detail.

Suit skirts were stiffened cones flaring to a hemline showing the knees.

Dresses were built to sheath the bosom and the midriff down to the hips. Dress skirts were often flaring to swirling fullness.

Dior showed wide belts to circle the naturally high waist. The eyecatchers of Dior's charm look were the hoods shown for all hours of the day. The short and full, leg-revealing skirts and the wide belts made the figure look even slimmer.

The overtone of frivolity to all this elegance and sophistication was provided by some décolletés which take nerve to wear. Even the shapely Dior model showing them was rather embarrassed.

One black wool dress had such a widespread V-neckline that she first blushed violently, then tried to cover up her neckline while the audience gasped and the men applauded.

CONTRARY to the other Paris fashion houses where bias cuts and oblique lines set the trend, the Dior styles had horizontal seams and the stiffly-flaring skirts were not cut on the bias.

Belts, which were absent on most of the other Paris styles seen so far, were sewn at Dior narrow on daytime outfits and growing to six-inch width for late-day wear.

However, through its feminine mode, sinuous and slender styles and love of luxury, Dior "charm styles" fit right into the new Paris look for next autumn and winter.

The Dior clothes may prove more easy to copy than the complicated and subtly-cut outfits in some other Paris fashion houses.

Luxury, the keynote to the new charm style, was apparent in all-over embroidered short evening suits, sparkling with thousands of sequins, fabulous gold brocade evening gowns were sewn with brocade coats heavily trimmed with such precious furs as sable and chinchilla and worn with the new evening booties, also in gold brocade.

For added charm Dior recommended strapless necklines for dress-up styles unless a girl prefers to wear one of those new super-revealing décolletés in order to get her name in the papers.

Auxiliary Date

Arthur L. Peterson American Legion Auxiliary will meet at 8 p. m. Tuesday in Veterans Memorial Bldg. Florence Goddard, 1121 Rose Ave., is in charge of new roster of members to be presented at meeting.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

He's a Date-Breaker

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Last April I met a boy, two years older than I am, 15, to be exact, and, boy did I ever fall for him, and vice versa, so I thought.

Then we had an argument, and finally made up, or so I thought, again. Maybe I don't think right, Molly. He called, you see, and said he was coming over.

I was so thrilled I gave up a baby-sitting job to be home and waited—and he never came. Later on he called and apologized and set another date. I waited and I waited—he never showed.

I got word he was going to call again and, oh, I do so want to see him, but I think he has been so rude, I really ought to let him know. Should I make another date or not?—STOOD UP.

DEAR STOOD UP:

If he's stood you up twice, dearie, what's to keep him from making it three times in a row? And why would you want to risk being a target for his rudeness again?

If he calls—he'd have a lot of nerve—tell him straight out that you've given him enough practice in date-breaking and to practice elsewhere from here on out.—M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Just one brief question. When you take a girl to a movie, and then out for a sandwich and malt, shouldn't she be willing to kiss you goodnight?

I've tried three different girls now, and all three have said, "Don't be fresh!" and banged the door in my face. I guess you could say that, all totaled up, it has taken me $3.86 to learn that females are cold and conniving critters.—EDDIE.

Well, I will say your investment hasn't paid off very well. Should you try romantic approach before the sandwiches and malts, maybe?—M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

You must be a hundred and one years old judging by the advice you give teenagers!

I can't imagine you ever having been a teenager. Maybe you just went from 12 to 20, huh? You seem to think teenagers ought to sit around and lick on lollipops instead of getting out and whooping it up.

Look, we're going to be old a heck of a long time, and what fun can you have when you have to grub away to pay your own expenses? Now is the time our parents have to support us, so why shouldn't we feel free to have fun?

And doing everything by the rule book can't be called fun. Sometimes you sound like you wrote the rule books.—GUS.

DEAR GUS:

You poor little fledgling. Your mentality must have slipped by the law of averages somehow.

Poor, befuddled, frustrated, poisonous Gus.—M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

We are two Air Force men stationed in the far wastelands of the sub-Arctic. Our tour here is for 15 long months, with no place to go and very little to occupy the spare hours at the end of a day's duty.

We would like for you to give us a plug so that some nice young ladies would write to us. We're stationed in Goose Bay, Labrador. Our address is 11q, Goose AD Sector, APO 677, New York, N. Y. (A/C Arthur Green AF 12496146, and A/A Silenza Pond, AF 13165609).

Friends here remember warmly when Adm. Roland N. Smoot was commander of US Mine Force of Pacific Fleet, with headquarters at Long Beach Naval Station, and he and Mrs. Smoot lived in Long Beach.

The Smoots are now in Taipei, where Adm. Smoot leads US Taiwan Defense Command. Adm. Smoot's mother, Mrs. B. R. Smoot, Cooper Arms, has heard a great deal about the fine work of Ta Tung Relief Institute in Taipei, and recently sent a check to assist the orphanage.

Also stationed in Taipei are Lt. Comdr. R. J. Hollingsworth, aide to Adm. Smoot, and Mrs. Hollingsworth, who formerly lived in Long Beach. Mrs. Charles W. Gill, Lakewood, is spending the summer with the Hollingsworths, her daughter and son-in-law.

December Vows Set

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Kuehne of Wilmington have announced engagement of their daughter, Mary Alice, to Michael David Wiley, son of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Wiley of Long Beach.

Both young persons were graduated from Banning High School, and the bride-elect from Harbor Junior College where she was a member of Alpha Gamma Sigma.

Her fiancé was also graduated from USC where he was a member of Alpha Phi Omega and the bands. He will continue work toward his Ph.D. in chemistry at the University of Washington where he was awarded a teaching assistantship.

The wedding will take place during the Christmas holidays.

Justweds Live Here

Linda O'Neal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. O'Neal, 3941 Lemon Ave., became the bride of Richard L. Key Jr., son of the Richard Keys Sr., 477 South St., in a mid-afternoon ceremony at First Christian Church.

The bride wore white taffeta with a lace bodice and carried a white net heart surrounded white orchids. A crown of crystals held her veil. Her attendants were Susan Rukes, maid of honor; and Roberta and Lynn Key, sisters of the bridegroom. Lorrie Thorn was flower girl.

BEST MAN was Vernon Gunckel, and ushering duties were handled by Milton Johnson, Ernie Willingham, Terry O'Neal, Bob Singletary and Ronnie Key, bridegroom's brother.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Key are living at 2501 Olive Ave., after a La Jolla honeymoon.

The bride, a graduate of Poly High, and her bridegroom are attending Cincinnati Bible Seminary. She is a past honored queen of Bethel 109, Rainbow Girls.

Speak Up to Mother-in-Law!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Every time my mother-in-law sees me she looks me up and down to see if I am wearing anything new. Not that she would ever compliment me on how nice I look (she reserves those remarks for HER DAUGHTER), but she is fond of saying, "Another new dress?" Or, "More new shoes?"

I do not run my husband into debt buying clothes. I happen to be a very shrewd shopper, and manage to get some outstanding buys on some expensive clothes. I have never told anyone what I pay for my things, but my mother-in-law knows style and quality, and this must bug her.

Should I ask my husband to set his mother straight, or should I tell her myself?—HALF-PRICE HELEN.

DEAR HALF: Tell her yourself. It takes a girl with more on the ball to dress well with less in her pocket.

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you ran the following letter in your column:

"DEAR ABBY: This is going to be hard to believe, but it's a fact. I love a wonderful guy and he loves me. We want to get married, but he says the thought of the needle for the blood test makes him weak in the knees. He is 23 and I am 21. Is there a state where you don't need a blood test to get married? He says he'd drive a thousand miles. (signed) WANTS TO GET MARRIED"

ABBY

—and you replied:

"DEAR WANTS: There's Nevada in the West, Maryland in the East, Minnesota in the North and South Carolina in the South. It shouldn't be difficult to sew him up without a needle."

Abby, I wish you had told this young woman that at 23 her "wonderful guy" has been stabbed by plenty of needles and survived them all. His fear of the blood test was the fear that he couldn't pass. Furthermore, "Miss Wants" should be told that the blood test is for her own protection, the protection of her future children, and society at large; and she should insist on marriage only in a state that requires it. This free advice is based on many years' experience in Domestic Relations Court.

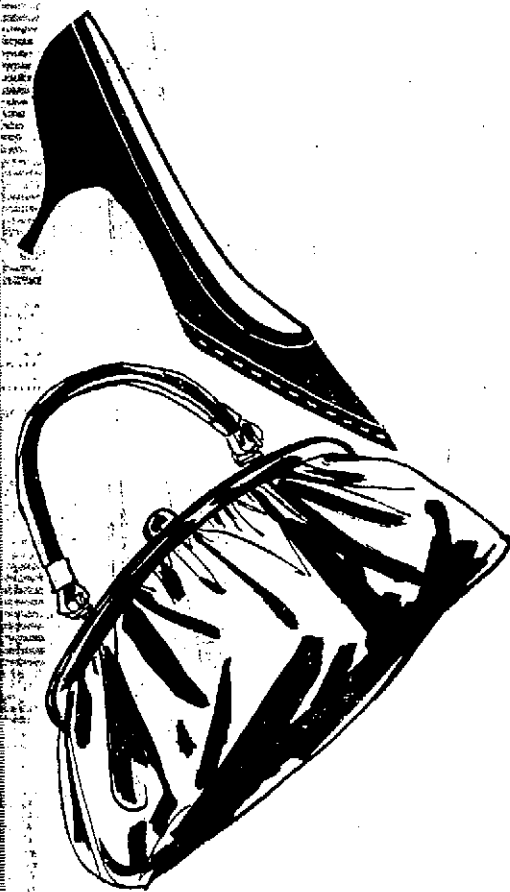

Sincerely,
DOMESTIC RELATIONS ATTORNEY,
LL.B., Ph. D.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young widow with four small children. My income is limited. I would like to know if it is proper to ask the man who takes me out to pay for my baby-sitter?—WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING: It is not proper to ASK him. But you can hint a little and, if he OFFERS, it is proper to accept.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "DOWN IN THE MOUTH":
So was Jonah, and he lived through it. Chin up!

Oswald Jacoby A Classic Situation

No series of articles on the 4-4 major fit would be complete without one example of the classic situation where a 4-4 trump fit produces one more trick than a 5-4 trump fit in another suit.

North's diamond opening and South's one spade response are normal and it is up to North to make a strong second round bid.

His choice of four spades is probably the correct one although it does put quite a burden on South. Many players would pass with the South hand, but he does have 11 points, a diamond fit and a good four card spade suit so his five diamond call can't be too bad.

NEEDLESS to say, North will go on to a slam and he had better go there in spades. If he goes there in diamonds he will miss his contract by one trick.

Playing at six spades South wins the opening club lead, draws trumps with three leads and runs off five diamonds to get rid of his other club. Then he ruffs dummy's last club and eventually loses one heart trick.

Note that he could not make the slam against a 4-1 trump break but the diamond slam could not make as long as the opponents lived through the entire hand.

WHY GROW OLD?

Make 5-Pound Weight Gain Vacation Maximum

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here we are right in the middle of summer and vacation time. And we all know that part of the fun of a trip is the good food at lovely spots and experimentation with new and different sorts of food.

It is a fine idea to be the correct weight when you begin your vacation. Then EXPECT to gain five pounds and ENJOY doing it. But five pounds is the limit . . . don't let it climb to 10 or 15 too much.

If you do you will be miserable in your clothes and will have quite a job to do when you return. One warning! Don't procrastinate but lose the five pounds immediately after getting home, before you become accustomed to the extra weight and take it for granted. A vacation has often triggered prolonged overweight.

IF YOU ARE going to eat dessert, do without canapés and rolls. If your main course and vegetables are high in calorie count, then do not eat dessert but choose a fruit cup or fresh fruit.

You can enjoy exotic dishes without too much figure penalty if you will do without many small items. Nibbling on crackers and butter with the soup course uses up a lot of calories which you might enjoy more spending in some other way.

Salted nuts and after-dinner chocolate mints are delightful, but perhaps you would have preferred a bit more gravy on your meat, or an unusual herb dressing on your salad. Remember the calories in cream soup! Maybe it is better to skip the soup course entirely, or the dessert, if the soup is special. This is a matter of personal choice.

I THINK calorie counting is dull and boring on a vacation, past a certain point. However, often folks gorge themselves to such an extent that they cannot enjoy some of the foods they especially wanted. If you eat at a good restaurant and order all of the courses, you will be uncomfortable afterwards and will have zoomed your calorie count without commensurate enjoyment. At home you probably eat one fairly large meal and two smaller ones a day. The tendency on vacation is to eat three big meals. This practice isn't worth it because you cannot enjoy it anyway.

AT THE GALLERIES

August Openings Slated

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

Barbara Jean McCarty, 18, is taking important first steps along an art career path.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. McCarty of Long Beach will be honored at a Pacific Coast Club reception next Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. when an exhibit of her work opens in the Galleria.

Barbara Jean was the recent winner of a scholarship given by Long Beach Exchange Club in the art competition among students in the six local high schools.

She also placed first in Los Angeles County's "Bill of Rights" poster contest, and one of her paintings was chosen to be hung in the International Art Exhibit in Amsterdam, Holland.

Last year she was art commissioner at Polytechnic High School. She was graduated in June among the top 2 per cent of her class, thus winning a place in her school's Hall of Fame and becoming an honorary member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Pleased as she is over her forthcoming exhibit, Barbara Jean's first-place interest centers on Aug. 25—the day she will marry Tom Redfern of Long Beach in First Methodist Church. The young couple will live in Palo Alto while Redfern completes his senior year at Stanford.

ROBERT ADAMS, art chairman at Polytechnic High, will have an exhibit of water colors from Aug. 5 to Aug. 31 in Dana Branch Library, 3680 Atlantic Ave.

The artist has exhibited in Minneapolis, Hawaii, New York, Santa Monica, San Pedro and Long Beach. He says, "The fluid, light-giving qualities inherent in water color hold for me direct means to self expression."

An opening-day reception is slated from 2 to 4 p.m. Viewing hours are weekdays, except Fridays, from noon to 9 p.m.; Saturdays from noon to 5:30 p.m.

LONG BEACH Art Association opens its Landscape Show with a reception today from 1 to 9 p.m. in its new Villa Riviera Gallery, 800 Ocean Blvd.

Orval Dillingham of Long Beach State College judged the show. He comments, "All entries were of merit. The problem of eliminating works was difficult and probably says more about the prejudices of the juror than about the paintings. Done in a great range of styles, the landscapes provide an exhibit that is instructive and interesting and merits a careful look."

REGULAR visitors and droppers-in are browsing through Seal Beach Art Center at Ocean and Main during the traditional summer Clothesline Sale. Most of them unframed, the pictures are in various media; prices begin at one dollar. There are offerings both for the art collector and the budget-minded novice.

JULY exhibits—paintings by Dr. Eugene Wallin, oils by Robert Carty and metal sculpture by Ron Boise—close today at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

Beginning next Sunday the museum will feature a survey of acquisitions over the past 10 years. Of special interest will be selections from the recent acquisitions of Etruscan ware, Japanese ceramics and the Hartwell collection. A large collection of African art, from the earlier acquisitions, will be seen for the first time.

Opening reception will be from 2 to 4 p.m.

Original Plays at Off-Broadway

Three one-act plays by area residents will be presented at 8 tonight in the Off-Broadway Theatre, 211 Lime Ave.

The plays are: "Ellic" by Joyce Dalton Pierce; "Mr. Park" by Eleanor Shibley, and "The Warriors" by Don Gray. They will be given each Sunday at 8 p.m. for six weeks.

Honors Planned

Long Beach Emblem Club 106 will honor supreme officers at its business meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St. Mrs. Glen Wainner will preside.

REPORT FROM ABROAD

Vienna's Music Wins Professor's Affection

(Dr. Bertram C. McGarrity, professor of music at Long Beach State College, is studying in Europe while on sabbatical leave.)

By DR. B. C. MCGARRITY

"Vienna, Vienna, Only You Alone."

After listening to Vienna's music for two months I am persuaded that this song is accurate and persuasive. The month long "Vienna Festival" included many memorable concerts but the Viennese fare without the festival is generous.

The focus of Vienna's musical life is the Staatsoper, an institution of long tradition, unbelievable resources for production, and the partner in a long and enduring love affair with the Viennese public. The opera performs almost daily for 10 months of the year; almost always to sold out houses.

The orchestra also functions as a symphonic group, well known as the Vienna Philharmonic, whose traditional Sunday morning concerts are also sold out. The Volksoper performs daily for a slightly larger season than the Staatsoper. The repertoire of each overlaps a bit but, in general, the Staatsoper presents "big" opera while the Volksoper tends toward "smaller" works and operettas.

Chamber opera is presented a couple of times weekly at the Redentensaal as an adjunct of the Staatsoper. There are other operatic ventures but the State Opera—the Staatsoper, Volksoper, Redentensaal—proves almost all of Vienna's stage.

THE STANDARD of production is uniformly high, especially considered within the frame of reference in which the Staatsoper operates. The staging is always good, yet the recent production of "Turandot" was not as imaginative as that I saw in Stockholm by Ingmar Bergman. The taste at the Staatsoper, it seems to me, is heavily static in conception and execution. For some works (Tristan?) this works well but in "Turandot" the conflict between a static tradition and a more dynamic stage movement made for a curious inconsistent style.

The technical resources of the stage are very considerable and make for some large and breath-taking scenes. The Staatsoper, of course, commands the services of some of the greatest singers of our day. "Turandot" had both Nilsson and Price. However, the singing, by and large, is quite uneven compared to the high general excellence of the Stockholm opera. The warm glow of a "Walkure" under Karajan is something to be remembered for a long time.

THE VOLKSOPER will always have a special claim on my affection for its charming and effective performances. I saw the Volksoper's 200th performance of "Fledermaus," beautifully confident (even to the ballet), fully captivating the sold-out audience which applauded wildly all through the performance. The Redentensaal performances are equally engaging, though altogether different. But Schwarzkopf, in the intimate Redentensaal, is much more attractive than she is in the Shrin Auditorium, as improbable as that seems.

Vienna has a full season in addition to opera. The Vienna Symphoniker is a first rate organization overshadowed, somewhat unjustly I believe, by its illustrious compatriot, the Philharmonic. In addition, there are many choral performances, recitals, and chamber concerts of interest.

MUSIC plays an important role in the life of Vienna, a city dwarfed by the Los Angeles-Long Beach metropolitan area, in a country with a smaller population than the State of California; moreover, a country ravaged by two wars. Southern California has musicians for a comparable life but what we don't have are resources and organization to provide outlets for these many fine musicians. As of now, we don't have the audiences either but perhaps the potential exists. Who can know, without the resources and organization?

Belafonte Sets Final Greek Show

Due to unprecedented demand for tickets, Harry Belafonte has added an 8:30 p.m. performance today to conclude his sell-out engagement at the Greek Theater, Los Angeles.

Tickets are available at the box office.

The novel show, produced by Phil Stein, also features African song stylist Miriam Makeba in spell-weaving songs in her native Xosa and other African tongues. She also appears in stirring duets with Belafonte.

STARS OF the famed New York City Ballet Company will present Tchaikovsky's ever-popular "The Nutcracker" in lavish full-length performances at 8:30 Friday through Wednesday nights, Sunday included, at the theater, Aug. 4 through 9.

West Coast premieres of "Liedeslieder Waltzes," "Electronics" and "Variations from 'Don Sebastian'" on Aug. 10 through 12 will conclude the New York City Ballet's engagement.

Tickets for the Judy Garland show slated for Sept. 16 at Hollywood Bowl are currently on sale at Southern California Music Co.

The move was necessitated, according to Louis Robin, president of Concerts, Inc., by the avalanche of ticket requests already received.

Major & Minor Notes

SINGERS REMINISCE OVER DAYS IN OPERA

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P. T. Music Critic

In this column, some six months ago, I wrote about a race I had with Death—and won! At the age of 87 my old friend, George Walker, had been taken in an ambulance to the hospital with double pneumonia and the doctors had given no hope of recovery. For some time, I had been promising to visit him, to go over our wonderful days in Berlin, Germany, but my busy schedule delayed our meeting, and now it seemed too late! But I did get to the hospital as soon as I was allowed and the firm grip of his hand, allayed all my fears and made conversation unnecessary. I was very grateful that I had not been too late.

After six months of immobility on a hospital bed, a miracle happened. The other day he stood at the door of his brother's home and welcomed me in! He was nattily dressed in a smart grey suit with red tie. His snow-white goatee and mustache and erect figure gave the impression of a retired army colonel. George was always tall and handsome, but now there was a dignity and quietness born of a victory over the grave.

THE TIME passed all too quickly as we laughed and reminisced over the old days. We first met as the bass and soprano members of the mixed quartette of the American Church in the Nohlendorf Platz in Berlin. He had a magnificent voice, deep resonant, while I, a young beginner, regarded him very highly as he was already launched on an operatic career.

"How did you happen to go to Germany?" I asked him. "I had no idea of becoming a singer," he answered, "although I always loved music. While at the University of Chicago, working for a degree in engineering, I met a wonderful bass singer, who after hearing my speaking voice asked me to sing for him. It was upon his strong recommendation that I began to study singing. I went to all the concerts and opera in Chicago and after graduating, I found that engineering did not satisfy me. I simply HAD to sing."

GEORGE BEGAN serious vocal study with Mme. Schoen-Rence who took him with her to Germany. After her return to America, George stayed on.

"I sang for a music agent in Berlin," he relates, "who said I would have to know at least 10 opera roles for an opera engagement. So I worked with an opera conductor and learned 10 roles. (He has sung 35 roles.) The agent got me an engagement with the opera company in Hamburg."

And so started his career. When I knew him, he was singing leading bass roles with the famous Charlottenburg Opera in Berlin, headed for a notable career. Then came World War I. Although George spoke German like a native and his name was spelled like a German's, George Walker, his friends were being interned, so he fled to Copenhagen and finally got back to the United States.

GEORGE WALKER and I had operatic careers in Europe, but our own country could find no place for us. When George returned, the Metropolitan Opera, with Gatti-Casazza as impresario, engaged almost no American artists. Edward Johnson, who was in charge when I returned to this country, told me personally, "John Barchioli has urged me to engage you as you have sung many roles under him in England. But if we engaged American singers at the Metropolitan, we should lose our Diamond Horseshoe subscribers."

"Things have changed considerably since those days and we have many American singers at the Met today. But George and I just came back at the wrong time!"

Anna Hoffman Works With Fine, Sure Hand

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Anna Hoffman has a fine sure hand with pen and brush as well as an affectionate curiosity in finding the planes which underlie and compose small animal forms. Her current show of drawings at the Veltman Gallery (through Aug. 12) includes several human beings, too, whom she treats with humor.

The show is another example of growing interest in drawings. Miss Hoffman's techniques includes penline, ink wash, touches of tempera, and rubbed charcoal, all built up with coats of varnish so that the finished product has depth and the effect of texture.

LARGE "Insect" seems to combine all kinds of insect-ness: grasshopper, dragonfly, wings, and creeping. Patterned areas of penline give depth and change of plane. "Fish" in penline with washes of gray, blue and red is developed outside and mentally dissected with her investigating pen.

A musing study, "Dead Bird," is enveloped in a ruffle of now-useless feathers. Some areas are finely delineated, others expressively summarized in "Dwarf" which combines ink, tempera, red conte and charcoal in a penetrating exposition.

POMPOUS little figures, Curtain at 8

One of the critical and popular successes of the year has been the movie, "Tunes of Glory," which is slated to be shown Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday on "Curtain at Eight" at Bay Theater, Seal Beach.

This is a thoughtful and thought-provoking film presenting extraordinary performances by Alec Guinness and John Mills. It is in color and directed by Ronald Neame.

Authentic Folk Music on New LPs

Recordings from the Library of Congress were received during the past week at the phonograph record section of the Main Library. These include authentic music of the many Indian tribes of North America.

"Songs of the Pawnee and Northern Ute," "Songs of the Yuma, Cocopa and Yaqui," "Songs of the Navaho," "Songs of the Sioux," and "Songs from the Iroquois" are among the selections. "Traditional American Ballads" collected, edited and assembled by professor Francis James Child of Harvard University presents early American folk songs and history concerning their origins.

STORIES of the composers and their music were also added to the collection. These recordings assist the student in understanding the compositions. Included in this classification are: "Johann Sebastian Bach," "Friedrich George Handel," "Johann Strauss," "Hector Berlioz," "Franz Joseph Haydn," "Franz Schubert," "Robert Schumann," "Gioacchino Rossini," "Felix Mendelssohn," "Wolfgang Mozart," "Peter Tchaikovsky," and "Richard Wagner."

Phonograph records may be borrowed by the holders of a library card for a period of two weeks. There is a rental fee for this privilege. The record section is located at the Main Library in Lincoln Park.

Senior Citizens to Hold Picnic

An open-to-the-public picnic will be held Tuesday noon at Bixby Park by the National League of Senior Citizens of Long Beach and Los Angeles and members of California Institute of Social Welfare.

Those attending are asked to bring picnic basket and table service.

Couple Home From Honeymoon in Carmel

Now at home in Downey are newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lawrence Young, who recently returned from a honeymoon in Carmel, following an exchange of nuptial vows at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, Downey.

The bride, the former Sharon Lynn Landes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene V. Landes of Long Beach, attended Long Beach State College where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta. She is a member of the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra.

The bridegroom attends Long Beach State College where he is affiliated with Sigma Pi Fraternity.

FOR THE marriage ceremony, witnessed by more than 300 relatives and friends, the new Mrs. Young chose a silk organza gown and veil of illusion lace and carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and white orchids.

Sue Wells was maid of honor and Lawrence Brice, the bridegroom's cousin, was best man. Other members of the wedding party were Michelle Bennett, junior bridesmaid; Angela Ficht, Mrs. George Rodgers, Diana Wilson and Patricia Young, the bridegroom's sister, bridesmaids.

Jay La Greges, John Rager, James Schneider and Patrick Young, the bridegroom's cousin, were ushers. Bobby Tickell was junior usher, and Lissa Landes and Vicky Landes, the bride's nieces, were flower girls.

Serves Potatoes by Ton!

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I, P-T Food Editor

When the 45,000 ton P & O-Orient Line's ship, the Canberra, hove into the Port of Long Beach on its maiden voyage, the 3,000 people aboard, (including Joyce Kent, my colleague), were the best fed—the most interestingly fed and the most surprisingly fed people ever to come ashore. And the Canberra's chef, Don Glavin, is the reason. Joyce's parting remark as she descended the gang-plank was—"I've left the galley for you." Here's the info on that department.

First, Glavin spends nine months out of 12 at sea. He is extremely personable and knowledgeable, and possesses a wit surpassed by few. How could he miss—he's from County Cork, Ireland.

We arrived via the A-Deck, and were met by him in the "spickest-spannest" galley one could imagine. The polished glare was something.

We told you his passengers were well fed. Here's the reason. Glavin started his career at the age of 14½. After apprenticing in a large hotel in Cork for almost six years, he went to sea in his chosen profession. He was then 21. Fourteen years later, aboard the Canberra, he's master of all he surveys—the 117 men in his galley which include stewards, cooks and pantry boys. He gives 24-hour service including three regular meals plus tea, and snacks any hour of the day or night.

HIS FIRST JOB with the company was as second sauce cook on the Carthage, a 16,000-ton ship carrying passengers and cargo. When he was appointed chef of the Stratheden at the age of 25, he was the youngest man ever to be appointed chef of a P & O ship. Since then he has worked on several P & O ships including the Arcadia and Iberia. He was chef on the Himalaya when appointed chef of the Canberra.

Asked his most popular dish, he replied "steak"—but quickly added, "chicken will go anywhere." His steaks, by the way, are done on an infra-red grill in exactly four minutes. At just one meal, he serves more than a ton of potatoes —and guess what! . . . 5-500 eggs! (Just imagine the chickens involved in that little meal!)

Now — about his guests being "interestingly and surprisingly" fed! Well, his French dressing is so delicate, and so tasty, one subconsciously wonders how it's put together. It eludes, yet impresses you at the same time.

At "coffee" you have a choice of "American" or "Or." If it's "or," the steward pours, with both hands at the same time, milk and coffee. If "American," it's black—or with cream you administer yourself.

MUSTARD aboard the Canberra is doubly impressive (the English version), the sauces are piquant, and the cheeses unpronounceable. You're safer to just point.

You'll find, too, that a "Bath Oliver," a "Digestive," a "Thin Captain," a "Jatz" and a "Sao" are biscuits . . . that a "Francaise" and a "Permentier" are salads. If you were to order a "Croute Radjah," you'd be served a "savoury." You'd be surprised to know, also, that a "Coupe Caprice," a "Mille Feuilles Chantilly" and a "Creame Semolina, Sorrentine" are not IBC contestants, but extremely good desserts.

To return to the gracious gentleman who was our original reason for boarding this great ship, the Canberra, we must tell you that he is married—his home is in Amsterdam, Holland—that he's 35ish—and that he and his wife, who is Dutch by birth, have a little son, one year old.

He loves, when he finds a stolen moment, to garden, to do woodworking, to swim and to read.

Yes, we liked what we saw, enjoyed everything we ate, and covered the miles of aisles with gusto. We tip our hat to a gracious gentleman—a chef par excellence—and a true monarch of his profession. P & O-Orient Lines chose well when they chose Chef Don Glavin.

Cortese to Start Sales at 'Leisure World' Soon

ROSSMOOR LEISURE WORLD
Rendering shows scope of nation's largest and most revolutionary senior citizen project, Rossmoor Leisure World, Seal Beach, which will have 6,750 own-your-own apartments and include medical care and drugs—short of hospitalization—in monthly payments. The $150 million, 541-acre project, developed by Ross W. Cortese, also will provide three huge clubhouses equipped with a wide range of hobby facilities, golf course, medical center, 12½-acre shopping center, library and 2,500-seat amphitheater.

An own-your-own apartment community of 12,000, primarily for retired persons and featuring free out-patient medical care and drugs for all residents, is under construction in Seal Beach.

The project, latest by Rossmoor developer Ross Cortese, is being called Rossmoor Leisure World.

Minimum age for buyers is 52. No children will be permitted as permanent residents.

the corporation and have a say in its operation. Buyers may pay cash for their apartments, then enjoy the medical and other services at a cost of about $50 a month, Cortese said.

THE MEDICAL PROGRAM will be carried out in Rossmoor Leisure World's own medical center. The center will be staffed by 10 full-time doctors and 26 nurses and will provide ambulance and visiting nurse service. The foundation will be managed by Lewis M. Letson, former administrator of Lynwood's St. Francis Hospital.

In addition, the project will include three community buildings, a golf course, a 2,500 amphitheater for musical and dramatic presentations and hobby centers for woodworking, ceramics, sewing and other crafts. Shuffleboard and roque courts also will be provided.

APARTMENT UNITS will be built in an X-shape with a communal laundry and utility building at the center.

A 12½ acre shopping center at Los Alamitos and Westminster Boulevards also is scheduled for the community.

Designed to make living easy for senior citizens, the project will have no steps or stairs anywhere in it, only ramps and grades.

Cortese hopes to complete construction in two years. His long range plans include possible similar developments in Santa Barbara, San Diego and San Francisco.

Securities Concern Into New Offices

After nine months in temporary quarters in the Security Building in Long Beach, the investment banking and brokerage firm of Eastman, Dillon, Union Securities & Co., formally has opened their new and permanent offices at 138 Locust Ave. The offices were designed by Kenneth Wing, Jr., and constructed by local contractor Wallace Wilson.

Staffed by 15 people headed by resident manager Mottell D. Peek, Eastman Dillon is said to be ninth ranking nationally in investment banking and 14th nationally in general brokerage. They are members of the New York Stock Exchange and other leading exchanges along with membership in the Investment Banking Association. The firm was established in 1910 in New York City where the home office is still located, and has 22 offices coast to coast.

Film Biography
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Walt Disney has announced plans to film the life story of Edward Grieg, famed 19th century Scandinavian composer.

Associated with Peek are registered representatives: Merrick F. Frost, Morlan Lewis, and William D. S. Blyth, Robert H. Bothner, O'Hare.

IN NEW LOCATION
Downtown Long Beach was again beautified when the brokerage firm of Eastman Dillon, Union Securities & Co., formally opened their new and permanent offices at 138 Locust Ave. last Thursday.

Retired Folk Get Special Attention

For several years the housing developments across the nation have been patterned to meet the needs of the growing, young families.

Homes for retired, elderly persons were difficult to find. The large new homes were hardly within the price the retired folks could afford.

Today the picture is changing and the increasing throng of early-retired folks will find the Southland provides ideal homes for them.

In this section today are two such major developments noted. The Ross Cortese development of Rossmoor Leisure World offers own-your-own apartments with medical care included to persons over the age of 52.

In the heart of the City of Orange will be found Village Green, another development designed for retired folks or small families. The homes, which have fireplaces and many features, are small and also small in price. The development provides some homes with rental units on the lots for added income for the retired.

Stress Mesa Verde Highlands Location

One of the most important factors in the selection of homes at Mesa Verde Highlands, an exclusive community in Costa Mesa, has been the proximity of the development to Mesa Verde Country Club, schools, shopping and the complete facilities of a fully developed city.

Don T. McMullen, director of sales for Walker & Lee, Inc., the exclusive sales agents for Mesa Verde Highlands, being developed by the K. W. Koff Construction Co., revealed that families purchasing in the Highlands community seem to feel that the location adjacent to an exclusive club lent prestige to the area and would assure continued satisfaction with their property and the area.

McMULLEN POINTED out, however, that being within the immediate environs of the Country Club was not the only factor being considered by Mesa Verde buyers, and that from every aspect, the community was ideally situated for family living.

Neighborhood shopping is within six blocks of Mesa Verde Highlands, a new elementary school is three blocks distant, a major shopping center two miles away and the center of Costa Mesa only three miles distant.

All of the famous recreational advantages of Orange County are also within easy driving distance of Mesa Verde Highlands. It is less than 10 minutes to the beaches and Newport Harbor; less than 20 minutes to any Orange County entertainment attraction. A short five miles from the ocean, the Highlands also has an excellent smog-free climate.

CUSTOM FEATURES in Mesa Verde homes include wall-to-wall carpeting in living room, hall and master bedroom, large family breakfast bar and massive double floor-to-ceiling fireplaces that serve both the living room and family dining room.

Prices range from $19,950 to $21,950 for spacious three and four bedroom and two bath homes. Veterans can purchase a home for nothing down and FHA terms are also available. Conventional terms are offered with a minimum of $1350 down.

To inspect the homes, drive out the Santa Ana Freeway to Harbor Blvd. and south to Gisler, turn right on Gisler to the furnished display models.

Huntington Riviera Terms, Price Low

Huntington Riviera, a new community of attractive homes located midway between Westminster and Huntington Beach offers low terms and easy down payment, a spokesman announced. Priced from $13,475, the homes may be purchased for terms as low as $250 down and $145 costs with monthly payments of $114 including taxes and insurance.

Designed in either three or four bedrooms, the homes have such distinctive interior features as wall-to-wall carpeting, forced-air heating, built-in range and oven, range hood with fan, large closets and natural ash cabinets.

SOME OF THE models have fireplaces and all have aluminum sliding windows and screens, sliding patio door and screen, colored rock, the attractive styling combines wood and stucco exterior.

The homes may be reached by driving from Long Beach east on Seventh St. to Beach Blvd., then south to Taylor and turn left to the homes.

PRICED FROM $19,250

A special "Demand Preview" will be held today at Bolsa Park where homes such as this will be offered, starting at $19,250. The beach-close homes provide many added features, Walker & Lee, the sales agency, stresses.

GRAND OPENING!

Bolsa Park Homes in Preview Showing

A groundswell of public demand, arising before the model homes are completely furnished, has led to the scheduling of a special "demand preview" this weekend at new Bolsa Park, near Westminister and Huntington Beach, report officials of Walker & Lee, sales agents.

Priced from $19,250 to $20,850, the new beach-close Bolsa Park homes are offered with exceptional VA no-down-payment terms and easy FHA financing with minimum down payments. The homes include three or four bedrooms, two full baths, and a family-dining room in all models. Modern efficiency kitchens in the Bolsa Park homes are highlighted by ceramic tile drain boards, O'Keefe & Merritt gas range and oven with rotisserie, garbage disposer, custom range hood with recessed light and fan, and automatic dishwasher.

THE Walker & Lee representative emphasizes that few places so near the ocean offer so many quality features available, among them: Lath and plaster throughout; cedar shake, cedar shingle or rock minster; fireplaces of brick or Palos Verdes stone; custom vinyl floors in entry and loggia; ceramic tile breakfast bar; ash kitchen cabinets; forced air heating; concrete rear terrace, and copper plumbing throughout.

From Los Angeles, Bolsa Park may be reached via the Santa Ana Freeway to Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39) turnoff, continuing south past Knott's Berry Farm 7 miles to Bolsa Chica, then left to models.

From Long Beach, the homes may be visited via Seventh Street (which bears Garden Grove Blvd.) east to Bolsa Chica, turning right and continuing south two miles to models.

ANOTHER BUTLER-HARBOR DEVELOPMENT "Better Homes for a Stronger America"

ANOTHER BAYCREST UNIT

Builder Don Wells & Sons announce start of a new unit of Baycrest Homes in the West Bluff area of Upper Newport Bay. Here is one of the models planned.

Upper Newport Bay Homes Are Started

Don Wells of Ivan Wells & Sons, Inc., builders and developers, announced that they are breaking ground for the fourth unit of Baycrest homes. Ground breaking is two months ahead of schedule made necessary through the public acceptance of the first unit.

Customized design of Baycrest homes, both as to elevation and efficient floor plan, are timeless according to Wells.

Superlative design of Baycrest home stresses free-standing stone fireplaces, deluxe built-in Frigidare equipment, and floor plans with segregated wing for junior activities.

When desired, floor-to-ceiling draperies cover glass wall. Oversize wardrobes, with sliding doors are recessed into another entire wall area.

Dressing room of suite is Roman bath with marble topped pullman and free standing full length mirror. Integral part of the suite is a delightful miniature patio with luxuriant tropical planting. Pleasant daytime lighting with privacy is achieved by skylights over the indoor patio which merges with shower stall and dressing room.

Baycrest homes may be purchased with three, four, or five bedrooms. Homes offer family room and formal dining room.

These homes are located on Commodore Road in the West Bluff area of Upper Newport Bay.

Sharlyn Estates in Anaheim Previewing

Preview to the grand opening will take place today in Sharlyn Estates in Anaheim, another development of the William H. Rogers Construction Co. of Orange.

Superb living in homes with deluxe features is promised in the Sharlyn Estates.

Priced from $20,900, the homes contain from 1605 to 1765 square feet of living area. They are offered in three or four-bedroom models with extra large family room, two pullman baths, built-in gas appliances, ceramic tile in kitchen and baths and flooring is select oak.

RANGE HOOD and exhaust fan in the kitchen, exquisite carpeting, shingle or shake roofs, sliding glass doors to the patio, aluminum frame windows, double fireplace in some models, and weather-stripped doors are other features.

The homes are on pool-sized lots and they have oversized two-car garages.

To view the homes, Long Beach visitors may drive east on Carson to Rio Vista and then turn right to the models. Candid Realty is the sales agency.

Larger Judy's Shop Opens in Lakewood

Moved into a new building providing more than twice the space of the previous location, Judy's Lakewood Center shop was thronged for the opening Thursday.

Officiating at ribbon cutting ceremonies at the new store, 5039 North Hazelbrook, on the south mall of the center, were Lakewood city officials and Miss Lakewood (Gail Cason).

Larry Israel, president of Judy's, said that all departments will be expanded to provide larger selection of all lines of ready-to-wear but will continue stressing the Judy's Look.

THE DECOR of the new store provides a striking clean-cut appearance with wide aisles and modern displays. Much favorable comment was heard on the white chipped marble exterior.

Israel said that after 17 years of "high-level store-keeping I feel that this new Lakewood Center store will be the answer to superior service and shopping comfort.

Mrs. Naomi Decker is manager of the store and the previous sales staff was retained, augmented because of the larger quarters.

Imperial Lakewood Stresses Flooring

Gleaming oak hardwood floors are features of all Imperial Lakewood's attractively styled "one price" residences, for the sound construction that is the hallmark of all Emblem-built dwellings includes "high and dry" raised conventional foundations and solid diagonal sub-flooring, reports Frank Chandler of Key Land Co., sales agents.

Exceptionally favorable veterans terms are proving a major attraction at this recently opened community, Emblem Homes twenty-sixth, Imperial Estates development, Chandler said. Veterans need a total cash "move in" of just $89 and the monthly payments of $85.79 include principle and interest. And, he added, there are also Cal-Vet and conventional loans available.

THE ONE FULL PRICE of $15,500 includes such attractions as appliance-equipped kitchens with built-in wall oven and tabletop range, numerous cabinets of knotty cedar with raised panel doors, sink-installed disposer, counters topped with superamic tile. All kitchens are adjoined by separate service porches.

Latest of more than 3500 attractive Southland residences to be constructed by Emblem Homes, Imperial Lakewood presents a charmingly diverse selection of 15 exterior elevations and the flexible plans are designed with three bedrooms or two bedrooms with a convertible den.

Adjacent to Bloomfield Park with its supervised play for children and numerous adult diversions, Imperial Lakewood is close to fine schools, excellent shopping and churches of many denominations, harbors, marinas, beaches and other recreational facilities are just minutes away.

Top Year at Van Camp's

The best year since the company was founded some 47 years ago, was the way Gilbert C. Van Camp Jr., described to stockholders the business gains for the Van Camp Sea Food Co.

Final figures for the fiscal year which ended June 3, show a gain of 8 per cent in sales and 37 per cent in profits over the previous year. It was the fourth consecutive year that sales and profits exceeded the previous year.

Net sales for 1961 were $61,747,000; net profit, $2,670,000 and net per share of common stock, $1.55, a 43 cent gain over the record high the previous year. The dividend rate has been increased by 200 per cent since 1958.

"The company enters the new year with a sound profit margin in its inventories," said Van Camp. "The market for our products is firmer than it has been in several years and the prospects for continued gains in sales and earnings are good."

FURNISHED MODELS BY BULLOCKS SANTA ANA

New Dutch Haven Unit of Large Homes Appeals

In the three-day span following the mid-July opening of Dutch Haven's new Unit 18 on Beach Boulevard in Huntington Beach, over 1,000 prospective home-buyers viewed the new "American Home Series" models on display, according to Edward S. Boyd, exclusive sales agent, and sales continue at an accelerated pace.

Boyd stated that visitors expressed particular interest in the community's master planning, and the large family-sized homes with floor plans and exteriors that have received national acclaim for their livability, spaciousness, and low cost.

A total of 16 exterior elevations are available to buyers, including the popular Dutch Provincial, Ranch House, Colonial and Hawaiian Modern styles which have been consistent top sellers in other Dutch Haven communities.

BOYD SAID another factor which appeared to influence those who looked and purchased was the desirable location of the development within an area which has long enjoyed a reputation for being a favorite resort city in Southern California.

In addition to its state and city beaches, Huntington Beach offers an ideal year-around climate, excellent facilities for boating and surfing and an unusually low tax rate which is appealing to prospective property owners.

Elementary school facilities are within the development and a new Huntington Beach shopping area is under construction.

HOMES ARE either three or four bedrooms with family room and up to two full baths. Visitors touring the model homes commented favorably upon the quantity of "custom features" included in the quoted prices of the homes. These include complete front-yard landscaping, built-in oven and counter-top gas range in choice of colors, acoustical ceilings, custom-styled fireplaces, oversized wardrobes and garages, copper plumbing service, colored range hood with fan and light, custom cabinets and marble pullmans in bathrooms.

Prices start at $14,950 with a choice of Cal-Vet, VA or FHA loans at the newly authorized 5 1/4 per cent interest rate. Only $95 is the low move-in cost to veterans on VA terms. All improvements, such as street lighting, sidewalks, streets and curbs, sewers and utilities, are covered in the original cost. A special feature of Dutch Haven developments is the absence of any hidden charges or balloon payments and at the "American Home Series" you own the land, title is guaranteed by Security Title Co.

THE Beach Boulevard development is the 18th complete Southern California community planned and constructed by Luxury Homes, Inc., within the past 10 years. The new unit was originally scheduled for opening in the fall of 1961 but brisk sales in Dutch Haven's Unit 17, opened in May at another section of Huntington Beach, prompted Luxury Homes, Inc., to step up planning and construction to meet consumer demands for a midsummer opening.

To visit the furnished model homes drive out the Santa Ana Freeway to Artesia, Beach Boulevard turnoff, left on Artesia to Highway 39 (Beach Boulevard), then south on Highway 39.

Sales Are Soaring in Tahitian Palms

Sales in the new Tahitian Palms development in Garden Grove continue to soar, report McFarland & Mattocks, sales agents.

There was tremendous acceptance at the preview showing and the sales were far above expectation for the grand opening.

Acclaimed for their spaciousness, most of the Tahitian Palms homes have more than 1,500 sq. ft. of living area. They include such luxurious features as marble top pullman lavatory, extra large linen closets, real woodburning fireplaces, built-in Wedgewood Holly counter top gas range and oven, wall-to-wall carpeting in entry hall, living room, center hall and master bedroom; forced-air heat, and aluminum sliding glass doors leading to patio or pool area.

CENTRALLY LOCATED near beaches, freeways, shopping centers, public and parochial schools, golf courses, marinas and other recreation areas, Tahitian Palms truly reflects the casual theme of California living at its finest.

Attractive conventional financing terms are available and you may move in for only $195 down.

To visit Tahitian Palms from Lakewood and Long Beach, drive east on 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Brookhurst St. Turn right (south) two miles to Sugar St. Turn left on Sugar to furnished models.

Sol Vista Homes Offer Many Quality Features

"Hardwood floors, one of the outstanding quality features at Sol Vista, popular Huntington Beach-Westminster area, has played a prominent part in the success of the developments," according to C. "Faye" Stites, president of the C. LaFaye Co., Inc., exclusive sales agents for Sol Vista Luxury Series Homes.

"In addition to being attractive and resistant to natural elements, hardwood floors are comfortable on the feet by virtue of its resiliency. It thus absorbs much of the body shock produced in walking. This results in greater foot comfort and less fatigue for those who stand or walk on it for extended periods," he continued.

ALSO FEATURED is the Medallion "all electric kitchens." They include the Frigidaire range and oven, and the Frigidaire dishwasher. Also included is color coordinated range hood and light with electric fan, whirlaway disposals and ash cabinets which are easy to reach.

The living rooms feature dramatic floor-to-ceiling wood-burning fireplaces of stone or brick with log lighter included. The bathrooms have convenient pullmans, colored fixtures, and stall showers with safety glass doors in the master bedroom bath. Most plans include a beautiful dressing table with mirror.

Gleaming hardwood floors are of genuine oak with 2-inch tongue and grooved sub-flooring. Also included is rock wool insulation by Johns-Manville, acoustical ceilings, Armstrong excelon tile, American Standard Plumbing and forced air heating.

THE SOL VISTA Luxury Series homes are priced from $17,650 with no money down on VA terms (except costs and impounds) FHA with minimum down payment, Cal-Vet and conventional loans are also available.

BEAUTIFUL FLOORS

Stressed in all Sol Vista Homes is the hardwood flooring. Here a new resident in a Sol Vista home is selecting drapery materials and she is proud of the gleaming hardwood floors in the room.

To see Sol Vista Homes from Long Beach, take Seventh Street (Garden Grove Blvd.) or Carson St. (Lincoln) to Hwy. 39 and turn south to models. From Los Angeles, take the Santa Ana Freeway to the Artesia turnoff, follow Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39) south to models. The models are open every day from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. and until 6 p. m. Saturday. For convenience there is a hostess in each model home to answer preliminary questions.

Plans Memorial to Honor FDR

ROOSEVELT, N. J. (AP) — Twenty-five years ago, this community of 200 families was established as a rural haven for garment workers.

This year, this same community has taken steps to honor the New Deal's founder, Franklin D. Roosevelt, by starting work on a memorial amphitheater.

Artist Ben Shahn, president of the local Roosevelt Memorial Association, believes the structure and a five-foot statue of the late President will be the first municipal monument of its kind in this country.

Beach City Booms

Already growing at the rate of 368 new residents weekly, Huntington Beach development is continuing unabated.

Building permits issued the first six months of this year for the beach city were $26.9 million compared to $23.7 million for all of 1960 when the housing boom really began booming.

Commercial development has not kept pace with the housing but is now taking steps to catch up. Three new major market chains are launching stores in the area and Realtors say other stores are now negotiating for sites.

Edison Co. officials reported the new home occupancy was averaging 368 families weekly, according to their "turn-on" records.

Low Down Payment on 3-Bedroom Home

A low down payment of $195 starts a family on home ownership in Lakewood East Sunshine home development, according to S. V. Hunsaker, president of S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, builder and developer in Southern California since 1932.

Full price of these three bedroom, two-full bath, large two-car garage homes is $16,595, and the home owner may have immediate occupancy, stated Hunsaker.

Kitchens are equipped with labor saving appliances such as disposal, built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan.

OTHER POPULAR FEATURES are wall-to-wall carpet, vinyl tile floors, Formica counter tops, and plenty of roomy closets. Specifications also include metal sliding windows with screens, silent forced air heat, and all-copper plumbing.

Lakewood East Sunshine homes are located close to the prime metropolitan industrial area and within easy driving distance to all of the Southland's major resort and recreations spots. Time and money saved to and from work is an important factor to the home buyer, stated Hunsaker.

Lakewood East Sunshine Homes offer the public unusually convenient floor plans and distinctive exterior elevations. Here is one model offered.

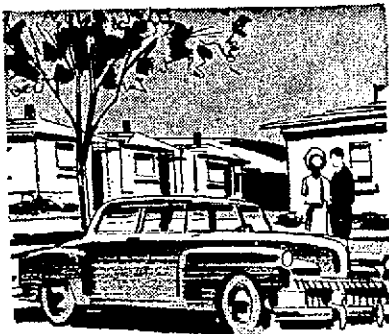

Seek Exhibits for 1962 Show

Producers of the successful International Trade Show here are now in Chicago arranging exhibits for the 1962 event.

HOW THE CARLSONS BECAME INDEPENDENTLY WEALTHY

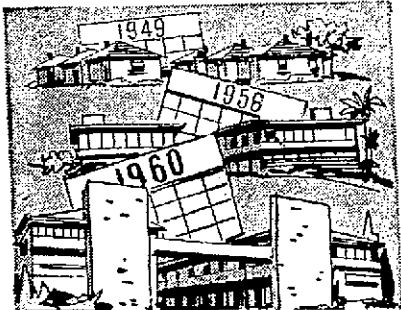

"There's really no secret to it," Mr. Carlson told us. "We just know that while the number of people moving into California was increasing every year, the amount of land wasn't. This fact—more people, no more land—meant that more people would be looking for places to live and land prices would be increasing. Here's what we did:"

"About 12 years ago, we used our savings as a down payment on a small apartment house. The rent money we got every month took care of the trust deed payments on the building and gave us a little extra besides. The 'extra' we saved."

"When we'd built up a good equity in it, we sold—for a profit, too, for the property had increased in value since we bought it. We then used our savings, and the money we got from the sale, as a down payment on a bigger apartment."

"Over the years, we've continued to buy apartments, use the rent to pay off their trust deeds, and—thanks to rising land values—sell them for a profit. The building we own today is valuable enough to make us independently wealthy."

"Many folks can do what we did," Mr. Carlson went on, "for the opportunity's still here. Every day, nearly 1000 people move into this state, and land values continue to rise. When they buy, though, they should protect themselves these two ways."

"First, they should deal only through a realtor. He'll save them time and money, for he knows land values and population trends, and can show them more good property in their price range in a day than they can find on their own in a week."

"Second, they should insist that their property has the full protection of a title policy issued by Title Insurance and Trust Company. This policy is their best assurance that they really own their property, that their ownership rights are insured."

Take Mr. Carlson's advice and ask your escrow officer about Title Insurance and Trust Company. He'll tell you that of all title companies, T.I. has the best facilities for searching, examining, and insuring land in California. That's why a T.I. policy gives you the best possible protection of your ownership rights... why it's so safe, so sure, so low in cost. When you buy or sell, insist that your title policy is backed by T.I.—the company with America's largest staff of title specialists and up-to-date land records in every county it serves.

NORM MEAGER'S MOVES

Decor in Meager's New Store Appeals

Norm Meager's new Lakewood Center store, which opened Thursday at 5035 Hazelbrook Ave., was widely acclaimed by throngs of visitors because of the attractive Early American decor, more proclaimed than in the previous location of the store.

Especially noteworthy are the lighting fixtures, all authentic antique reproductions made especially for Meager's. The decor is further carried out with hand-made natural wood fixtures and a brick floor. Customers can enjoy browsing through the store full of antique displays done by William Crow, display manager of Meager's.

The new store is more than three times the size of the previous store, with 3,600 square feet of floor space. The clothing inventory has been increased by more than 500 units.

On hand to greet visitors at the opening were the same personnel with James Munsey, manager, and Gary Flynn, assistant manager.

"WE BUILD ALL KINDS, BUT WE LIVE IN MEDALLION HOMES"

"One of a builder's problems is to anticipate the type of house that buyers want," says Harry Slack. "This becomes less of a problem every day. More and more people want only Medallion Homes. And it's easy for us to see why, since we both live in Medallion Homes ourselves."

Mr. Slack and Mr. Alexander are currently building their Summit View Homes to total-electric Gold Medallion Home standards. This is a moderate-priced development designed for senior citizens.

These homes are selling fast because they offer the comfort, ease and convenience of total-electric living. Among other things, they feature cool, clean, all-electric kitchens and an electric heat pump for healthful heating and air conditioning all year 'round.

Whenever you consider a new home, why not be guided by the experience of expert builders such as Mr. Slack and Mr. Alexander? Make sure the home qualifies for the Medallion Home Award.

Only one new home in five earns this distinction. These are the qualifications:

1. A flameless electric kitchen—cool, clean, modern. It comes equipped with major electric appliances, including automatic flameless electric range and oven.
2. Full "Housepower" wiring—Only a home built to rigid Medallion Home standards has the overall electrical capacity necessary for truly modern living.
3. Abundant lighting—planned for comfort, convenience and beauty.
4. Flameless electric space and water heating.

A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:

Vets' Payments Start 5 Months After Move-in

Veterans who move in now will enjoy five full months with no regular monthly payments at Stardust Homes' Heil Street location in Huntington Beach, announces Robert H. Grant, Orange County builder.

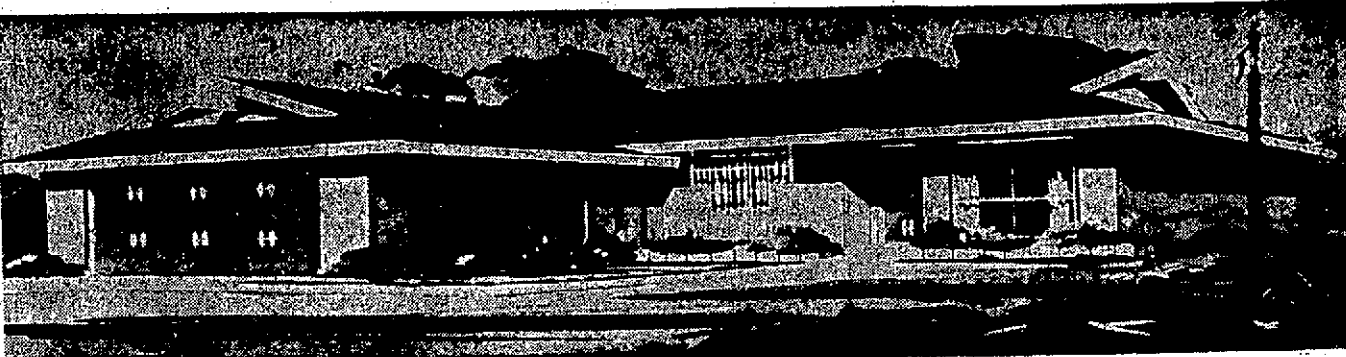

According to Grant, there are no down payments and no closing costs to veterans.

Impounds are just $99, and this is the only payment veterans will make until Jan. 1, 1962. Immediate occupancy is available. Also offered are new $450-down FHA terms.

From Long Beach, the homes may be reached by driving east on Seventh Street (which becomes Garden Grove Boulevard) or Carson (Lincoln) or Spring (Cerritos) to Beach Boulevard, Hwy. 39; turning right to Heil Street, just three and a half miles south of Garden Grove Boulevard, then Berry Farm eight miles, then tain camping and fishing at Irvine Park, 20 miles to the east. In the immediate Stardust vicinity are golf courses, Knott's Berry Farm, and Disneyland.

From Los Angeles, the Stardust Catalina Series homes may be reached via the Santa Ana Freeway to Beach Boulevard. Turn off at Buena Park, turning south past Knott's Berry Farm eight miles, then

ONLY $99 CASH NEEDED BY VETERAN

Stardust Homes in Huntington Beach announce that homes such as this may be purchased by a veteran on only $99 in cash needed for impounds. And, this is the only payment a veteran needs until Jan. 1 when the monthly payments begin. Immediate occupancy is available. New FHA terms on the homes call for only $450 down.

OFFERED WITH durable, high-quality oak hardwood flooring, the new Stardust "Catalina Series" homes are situated just 10 minutes from famous beaches, with easy access to the Long Beach Marina and other aqua-fun facilities.

Pricing ranges as low as $14,900. Offered with 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, family room, and large 2-car garages, the new Stardust "Catalina Series" homes are master-designed to ensure convenient "traffic flow" to all areas, with practical separation of sleeping and living zones.

Helping to impress viewers with the new Stardust homes are such distinctive features as: "Built-in colored Gaffers & Sattler range with 20-inch oven, fully covered Armstrong plastic drainboards, striking mahogany kitchen cabinets, heavy duty garbage disposals, gas forced-air heating (thermostatically controlled) with modern new overhead "no draft" diffusers, top quality solid-vinyl linoleum in kitchens and baths, indoor utility room, copper plumbing, and acoustic ceilings. Street lights, sidewalks, and sewers are in and paid for.

INCLUDED WITHIN the Stardust community will be a new elementary school, while a junior high school and a high school are planned nearby. Orange County and Long Beach State Colleges are just 20 minutes away.

More Home Remodeling Is Expected

Thomas P. Reid, former vice president of a highly successful South Pasadena contracting firm, has joined Build 'n Save, 4007 Paramount Ave., the well known home improvement center.

Reid will direct the firm's expanding home remodeling department. He has been a resident of La Canada where he was president of Rotary and active in civic affairs.

Reid said that under the new FHA home improvement bill many homeowners are expected to take advantage of the FHA financing to enlarge and improve their homes and the Build 'n Save center is enlarging the features to aid in such improvements.

Demand for Apartments

Proof of the need for two-bedroom luxury apartments in the Bixby Knolls area is illustrated by the fact that only three two-bedroom units are still available in the new del Marco apartments at 49 W. Del Amo, even though the building will not be completed until Aug. 1.

The apartment building was constructed by Maury Cohn, prominent Long Beach builder, and features built-in range and ovens, oversized wardrobes, luxury baths, carpeting and drapes and heated pool. They are available for inspection.

Tucson dogs check new dog food claims

TUCSON, Ariz.—Local dogs turned out in force recently when General Mills held dramatic, informal dog food tests right in the heart of downtown Tucson. This test, one of several held in various West Coast cities, confirmed earlier kennel tests in which 2 out of 3 dogs switched to New Surechamp Meal Ticket from their regular dry dog food.

2 out of 3 dogs switched to New Surechamp Meal Ticket in General Mills' Kennel Tests

'1.00 GUARANTEE OFFERED

One of America's leading food producers, General Mills, has created a new dog food called Surechamp Meal Ticket with such an appealing and different taste that:

- 2 out of 3 dogs tested switched to it from their regular dry dog food in scientific kennel tests.
- In a series of public feeding tests 2 out of 3 dogs also chose new Surechamp Meal Ticket over their owner's choice of five leading packaged dog foods.
- General Mills guarantees dogs will enjoy the new food and backs the guarantee with the offer of a $1.00 coupon, good toward the purchase of any dry dog food.

Meal Ticket is a greatly improved formulation of Surechamp, a food long popular among West Coast dogs

Tests prove theories

The feeding tests, General Mills spokesmen say, gave scientific proof to widely held theories that dogs, like people, welcome exciting new flavor in their diets.

Discoveries about the importance of a combination of ingredients, cooking, shape and texture in the enhancement of dog food flavor produced the taste triumph.

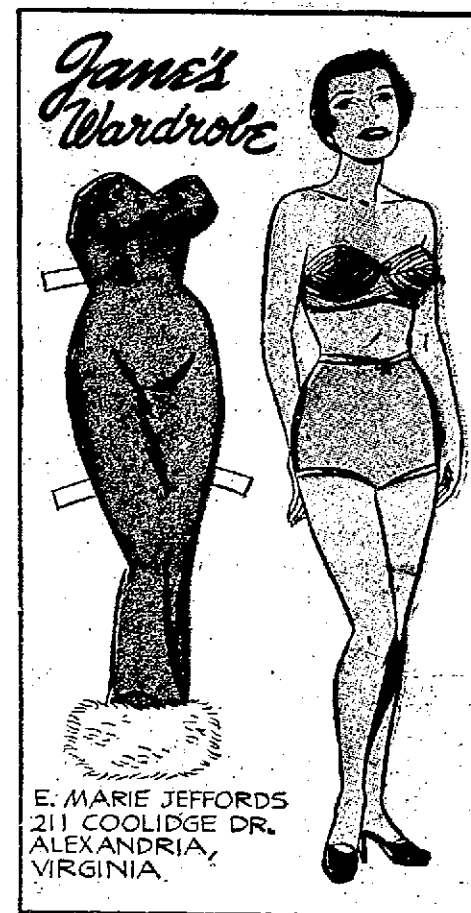

Unique new shape

The product's unique new roll shape is of great importance, General Mills officials say. Kennel tests show dogs are especially fond of this new form. And, certain ingredients not only enhance flavor but add vitamins and proteins to an already completely balanced canine meal.

"EATIN' GOOD" GUARANTEE

Following are details of the product's guarantee, believed to be the most daring in the history of the dog food industry.

New—guaranteed eatin' good. Your dog will eat and enjoy Surechamp Meal Ticket. If he doesn't, send the certificate of guarantee from any package of New Surechamp Meal Ticket and a letter describing your dog's reaction to: General Mills, Inc., Box 37, Minneapolis 60, Minn. We'll send you a $1.00 coupon good on any dry dog food at your grocer's. Limit, one coupon to a customer.

OUR COVER

Prettying up to dance in the annual August "Gathering of Joy" festival in Gardena is small Buddhist belle, Yoshika Ota, formerly of Tokyo and now a lively fourth-grader in Fairfield where her father is a master sergeant with the Strategic Air Command. She blends the cultures of her Nisei father and her Japanese-born mother whom he met while stationed in Japan. Yoshika spoke only Japanese until entering an American school at Tachikawa Air Base; now she has a good command of English. As for her dancing, Japanese children learn to dance almost as soon as they learn to walk. For more about the Buddhist festival, its dancing and its sidelights see "Dance of the Devout" on Page 7.

What it's like to be a rookie in the rugged life of a professional football training camp, as experienced by Dick Keelor, 248-pound guard and former Athlete of the Year at Long Beach State College, will be told for Southland's readers by Jerry Wynn, I, P-T sports staff writer. Keelor is bidding for a lineman's berth with the Los Angeles Rams and the Rams are Wynn's "beat" this year. It's no picnic up there in the hot sun of the Redlands University camp site, and Keelor and Wynn will tell you about it. See next Sunday's Southland.

Young women chosen for their beauty, poise and dancing ability act as leader-instructors and dance in the center of the oval at the Obon Odori, Buddhist celebration scheduled annually in Gardena.

Unvarying rhythm of the taiko-yan sounds and a caller names routines.

Dance of the Devout

By Edith Battles

Photos by Florence M. Harrison

WHEN 70,000 Americans—businessmen, physicians, teachers, housewives, school children and toddlers—head for an old-fashioned street dance Aug. 5-6 at Gardena, they won't do-si-do like their grandparents did 75 years ago. Their dance goes back 25 centuries!

They are the United States followers of Buddha celebrating their annual Obon Odori, the "Gathering of Joy" at the Gardena Buddhist Church, 1517 W. 166th St. Festivities start at dusk both evenings.

Although little known, the eye-filling Obon festival is eagerly awaited by people of all creeds living in the vicinity of America's half-hundred Buddhist churches. Each paper lantern-lit street and swaying double line of dancers draws hundreds of fascinated onlookers.

Professional choreographers might covet the opportunity to work with several hundred unison dancers, and costume designers seldom equal the massed brilliance of 15 score authentic Oriental kimonos.

OBON IS ESSENTIALLY a memorial service honoring the memory of the dead, but instead of being a purely solemn occasion, it stresses the joy that loyal Buddhists find in their faith.

Ancient legend relates the beginnings of Obon Odori to the days of Buddha when a disciple, Mokuren Sonja, had a vision of his dead mother suffering in the lowest hell. Buddha, learning of the revelation, compassionately granted salvation to the mother.

Buddhists today draw comfort from their conviction that Amida Buddha, "The Buddha of Boundless Light which penetrates the 10 quarters of the Universe," delivers the dead into magnificent splendor. This Christianlike belief in a happy hereafter sets a festive mood which banishes the sense of loss through confidence in Buddha's salvation.

In the hours preceding the dance, many churches have a bazaar. Here old-time American pitch-penny games vie with "fish ponds" and bingo. Food is the favorite concession, of course, with buttered Yankee corn-on-the-cob the top tender.

AS THE SKY DARKENS, the street lanterns go on around the roped-off paving. A central platform holds a loud speaker system—an innovation of the 20th Century—and a drummer, the taiko-yan. The chattering crowd falls silent and their pastor leads them in prayer, using the ancestral language. Then, in the quiet, music pours from a hidden phonograph. The dancers, magically lined in two concentric rows forming a flowerlike oval, begin to sway and glide, moving counter-clockwise so that they pass their original spot every 20 minutes. The music is supplemented by the deeply penetrating BOOM! of the taiko, which rolls across the high-pitched music and soft singing.

Dancers from grandfathers to toddlers seem to draw deep into themselves, together in their symmetrical gestures yet a world away in their minds. Despite weeks of training, a 2-year-old occasionally falters and eyes his elders with side-long glances.

DANCE STEPS ARE short and shuffling to accommodate the tabis and wooden clog footwear. Little girls match their mothers in fancy kimonos secured by thick belts with bustles called obi. Ribbon bows festoon their tight-pulled hair like birthday packages. For props they carry scarves, fans, bamboo sticks, or the recently adopted castanets.

Teenage girls dress boy-style in dark, torreador-tight trousers and floral oversmacks. Their slithering, knee-out dance routines, so graceful in kimonos, become faintly whimsical.

Boys and men dance, too. At the Obon Festival celebrated by the Gardena Buddhist Church, Japanese men attending Southern California universities swell the ranks of the dancers, side by side with third generation Americans. The men wear traditional wrap-arounds; but the smock on an informal small Niesi sometimes tops his best cowpoke denims.

Past centuries mingle with the present in other ways. Next to a rich silk costume worth several thousands of dollars is one machine-stitched with a fiber content suspiciously like the new synthetics. An occasional lass with blonde ringlets or a lad whose almond eyes contrast with chestnut hair attests the blending of cultures here.

THE SOLEMNITY HALTS at "half-time" and children eagerly rush to claim a soft drink and to jabber in excited American English until the drumbeat calls them back to the dance.

Non-Buddhists are sometimes surprised at the similarities of this religion to others. In addition to sharing the Jewish-Christian-Moslem concept of a supreme God and the Christian-Hindu conviction of an afterlife, American Buddhists have adopted some customs common to other American churches.

Obon bazaar offers many items, and young vendor boosts balloon sales.

Songs learned at Japanese language Saturday schools help with routines.

Highways of the Pacific Northwest lead to scores of national parks and forests with varied aspects. Above, Mt. Rainier in Rainier National Park.

By Gaylord P. Godwin

United Press International

THE NATIONAL Park Service and the Forest Service apparently are trying to outdo each other in urging vacation-minded Americans to visit their government-owned areas this summer.

The competition is paying off. Multitudes are visiting the national parks, and even more are making the national forests their vacation spots. The rivalry probably is a good thing for all concerned, chiefly the public.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart

L. Udall and his National Park Service director, Conrad L. Wirth, have been beating the drums about the beauty and availability of national park areas. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and his Forest Service chief, Richard E. McArdle, have been doing similar yeoman duty in behalf of the national forests.

Freeman predicts recreation visits to the national forests this year will exceed 100 million. Visits last year totaled 92.5 million. The visitors engage in picnicking, camping, hiking, hunting, fishing, nature study, and viewing of wilderness.

FREEMAN SAID recently he wanted to assure all Americans they are welcome to use and enjoy the 18.6 million acres of national forests—there are 154 national forests and 18 national grasslands. At the same time he urged help in protecting forest lands from fire and lowering the cost of administering and maintaining recreation areas.

McArdle considers recreational use of national forests a prime consideration in the multiple use of those vast resources.

Udall, a rugged outdoorsman, recently scheduled a boat-jeep-helicopter study of the national park potential of the canyon country surrounding the junction of the Green and Colorado Rivers in Utah. Udall has missed few chances to plug the national park system.

Wirth has been even more vocal than Udall in praising the national parks. He has been at the job longer. National parks literally are his life.

WIRTH ESTIMATES 75,936,000 visits will be recorded this year at the 190 areas administered by the National Park Service. Of the 190 areas, 61 provide campsites. Wirth and his computers have estimated that by 1970 visits to national park areas will total 97,624,000.

Recent announcements that can't help but titillate the public mind give notice of "fun fishing" in selected waters in some national parks—you catch all the fish you want but you have to throw them back; the public is warned not to feed the panhandling bears in Yellowstone National Park; and elk hunting will be permitted on a limited basis during 1961 in Grand Teton National Park.

EACH SERVICE gets somewhat lyrical in advertising the parks and forests.

The National Park Service said:

"The camper seeking a national park has a wide vacation choice. He may go to the rock-bound coast of Maine, the semi-tropical Everglades in Florida, the mountains of the Appalachians, to snowy mountain peaks of the Rockies or the High Sierra, Death Valley's desert below sea level, to the plains or the sunny Southwest.

"The neophyte will find facilities to ease his camping chores. Camp grounds provide smooth, well-drained campsites, fireplaces, picnic tables, water, restrooms, and (occasionally) concession-operated laundry facilities. The rugged individual, shouldering his packsack, will find hiking—from easy trails to more strenuous mountain scaling. Or he may fancy a horse or mule pack trip, or one shooting rapids in a canoe."

NOT TO BE outdone, the Forest (Continued on Page 26)

Even Thoroughbreds Get in the Swim!

By J. P. Stephens

Sunday, July 30, 1961

IF A HORSE in a swimming pool sounds like an accident, a joke, or somebody's idea of high living, a visit to Joe Pollock's Ocean Therapy Ranch in Chula Vista reveals that taking race horses for a swim can be a serious and profitable business.

The ranch's purpose is to provide therapy and rest for sore or bowed thoroughbred race horses. Such horses get sores from being bumped, falling down, or running into fences. A bowed horse is one with a torn or pulled ligament in his leg. With either ailment the horse can no longer race. Therapy is achieved by swimming the horses in a salt water pool, which is a converted concrete pit that was used in the manufacturing of nitroglycerin during World War II. The salt water has excellent healing qualities, eases stiffness and soreness in the horse's legs, and helps tighten up torn or pulled ligaments. A mud pool is also available at the ranch, and mud, coupled with the salt water, also helps draw out the soreness and stiffness. Medical doctors are familiar with these healing qualities, and it is no surprise to Pollock that his customers include many doctors who bring their horses to the ranch for treatment.

THE RANCH POOL, 17 feet deep, 120 feet wide, and 320 feet long — is filled with salt water pumped from the ocean about 1,000 yards away. The horses are led into the pool by a swimmer. Joe Staley, who swims with them, controls their direction with a halter. Only one horse swims at a time, allowing Staley to give each his fullest attention.

The horses generally swim for about 5 to 6 minutes at a time for their first few weeks at the ranch, but eventually build up to the point where they can swim for 20 to 25 minutes. The first few days the horses usually don't like the idea of swimming, but soon become "professionals" and enjoy the exercise. After their swim they are led back to their paddocks to dry off. As part of the therapy, the horses may also be left standing in the mud pool for longer periods of time than is allowed for the strenuous swimming treatment.

The horses generally stay on the ranch from 30 to 60 days, depending on their condition and how fast they respond to this treatment. Hay and other feed is provided in each horse's individual paddock or box stall, and a veterinarian is on 24-hour call in case any of the horses need medical attention. One guest, a donkey, has been enjoying these accommodations for more than six months, because of the kindness of his owner. The donkey doesn't swim but appears to enjoy the feed and rest.

THE OWNER BELIEVES that the ranch is not only a therapeutic rest area, but is also valuable for training young thoroughbred horses for racing. Since horses swim with the same leg motions as when they run, they get excellent training while swimming, without having the added weight of a jockey. Pollock feels that this is an important feature of his ranch, and claims that a horse can be ready for running in a race after only 35 to 40 days of swimming as compared to the normal training time without swimming of from 120 to 160 days.

Many horses have come and gone since the ranch first opened almost two years ago, and 85 per cent of them have gone back to the track rested and fit and have won races to prove it. A few of these horses are Swirling Abbey, Naboo, Great Lew, Initiate, Golden Orbit, Money Man, and Stromboli.

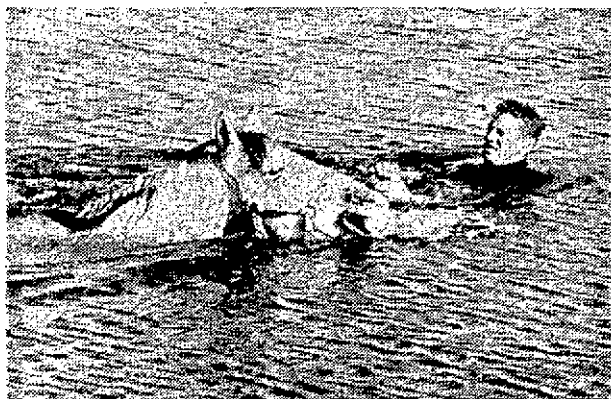

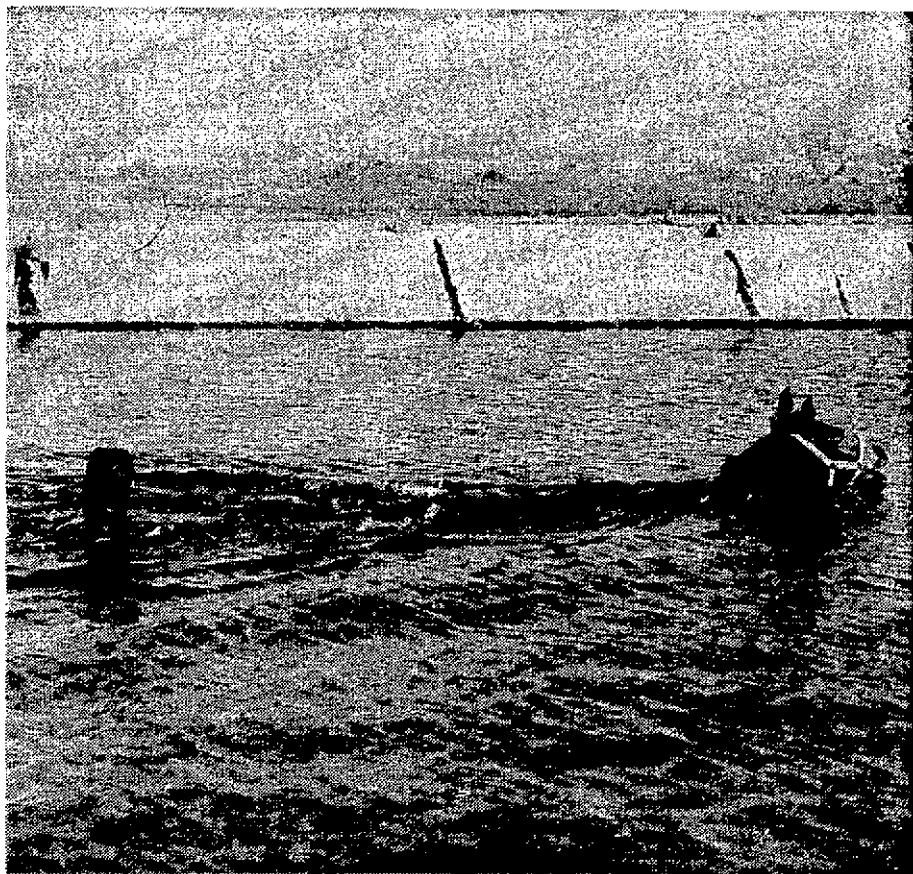

"These horses more than paid for the expenses involved in their recuperation," Pollock claims.

THE CHARGES at the ranch are $8 a day for geldings and mares, and $9 for studs, which includes full accommodations and treatment. (Stud horses are more unruly and hard to manage than geldings and mares).

Pollock feels that his ranch has just begun to grow, and spends every spare moment enlarging and improving facilities.

Money Man of racing fame stands by as Joe Pollock, owner of Ocean Therapy Ranch, discusses swim schedule with Joe Staley who will go into the water with the horse.

Staley leads Stromboli on a swim to the far end of the 320-foot pool, former wartime facility at Chula Vista. Into the pool goes Money Man, striking out for the opposite end as Staley tries to keep up. Swimming and mud baths are ranch means of therapy for ailing horses.

Long Beach in Its Salad Days

As always in any accounting of Long Beach, the strand and the sea play a prominent part. And so it was in 1902 when this photo was taken. New bathhouse at the right.

IN THE EARLY part of the century, Long Beach thronged with tourists, was the "Atlantic City of the Pacific Coast." Visitors enjoyed the beach, the pier, the sun parlor at the end of the pier, and the old auditorium on the beach.

A word picture of the Long Beach of the area is contained in a letter written by W. H. Booze in 1906, sent to this paper by his daughter, Mrs. Dougald Thompson of Kennewick, Wash.

"Long Beach has 20,000 people, two steam railroads and the Pacific Electric which runs every 15 minutes between here and Los Angeles.

"GREAT CROWDS of people come here here daily, seeking pleasure. Many invest and make their homes here, Long Beach having become the 'Atlantic City' of the Pacific Coast.

"We spend our leisure time watching the breakers, where many people enjoy the sport of a plunge. Children with their little shovels play in the sand. Others stroll, gathering shells.

"The pier, costing $100,000 built out over one-third of a mile is thronged daily with people trying their luck with hook and line.

"THE AUDITORIUM, an immense structure costing $20,000, is located on the beach. Daily, concerts are given by an Italian band employed by the city. There are 30 players in the band.

"At the extreme end of the pier, which is double-decked the whole distance out, is the sun parlor, where concerts and dancing are indulged in every evening. From the lower deck we take the gasoline launch to San Pedro five miles away, where great ships, loaded with lumber, lie in the harbor.

"The harbor has been constructed at great cost to the government. The breakwater is built out into the ocean nearly two miles. They now are dredging a harbor for Long Beach and eventually this also will become a seaport. It is said when completed it will be the best on the Pacific Coast.

"IN THE PARK here is the skeleton of a whale 70 feet long. A man can stand and walk into its wide-open jaws.

"A few days ago a monster shark measuring 32 feet was captured at San Pedro, and at Santa Monica, a few miles farther up the coast, a whale about half the size of the one I described was stranded and captured last week.

"The city has excellent cement walks, a number of streets are paved. Crude oil is used extensively upon the roadways and streets, making a hard and smooth surface for driving. Autos are used much more here than in the east. Bicycles are plentiful.

"WAGONS WITH oranges, lemons and garden trucks sell daily from house to house. Oranges are 15 cents per bucketful. Potatoes, or "spuds" as they are called here, are sold by the pound. Wood and coal also are sold by the pound.

"Signal Hill, three miles to the northeast, is where the reservoir which furnishes excellent water to the city is located. This hill is connected with history. Gen. John C. Fremont having had a signal station there during the Mexican war.

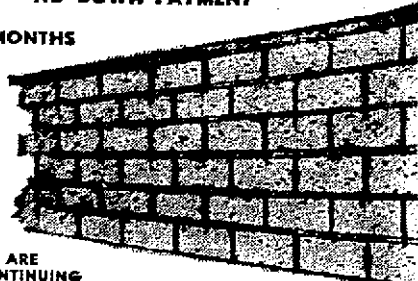

"The saloons can never become a menace to the people here because deeds for town lots require forfeiture of title if intoxicating liquors are sold on the premises."

Oh Ooh! Meet Nobu!

Her name's Nobu (rhymes with Oh Ooh) McCarthy, a rare flower bred by both the old Orient and the Old Sod, and she's as unusual as her name. Nobu is one of the youngest of the new stars in Hollywood and advance word about her latest film, "Two Loves," starring Shirley MacLaine and Laurence Harvey, is that she is as talented as she is pretty. If this is true, then Nobu should grab an Oscar next time up!

Dance of Devout

is the usual day of worship. Sunday School classes and youth groups meet as in Protestant Churches. The pulpit is filled by a trained Buddhist pastor.
The modern Buddhist church has a counterpart of the old-time churchyard. Special rooms are temporary crypts for the ashes of those recently dead who requested that their remains go to final rest in their ancestral land. The return of the devout dead to their homeland usually takes place only once a year.

Protected in the church they have loved, they are the special honored ones at each August Obon.
But sadness is resolutely put aside as American Buddhists annually join in the Obon Odori, "Dance of the Dead." For them it becomes truly a gathering of joy.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

With a Feature for Everyone

Photos by Joe Risinger

Twin couches face each other before the fireplace in the Preston Johnson home, forming a conversation grouping. A longer couch, foreground, completes grouping.

SUITED to the needs of each member of its occupants, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Johnson and family, 3939 California Ave., fits well into the quiet residential area of Bixby Knolls in which it is situated. While the house presents a friendly face forward, the exterior fails to indicate the comfortable size that actually exists within the walls.

Dramatic blue is presented in the entry hall and the living room. The entry leads to the living room on one side and a hall to the bedrooms on the other. An unusual and new vinyl wallpaper covers the walls in the hall. The powder blue paper has a rich, lustrous quality and is, apparently, dirt resistant.

By Stella George

Expertness of the professional decorator's touch is quickly evident in the living room. Twin couches face each other across a coffee table in front of the fireplace. The couches are upholstered with a gay, blue-flowered print with touches of green. A long brown couch faces the other two and the fireplace, the arrangement forming a conversation grouping. Small twin tables are in front of the long couch.

SEATING includes a large, blue occasional chair and several straight-backed smaller chairs, the latter of which are not new but have been refinished in an antique powder blue and have blue sailcloth seat covers. They add an ornamental as well as practical touch to the surroundings.

Wallpaper in white is of the vinyl type used in the entry. The paper is particularly noteworthy with its clean, fresh Designed like a cozy den with fireplace, the master bedroom provides a welcome retreat for the adults when the children are entertaining elsewhere in the house.

Table and chairs occupy area of den-dining room that once was a porch. Glass door leads to patio and pool.

look that stays that way.

Beyond the living room is the area that the family calls the "den-dining room." Half of the room is carpeted in the same champagne shade as that of the living room and the other half, where the dinette table and four chairs are placed, has white vinyl flooring. The den section has a comfortable leather chair and hassock, small tables, and a small organ.

The master bedroom is unusual in every way, most particularly in the fact that it does not appear to be a bedroom at all. Rather, it looks like a large, inviting den.

THE ROOM has a fireplace flanked on either side by bookshelves at one end. On either side of the room twin beds are disguised as comfortable couches. Brown covers heighten the effect and orange, yellow, and cocoa colored pillows complement the brown.

The wallpaper is a royal blue print, startling because it blends so well. It is accented with a basket chair sprayed blue. The room has a private bath off a small alcove.

The boy's room is tailored, masculine, and very functional. Unlike the bedrooms in many newer homes (this home is about 20 years old) those in this house are large and spacious with big closets. In the boy's room the bed is again made to look like a couch with a plaid cover. A large corner table is sizeable enough to be useful as well as ornamental. A custom desk provides for writing. L-shaped, there is room for typewriter and paper as well as plenty of working space. The desk is near a window where the light is good. One of the closets is a perfect enclosure for hi-fi equipment.

THE GIRL'S ROOM is feminine and pink. Furniture is white; white spreads are on the beds; and the wallpaper is flowered pink. The handy peg board is pink. Once again, the room is large, and the TV set, record player, twin beds, dresser and occasional pieces take up little room.

The bathroom between the latter two rooms is done in turquoise and beige, with beige tile, aqua woodwork and shutters.

The kitchen is bright and sunny and very well planned.

Off the kitchen is a service porch, the area of which has been utilized in a clever way. Cupboards line one wall, enclosing such hard-to-store items as an ironing board and a sewing machine. There is a place for all the odds and ends that are used often but for which there never seems to be storage room.

Down the steps from the dining room is the pool and patio area. The pool is on the left, leaving a large play area on the right.

Much larger than the exterior would indicate, this home has its special feature for each family member.

Thomas Edison and one of his early "talking machines," a phase of development from tinfoil to Stereo Hi-Fi.

From Tin Foil to Stereo Hi-Fi

By G. Russell Shaw

PRINCIPLES for recording and reproducing sound were known as early as 1855 but little was done in a practical way to utilize this knowledge until Nov. 21, 1877, when Thomas Alva Edison announced the invention of the phonograph. Even then, his machine was not displayed until four days later.

Edison was born in Milan, Ohio, on Feb. 11, 1847. He spent only three months of his life in school and his teachers called him a dunce because of his interest in mechanical things instead of books. His wise mother did not give up in despair, but encouraged her son in his field of interests. Before he was old enough to vote he became known as the "boy wonder of electricity." Taught to read by his mother, he became a staunch seeker for new ideas. He read such books as Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," and Hume's "History of England."

AT 10 YEARS of age his favorite study was chemistry. One of his earliest experiments was to try to make a boy fly by giving him large doses of Scidlitiz powders, expecting that the gases generated would make him light enough to overcome gravitational forces and float on air!

When he was 12 years of age, Edison took a job as train-boy selling newspapers. This gave him money for supplies for his laboratory and also gave him time to experiment between stations in a crude laboratory set up in one end of a baggage car. One day a stick of phosphorus started a fire which nearly destroyed the car. The conductor slapped Edison's ears and threw him off the train at the next station; a deafness developed which was to plague him the rest of his life, although he referred to it as "a blessing in disguise."

Soon after this experience he won a friend who taught him to become a telegraph operator. This put him on the road to success, for while experimenting with the telegraph he invented and developed a mechanism which could record the dots and dashes of the Morse code and repeat the message at any speed. This "stock quotation" machine earned him $40,000. It is sometimes referred to as the "ticker-tape machine." This success led him to invent the quadruplex telegraphy unit, whereby four separate messages could be sent over the same wire simultaneously.

Edison noticed the musical rhythm produced when the ticker-tape was moved rapidly over the "stock quotation" machine. This led to further research and development of the phonograph.

HIS FIRST device consisted of a funnel with a diaphragm in the end to which a needle has been soldered. This was connected to a threaded cylinder around which tinfoil was wrapped. The funnel was adjusted so that the needle would run in the threads of the cylinder as the crank was turned with a constant circular motion. When one spoke into the funnel while turning the crank, the needle made indentations in the tinfoil corresponding to the voice vibrations. By moving the needle back to its starting point and turning the crank, the voice was reproduced. It was husky and rather indistinct, but it did demonstrate that the problem of recording and reproducing the human voice had been solved.

Edison was granted a patent on his machine Feb. 19, 1878. In just a year, the novelty had worn away and from 1879 until 1887, the phonograph was almost forgotten. Then Alexander Graham Bell and Charles S. Tainter developed a hard wax cylinder which reproduced a clearer more accurate sound, this helped commercial recording to get under way three years later.

The beginning of commercial recording interested many in the phonograph manufacturing business and several companies were formed. In 1896 the Columbia Co. was organized and sold its first phonograph for $10.

IN THE AUTUMN of 1896, the Edison Phonograph Co. brought out a machine selling for $25 and two larger ones. Edison lived in a small house, but worked in a large workshop. He went about with shabby work-clothes and acid stained hands. Most of the time his wife and children were alone because he ate when hungry, rested when tired and often worked 18 to 20 hours a day. His idea of a good time was that of being absorbed in his work. He did what he liked and liked what he did. He often said, "I owe my success to the fact that I never had a clock in my workshop." Inventions granted United States patent rights number well over 1,000. His continuous research with electricity produced the electromagnet, electric motor and the incandescent electric light; all of these played a part in the development of the present day recorder, whether it be tape, wire or disc.

Thus, his invention of the phonograph was more than an invention; it was a musical instrument, an industry, a way of life which has brought the world from tinfoil to Stereo Hi-Fi.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like genealogy and shield on WOLFE.—D. W., J. W., Long Beach; Mrs. A. G., Downey.

D. W., J. W., A. G.: WOLFE was symbolic throughout history in early northern Europe of mystical power and strength. In England this wolf "warrior characterization" was taken as a surname in the 1100s. The Wolfe coat-of-arms has a black chevron between three symbolic black heads on a silver shield. The historically famous Gen. James Wolfe of this lineage was killed in the British siege of Quebec in 1759.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like brief history on PRUITT and PREWITT.—K.P., Norwalk; N.H., E.P., Long Beach.

K.P., N.H., E.P.: PRUITT and the variation PREWITT are from the old French baptismal name "Preuet." This name interprets as "little valiant one." Preuet was brought to England by ancestors in the 1100s and was later respelled as Pruett, Pruit, Prewett and Privett. William Andrew Preuet was a Cambridge land owner in 1273. The Pruit-Prewett coat-of-arms has three gold lions on a blue shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the source of FRANCISCO?—O.T., Compton; H.J., Long Beach; E.V., Westminster.

O.T., H.J., E.V.: FRANCISCO is claimed by both Italian and Spanish families. Latin ancestors of this lineage were named for a forebear baptized Francisco or Francis, meaning "free man." This name was greatly revered in Italy and Spain in honor of the beloved Saint Francis of Assisi, born in 1182.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform us on STONE.—F.G., Wilmington; L.C., Long Beach. F.G., L.C.: STONE is from a family homesite, describing the terrain where the remote forebears lived. This locality was near a large rock landmark. Among the ancestors were John Atte (at the) Stone of Somerset, England, 1327, and Robert Atte Stone, 1303. The Stone shield granted in London in 1585 is silver, emblazoned with three black rosettes below a blue stripe. The Irish clan O'Maolciuice (sons of the game-player) of Sligo, erroneously translated their name as Stone in the 1500s, providing another interesting source of this name. Deacon Simon Stone, born in England in 1585, came to Watertown, Mass., in 1635 on the ship Increase, with his wife, two sons and three daughters.

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy.

ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook

There's plenty of action around this play train.

TODAY'S PROBLEM: How can a do-it-yourselfer get real "play appeal" in backyard recreation equipment?

DESIGNER WILLIAM MEYERIECKS of New York City answers:

Much of children's play is based on the happy pretension of being "grown up." Give a boy a ladder and you have an instant fireman. Dolls appeal to little girls because they then become little mothers.

That's the theory followed in the design of the miniature play caboose, locomotive and flat car sand box shown in the illustration.

Headroom in the caboose is four feet in the small center section and three feet under the remainder of the roof. The caboose floor is two feet wide and seven feet long. Locomotive is two feet wide, eight feet long, with cab headroom of four feet. Flat car sand box is seven feet long and two feet wide.

For step-by-step instructions on how to build this equipment, send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif. Specify Play Train and Sandbox Plan S-14.

Coffee Bench Is Home Project

IN THE DAYS when a man's work involved driving a team of mules, the cussedness was pretty well worked out of the man in handling the ornery critters. Moderns lack this escape valve, but the tensions are more and greater.

A home workshop is a good place to banish the emotions of a tense world, and a good shop project is great medicine.

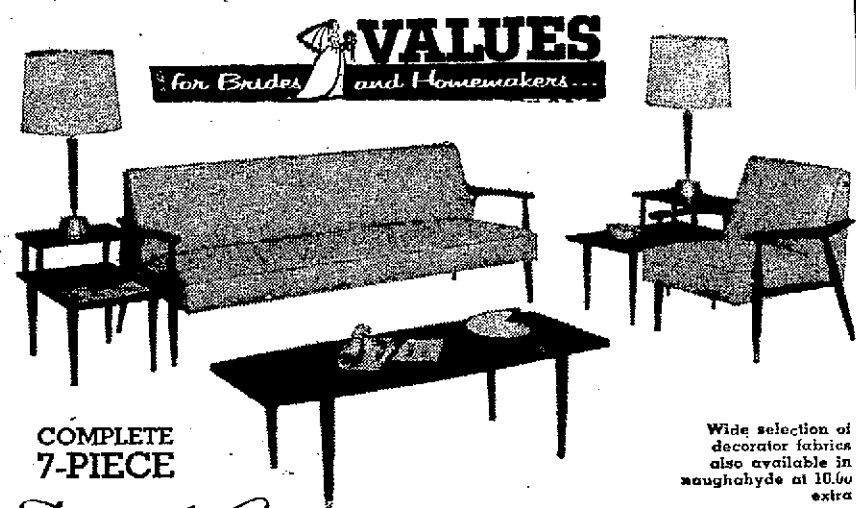

Like making a piece of furniture, perhaps.

The coffee bench pictured herewith is a good starter and a practical addition to the home as well.

To obtain details for this project, send name and address and 50 cents for Coffee Bench Pattern No. 79 to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., P. O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

Daniele Aubry, of NBC's TV show, "Challenge," shows a multi-use coffee bench that's a good shop project.

French flower cart made of cardboard makes a happy decoration for a party. Here is the finished product, easily made at home, and illustration of steps involved.

Decorate With a Party Cart

By Lorena Fleissig

POPULAR French flower carts are usually reproduced in wire and glass, but they can also be made of cardboard. All you need to make this attractive item for a party decoration is something you may have on hand, just a couple of flat stocking boxes. When you buy your nylons, ask for some empty boxes so you can experiment with them.

One box bottom is used for the cart body, just as it is. From the box lid, cut two five-inch circles for wheels. A cereal bowl was used for measuring and it was slightly less than five inches across.

From another box bottom, cut an angle frame for the brace to be glued under the cart and the inside of the wheels. This makes a rigid support and is not at all obvious. In the accompanying illustration, the brace was highlighted to show how it was placed.

THE SECOND BOX lid furnishes the V-shaped support that provides for the leg and the handle of the flower cart, all in one piece.

In cutting out the spaces indicated on the pattern, be careful to leave 2½ inches to which is glued the end of the cart body. Very careful cutting is necessary because the box board is quite stiff.

The leaf pattern on the wheels is continued around the cart body. After spraying with gold the design must be retraced. A bit of extra sparkle can be added by a light spray of liquid glue across the wheels and a scant application of glitter.

BLOSSOMS with small petals will be more in keeping with the size of the cart than will larger blooms. Plastic flowers in pink, orchid and purple or similarly related colors will be effective color bearers in this simply designed flower cart.

ANTHONY CUTS POOL COSTS

If you build your pool now,

we will give you the

HEATER

This is the best pool value we have ever offered! We will give you a deluxe pool heater with your Anthony Pool, if you build this Fall. Choose the pool you want; pay the same low prices we have advertised this spring and summer. But now those same prices include an expensive, deluxe pool heater. Installation is extra; see chart at right. A heater is the most expensive single pool accessory. Its value represents a major savings to you on your pool. Offer applies to all pool sizes and styles. We believe no other builder can match this value.*

Ask for copy of Anthony's Pool Buyers' Guide. It shows many more pool photos in color—shows prices and complete specifications.

There are many more days of enjoyable swimming ahead for your family—even more with a heated pool. If you ever plan to have a pool, now is the time. Anthony prices have never been lower. Anthony quality is highest in the pool industry.

Monthly payment based on 5% for five years.

When the Opera Pulled a Boner

By Maymie Krythe

Child's Grand Opera House, second building from right in view north on Main St., Los Angeles, in 1889, knew many of the famous of its day, including Hawaiian king.

IT WAS a big night for Los Angeles society, that evening in 1891 when visiting King Kalakaua of Hawaii attended the opera. But the opera pulled a boo-boo. King Kalakaua was accompanied by his sister, Lydia, who all too soon was to succeed him and become Queen Liliuokalani of the mid-Pacific isles, on his visit to Los Angeles. Their arrival caused considerable stir in the city and when the word was out that they would attend the opera, the elite of the city and surrounding ranchos turned out in full force. Billed was "The Hugenots," to be performed by the Emma Juch Opera Co., "the only English opera company in America." Samuel Holland Ruis, one of the singers under the name of Dudley, later recalled the little boner.

On the main floor of the Child's Grand Opera House were eight gilded boxes with doors that swung outwards. The boxes were draped in red and the seats were upholstered in fine materials. The management had made extensive preparations for the important occasion and the royal entourage was to occupy the two lower boxes.

PLANS WERE made to drape an American flag over one box. The manager decided to use the Hawaiian ensign on the other. However, since no such emblem was available, a dressmaker, a Mrs. Jordon, was employed to fashion the banner from a drawing made by an architect who copied it from a colored picture of the flag found by Ruis in a dictionary. The banner was made the same size as the large American flag draping the other box and was "complete with gold bullion, cord and tassels"—but not as complete as its eager sponsors had intended.

That evening, when someone asked the king's sister if she liked the decorations, she praised them but pointed out that some of the colors were missing from the Hawaiian flag.

Later, Ruis discovered that all the plates in his dictionary had been printed in three colors only!

In spite of the discrepancy, "it was a grand evening of pomp and pageantry," as one reporter wrote afterwards. King Kalakaua, between acts of the opera, invited Emma Juch to the royal box and presented her with a deco-

Chef Evald Clausen of SAS prepares smørrebrød, the open-face sandwiches for which Denmark is world-famed.

Danish—and Delish!

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

DENMARK came to Long Beach last week in a form other than the pulchritude of its beauty queen as smørrebrød added a delightful fillip to the international theme prevailing throughout the city.

Smørrebrød hardly needs definition because the fame of Danish open-face sandwiches (that's what the word means) has spread around the world.

Chef Evald Marius Clausen, kitchen supervisor of Scandinavian Airlines System's commissary in Los Angeles, brought the art of making smørrebrød for all to see in two demonstrations under the auspices of Bufiles' Department Store.

"On stage" in chef's garb, Clausen is not only entertaining but is courtly, and extremely deft in both imagination and execution. The sandwiches he prepared weren't just Scandinavian only—they were plain good!

Before "laking to the air" on the ground, Clausen served as chef for the United Steamship Co., the Palace Hotel, the Restaurant Botanique, the Hotel København in Copenhagen, and with the East Asiatic Co.

He also served with the Royal Danish Navy before establishing his own business, which he conducted for a period of two years. In February 1949, he accepted the position as chef for the A. P. Moller Steamship Co. He joined SAS in March of 1959, first as steward, then chef, then in his present position.

Clausen speaks both English and Danish. He was educated in public, cook, and purser schools. He and his wife, Redtun Marie, a Norwegian lass, whom he met in Stockholm, have two children, Ann Carolyn, just past two, and John Leslie, one month today. They live in Los Angeles.

Chef Clausen was assisted by Margrete (Bobbie) Johnson, of the Ask Mr. Foster Travel Service. She was born of Norwegian parents in Corpus Christi, Texas, but was long a resident of Norway. She is now the wife of Ed Johnson, Lakewood High School teacher and has a daughter, Kari, 8.

Here are four of Chef Clausen's recipes:

Beef Med Spejlaeg

(Roast Beef and Fried Egg)

Cover buttered bread with slices of cold roast beef. Saute a sliced onion until brown and spread a layer over the beef. Top with a fried egg.

Roeget Laks og Røraeg

(Smoked Salmon and Scrambled Eggs)

Place slices of fresh smoked salmon on a buttered slice of bread, and add a ribbon of cold scrambled eggs diagonally across the salmon. Decorate with finely chopped chives.

Leverpostej

The "Hans Andersen" Sandwich

Cover a buttered slice of bread with slices of liver paste (pate). Cross with two rows of crisp bacon. Top with tomato slices, grated horseradish and a strip of jellied consommé.

Tomat og Aeg

(Tomato and Egg)

On one half of a slice of buttered bread place slices of hard boiled egg. On the other half arrange slices of tomato. Garnish with onion rings and watercress.

WHAT'S YOUR HOBBY?

She Crochets Robes

Bright hues go into lap robe which Mrs. G. V. Jewett crochets in long-standing hobby.

By H. L. McCorkle

LONG HOURS of working unselfishly for others have progressed 90-year-old Mrs. G. V. Jewett, 1077 St. Louis Ave., to the 250 mark in her goal of crocheting 300 lap robes. At 300, she will "retire," she says.

Most of the robes she has made have been given away to bring cheer and comfort to persons who are aged or ill.

A feature of her beautiful robes is that they are made entirely of used yarn. Mrs. Jewett's friends keep her well supplied with old sweaters, socks, coverlets and similar knitted items of wool, orlon or nylon. Her husband, George, patiently ravel out the yarn, discards the unusable portions, sterilizes the good sections and ties them into long strands. He then winds the various lengths of thread into balls for Mrs. Jewett.

BECAUSE the used yarns are of different weights or texture, it is necessary to consider each particular batch of yarn by itself. As Mrs. Jewett explains: "Some of the raveled yarns are very fine—therefore we must use from two to five strands for each thread, so that the completed robe will be of uniform thickness. I am also able to conceal the knots as I crochet, so that they will not be noticeable in the finished robe."

The robes each measure three by four feet. They consist of four rows of crocheting of one color, then another row of a contrasting shade, and so on until one half of the robe is done, then the same pattern is repeated on the remaining half. Every color of the rainbow is worked into these various small coverlets.

MANY ROBES have been given as gifts to either the Veterans Administration Hospital, or to the Hospital for the Aged on Redondo Avenue. Occasionally, Mrs. Jewett sells one on order for $5—but never keeps the money, turning it over to the "Golden Circle" class of her church, the First Baptist, to use as needed.

Mrs. Jewett first became interested in her hobby in King Kalakaua highlighted Los Angeles' social season with visit in 1891, attending a performance of opera.

1947, when she knitted an ambulance robe. However, the knitting was not satisfactory, to her. It was impossible to disguise the knots in the thread, which necessitated putting a lining in the coverlet. So she switched to the crocheting, and has used that method ever since.

ration of his kingdom. This was the high point of one of the early Southland's most festive evenings.

AND IT WAS because of this colorful event in the otherwise routine lives of Southlanders that the death of King Kalakaua soon afterward in San Francisco was noted with especial sorrow.

Hawaii's new status as the 50th state has relegated still farther back in memory the days of kingly rule. Faded, too, is the memory of the proud opera house which stood on the east side of Main St. near First St. The structure was razed in 1936.

TRAVEL AND RESORTS

AROUND THE WORLD WITH

DELAPLANE

"Our friends give us all kinds of advice on a travel wardrobe on our trip to Europe. Now we are confused."

A GOOD basic book on travel clothes is sent free by Pan American World Airways, 135 E. 42nd St., New York City.

You can also get booklets from TWA, Swissair, Air France and Shell Oil.

You can't take everything with you. But we all try. The airline limit is 44 pounds (66 if you are riding first class). The airlines are pretty tough about this. And paying for extra pounds transatlantic is expensive.

Wear the heavier pair of shoes, the heavier topcoat, carry the camera on your shoulder. (Stan Delaplane's Travel Tips on England, France, Spain and other European countries are available at 10 cents each. Send self-addressed envelope and coin to Chronicle Features, 821 Market St., San Francisco, Calif.)

"We are three ladies (not young, but not prudes). We would like to see some nice Paris shows and night clubs but not anything crude."

THE LIDO is an excellent night club with spectacular shows. The Folies Bergere, I think, is overrated but you should see it. Casino de Paris is the same as the Folies.

There's a night life tour of Paris (available American Express, Cook's, etc., in Paris). It gives you a couple of antiseptic places in Pigalle as well as the others.

At the Lido, one bottle of champagne at about $10 is obligatory. In the Place Pigalle spots, you have to go for the champagne, too. And the waiter usually pops another bottle before you can say no. It's a most outrageous clip operation.

"We were wondering about mechanical problems driving in Mexico?"

Mexicans are excellent mechanics—the garages may not look like it; they're usually in the back yard.

The main highways are patrolled these days by green jeeps. The driver has a two-way radio and will help you. (You can tip him.)

Buy Gasolmex first, Super-

Mex if you can't get that. The ordinary white gas will make your car knock like a tom-tom.

"... clothing for Manila and Hong Kong?"

Tropic weight. That's hot country. Better keep it down since you'll probably want to have clothes made in the free port of Hong Kong.

And don't go for that "suit made in 24 hours" thing. They look like it. A Hong Kong tailor needs five days and five fittings at least.

When San Francisco Closes Shop

WHEN the time comes to close shop for the day, you'd think San Franciscans would jam the Skyways (freeways) and head for their homes in the hills, just like in Los Angeles.

But they don't. Instead, they gang up in their favorite bars and eateries, swap drinks and pleasantries, and wind up on the Skyways under the light of a fog-obscured moon.

Not all, of course, but many, many. Downtown, such flossy drinkeries as the alley Domino Club, The Iron Horse on Maiden Lane, Paoli's in the financial district, the Top of the Mark, assorted escape hatches in the Hotel Fairmont, these and others of their kind are jammed to the point—even on week-day evenings—where every drink is in jeopardy from jostling. No room to sit, hardly room to stand!

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent Press-Telegram Travel Editor

FARTHER OUT, in the entertainment sectors up and down Broadway and Columbus Ave., and in Chinatown, the situation is the same only more so, abetted by throngs of tourists (natives say you can always spot 'em by their light suits and light cotton dresses and coats).

Amid the din of traffic and flashing neons, bars are overflowing as queues form to catch the shows at such spots as the Purple Onion, hungry i, Finocchio's, Moulin Rouge, Bimbo's and the Forbidden City.

At the hungry i, made famous by Mort Sahl and which made Mort Sahl famous, the main attraction is a Negro comic named Dick Gregory.

Packed houses at three bucks a throw, and shows almost continuous from 9 p.m.; and drinks a dollar, the dearest we encountered.

ENTERTAINMENT in San Francisco remains varied—acrobatics, strip tease, song and dance, jazz, gayest spot is Finocchio's where "female impersonators" continue to wow capacity crowds (only $1.50 here).

After the shows it's dining, and a time when pedestrians take their lives in their heels moving through boisterous traffic. And San Francisco makes dining an art. Scores of spots are big names, others fast becoming so, even if the entertainment isn't, except for Ella Fitzgerald at the Fairmont, and one or two others.

FOOD IS AS VARIED as the entertainment, with much of it the best you have ever savored. For rich experience in dining try New Joe's (steaks and Italian dishes), Bernstein's (sea food), Normandie (French dishes and such specialties as escargots), and Kans (exotic Chinese food).

If lunching downtown get aboard The Iron Horse (we enjoyed this one with our friend Joe Cooper, Western division manager of the Wine Advisory Board), St. Francis Hotel's Terrace Room (those beautiful Chinese waitresses!), Sir Francis Drake's Golden Hind.

Service is generally the finest, too, though the tempo sometimes produces short-tempered waiters. Example: At Top of the Mark a waiter asked an elderly lady in the throng (obviously a tourist looker and non-drinker) if she was waiting for a window seat. When she hesitated, he said, "Well, say something. Are you or aren't you?"

Hotel reservations? You think you have them when you often don't. We made ours by phone a week in advance at the St. Francis, whose clerk assured us he would mail confirmation and price. He didn't mail them

BOOK REVIEWS

High-Hearted People Amid Danger

By Vera Williams

Independent Press-Telegram Book Editor

"THE EDGE OF THE SWORD: Israel's War of Independence 1947-1949" by Netanel Lorch (Putnam, $7.95), a "must" for any reader wishing to understand his time, takes its place as the first complete military history of the Arab-Israeli War, a major contribution to the military history of the 20th century.

Col. Lorch, an officer in Israel's Defense Army 1947-1949, and later first chief of the military history division of the Israeli General Staff, has many friends in this area because from 1955 to 1958 he was Israel's consul in Los Angeles. In 1958, he established Israeli consulate in Ceylon and now heads the African Division in Israel's Foreign Ministry.

In this 475-page volume he recounts the military, air and naval encounters between Israel's citizen army and five Arab states. Photographs and 20 maps clarify the geographic background of the campaigns.

With a lively sense of pace and adventure, Lorch recounts the British evacuation, the various propositions for determining the boundaries, invasions, counter-invasions, guerilla warfare. One becomes personally acquainted with Yaacov Dori, Yigael Yadin, Moshe Dayan, Marcus Stone, Mount Scopus, Massado, Meggido, Nazareth, Ein Geddi, Beersheba become real places.

Gen. S.L.A. Marshall (Ret.) in his prologue, describes the Israelis: "... An entire free people walk high-heartedly amid danger with a zest for life—which is contagious... They are an armed people, which is the direct opposite of a militarized state; their like has not been seen since the time of ancient Rome..."

Maj. Gen. Yigael Yadin, former chief of the Israeli General Staff under whom Lorch served, wrote the epilogue.

"STRANGER IN A STRANGE LAND" by Robert A. Heinlein (Putnam, $4.50) has been called science fiction, a philosophical fantasy (the publisher's viewpoint) and social satire. It is a fascinating and sometimes disturbing story told by a master craftsman whose seemingly tireless pen has produced such SF classics as "The Green Hills of Earth," "Methuselah's Children," "The Puppet Masters" and more than 20 other works. The stranger is Valentine Michael Smith, illegitimate offspring of a triangle among the first earth colonizers of Mars. Smith is raised by Martians, achieves their unhuman morals, thinking and aptitudes only to be returned to earth, the strange land.

BETH EBERHART DESCRIBES adventures awaiting greenhorn fishermen in "A CREW OF TWO" (Doubleday, $4.50). This is Mrs. Eberhart's painting of the Emblem (above), fishing boat in which she and her husband cruised coastal waters of the Pacific Northwest. "A Crew of Two" is illustrated throughout with her paintings.

"THIS OFFICER in January 1942 organized and conducted with the greatest skill and devotion for two years, a highly successful information service in favour of the Allied Cause in Northern France. He, at great personal risk, reconnoitred a number of highly guarded 'V.I.' sites and reported thereon with such clarity that models thereof were constructed in this country which enabled effective bombing to be carried out..." Thus, in part, read the citation to Capitaine de Reserve Michel HOLLARD — "THE MAN WHO SAVED LONDON" by George Martelli (Doubleday, $4.50). This is the true story of Hollard, leader of a network of French underground agents during the German occupation of Hitler's "festung Europa." At first British Intelligence was wary of Martelli's volunteer espionage, but after he spelled out Nazi troop movements during the North Africa fighting with uncanny accuracy he became OBI's top spy. Michel turned up the clue that led to discovery of Germany's most terrifying offensive weapons, "the flying bombs," and enabled the English to take successful counteractions.

EVERY TIME you frown, pucker your lips or furrow your brow, you invite wrinkles warns Helen Jill Fletcher in "YOUR FACE CAN BE BEAUTIFUL; A Complete Guide to Beauty and Make-up" (Padell, $2.50). She gives information on facial types, makeup, exercises.

"THE DEAN SPEAKS AGAIN" by Edith Parker Hinckley and Katharine Norton Benner (Creative Press, Box 89, Claremont, Calif., $3.50): In a series of vignettes this book offers vivid word pictures of early life at Pomona College in Claremont as it tells the story of Edwin Clarence Norton, one of the founders of the school in 1888. But more than that, it

The Wives of Brigham Young

A TEMPESTUOUS plural wife with marital troubles can cause quite a furor—especially when her husband is the president and prophet of the Mormon Church.

"THE TWENTY-SEVENTH WIFE" by Irving Wallace (Simon and Schuster, $5.95) purports to tell how the 27th wife of Brigham Young was wooed, won and lost by him—and how she stumped the nation to crusade against polygamy.

Wallace, who also wrote the Chapman Report, writes vividly on 19th century plural marriages.

He details what he says is an objective review of the history of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints—then gives a wife-by-wife account of the Young household.

It isn't a peepshow. Rather it is a personality sketch of a woman involved in a plural marriage—and an attempt to sketch the culture that could induce a woman willingly to take the vows to become the 27th wife.

Wallace, who lives in Los Angeles, notes that plural marriage still exists in Salt Lake City, Arizona, and some areas of Los Angeles. The Mormon Church banned polygamy at the turn of the century, and now ousts any members with plural wives. But splinter groups still live in polygamy, according to Wallace.

MARY PATCHETT has made the valiant wedgetail eagles the heroes of "THE PROUD EAGLES," a novel of the Australian bush (World, $3.50). She says of the eagles "I know no other living thing as beautiful, free, powerful, proud and brave." Line drawings by Maurice Wilson.

is the story of this kindly teacher whose strength of purpose did much to bring Pomona College to the fore among the great educational institutions of the West. The publishing firm is headed by Dorothy Banker Turner, prominent Southland writer and teacher of writing.

ROBERT GRAVES, translator, essayist, novelist, critic, historian and scholar, recently elected to the chair of poetry at Oxford University, has issued "COLLECTED POEMS" (Doubleday, $5.95), his first American book since 1955. The poems follow a chronological order, beginning in 1914 when Graves was 19 years old.

"THE DEVIL CAME ON SUNDAY" by Oswald Wynd (Doubleday, $4.50) is a novel of today fighting yesterday in a small Scottish town. It is about Elsie, an outcast; Jock, a rebel; Mary Wood, who goes to the Saturday night dances, leaving her four illegitimate children at home; a minister and his wife who fear a village scandal.

MARY LAVIN, born in Massachusetts but reared in Ireland, writes about Ireland with love and compassion in "THE GREAT WAVE AND OTHER STORIES" (Harper, $3.50). Quite a few of the stories have appeared in The New Yorker. The stories range from the elemental tragedy of the title story "The Great Wave" to the airiness of "My Molly," from the macabre dilemma of the cautious bride in "Bridal Sheets" to the spiritual rebirth of a widow in "In a Cafe."

THE ACTUAL OR armchair sailor can have a wonderful time with "SEA OF SEAS: The Western Mediterranean" by Capt. Wilfred H. Scott-Shawe (Van Nostrand, $7.50). The author sailed the area for 57 years in everything from square riggers to merchant ships, naval vessels and yachts. A Trinity House pilot in Plymouth, England, for 30 years, he visited every Western Mediterranean port and had first-hand acquaintance with every harbor.

Cruises are reported to Gibraltar, the Balearic Islands, Corsica, Sardinia and Sicily. Also included are descriptions of the ports and piloting on the Spanish coast and the rivieras of France, and Italy.

When photographing flowers, a simple focal frame attachment is an aid to close-up focusing and viewfinding.

By the Shutterbug

NOW IS THE TIME for flower lovers and green thumb experts of all varieties—the ordinary, garden variety as well as the special bloom cultivator—to give careful thought to the value of photography in capturing the beauty of flowers, particularly in color and closeup, so they can be enjoyed over and over again long after summer is past.

CAMERA ANGLES

Flower portraiture techniques are fundamental, and simple cameras such as Kodak's line of Brownie Star Cameras make very satisfactory close-ups.

For real close-ups of flowers with either fixed-focus or adjustable still cameras, supplementary lenses are required. Most fixed-focus cameras will not give a clear picture at a distance of less than six feet. Adjustable cameras generally allow the picture-taker a focusing range of about three feet. Inexpensive supplementary lenses designed to fit over the lens of any camera—such as Kodak Portra Lenses—will help you to get close enough to your blooms to produce excellent pictures. For example, adjustable cameras can photograph the flowers from as close as 5½-inches by means of only a pair of Portra Lenses in front of the regular lens. Lenses of various powers will give fixed-focus cameras sharp focusing ranges of from 3-feet to 3¾-inches.

FOCUSING and viewfinding are especially important in close-up snapshots. Focusing is important because the zone of sharp focus may be only a few inches or less, so it's necessary to measure exactly the distance between the camera and the flower. Viewfinding is important because most cameras have the viewfinder right above the lens, so the lens and the viewfinder don't "see" exactly the same area your lens does at extremely close ranges. So, tip the lens slightly when making your close-ups, as a subject only a foot away from the camera will have the top quarter of the picture area "chopped off" if you don't tip the camera.

A simple way to avoid elaborate computations is calculating the right distance between the front surface of the close-up lens and the middle of the flower is to attach a string to your camera with one knot at the closest shooting distance possible and one at the farthest. A table packed with each Portra Lens will give you this information. If you confine your shooting to one or the other of the two distances, using the knots as measuring guides, there is no need to use any other measuring device.

of the stick shows the width of the picture area.

MOST EFFECTIVE and accurate aid in solving problems of close-up focusing and viewfinding is the focal frame. This consists of a heavy wire or tubular metal frame that projects out from the camera and outlines the area you want to have in sharp focus. If you're handy with tools, focal frames are easy to make. Instructions can be obtained at no charge by writing for pamphlet B-10, "Portra Lenses and a Technique for Extreme Close-Ups," Sales Service Division, Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester 4, N. Y.

TWO COMPETITIONS, in color slides and stereo color slides, will mark a meeting of the Long Beach Camera Guild at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Los Altos Library, 5614 Britton Dr. Anyone interested in photography is invited.

It's Training That Does It

By Eleanor Avery Price

IN THE CAREER of every movie dog, one or more trainers play key roles, behind the scenes. For example, in Walt Disney's Technicolor feature, "Nikki, Wild Dog of the North," based on James Oliver Curwood's novel, "Nomads of the North," an adventurous couple, Bill and Virginia Bacon, tackled the assignment of training Nikki, a superb Alaskan Malamute.

Bill and Virginia snowshoed from Fairbanks to Edmonton, and set up shop in an old barn on the Kanana-skis Ranch, some 30 miles east of Banff. The schooling of the dog is perfection both when a puppy and a full-grown dog. Those who see the picture may wish they had a well-trained dog of their own.

One, however, doesn't just go around the corner and buy a trained dog for a few dollars. Much money and time is invested in a dog that can perform. The alternative? Buy a dog and train it yourself.

YOU WILL probably then start out with a harum-scarum youngster. But don't be discouraged. Get busy on his elementary education. House-break the pup, interest it in other things to chew besides your shoes, upholstery, etc., and teach it not to jump on people by knocking it off balance with your knee, or your shin if it's a tiny fellow) every time it expresses affection in this manner. Be patient, be kind.

Then take your dog through an obedience training class. You will find that the commands the dog learns here are the basis upon which even stage tricks are built. Heeling, for instance, gets your dog's undivided attention on you. And staying in a sit, down, or stand position, coming on call or signal, jumping—all can lead up to all sorts of performances such as sitting on unusual objects, lying down while another dog jumps over him, jumping over various things, jumping into your arms, and other tricks.

WHEN TRAINING your dog in these basic lessons and you hope to put on an "act," even if only for the kids in your garage, approximate conditions such as you will find on a space-limited stage. Also familiarize the dog with music, applause, strange noises, crowds of people, lights. And get him accustomed to being dressed up. This always delights an audience.

If your dog pulls a faux pas in training, it might give you a springboard for a new trick. For example, if the dog happens to rise on his hind feet as he goes into an about-turn, give a command such as "Dance," and he will shortly be "waltzing" when you want him to.

Since no performance is complete without a dog going through a hoop, get one, suspend it from a tree, put the dog on a long leash, start running him toward the hoop, and with enthusiasm and some expression such as "Allez-oop!" see that the dog goes through. Soon you can hold a hoop in your hand, give the command, and the dog will perform.

Keep calm, be lavish with praise, pat the dog frequently, and offer tidbits. But do not hit or hurt the dog in any way. If you do, you will never win his trust nor his cooperation.

Help With Island Plantings

By Joe Littlefield

ISLAND PLANTERS in driveways need plants that stand considerable heat, sun, and depending upon locality, more cold than some of evergreen shrubs can take. Combination planting with contrast of foliage texture adds more interest.

As an example, bronze New Zealand flax and rich dark green prostrate rosemary form an interesting combination. Another might be rock roses by themselves, or arbovitae and junipers for contrast of foliage greens. There are a number of combinations one may work out with the help of his local nurseryman.

This same principle applies to outdoor planters that are a part of the house wall. South and west exposure side of house calls for shrubs that stand lots of heat, and sun, whereas east or north exposure needs plants that stand shade, or more shade than sun.

We in Southern California can have more garden color than we do and still not have to work hard at it.

Busy folk who do limited gardening, lazy gardeners—and ambitious gardeners, too—can have more color from bulbous and thick rooted plants. Here's a list of some that furnish color in their season, and between them some color the year round. Arrange them as to sizes and heights of growth, having more of smaller ones and less of larger kinds and you will have color in that garden the year round!

AGAPANTHUS, "Lily of Nile," blooms for some weeks usually starting in June, flowers white or blue. Contrary to usual view, they will blossom better if they have more sun than shade. In summer-cool garden locations they'll stand full sun.

KNIPHOFIA PFITZERI or "poker" or "torch" plant was popular in many gardens. In last couple of years they've become popular again. The tall spikes of yellow, or orange-red flowers, torch-like in effect, add some showy summer color.

TULBAGHIA VIOLACEA, or "society garlic," with narrow foliage, and taller spikes topped with cluster of blue color coral bell-like flowers, begins to blossom in May, and doesn't stop until October. The foliage when damp has a strong onion-garlic odor. Tender leaves may be chopped up fine and used in salads or in soups. Plants take lots of wind, heat and cold. They are good for an informal hedge along a driveway.

AMARCRINUM is an evergreen bulbous plant that sends forth corn-like leaves two feet and more long and forms a husky clump. Once additional bulbs have grown to form a cluster, they usually begin to flower in June and continue until November unless there's an early frost. The two to three-foot tall flower stalks will bear a dozen or more pink, fragrant, amaryllis-like blossoms.

HELLEBORUS or "lenten rose," around foot or so tall, evergreen, large, palmate-leaf perennial begins to bloom some time in December. Once they start they continually send forth new blossoms into May. It is one of the most bloomful of winter-blooming perennial plants. The single, anemone-like flowers, in pinks, white, plum color or rose, last almost twice as long as most other blossoms.

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . When dividing tall bearded iris, renew the soil before replanting the rhizomes. Remove some of the old soil and replace it with compost or soil from another bed.

Plant citrus trees during these warm months, but protect exposed trunks from the sun. A wrapping of burlap will do it.

Feed fuchsias, chrysanthemums, tuberous begonias every two weeks. Try liquid fish one time, a complete plant food the next.

SOLUTION TO TODAY'S PUZZLE (See Page 30)

America's No. 1 House Plant

African violets are easy to grow successfully if you know how. Accompanying article gives helpful pointers.

By Derek Lydecker

AFRICAN violets are America's No. 1 house plant—and no wonder. They are so easy to grow—if you know how. Fortunately, you can pick up the know-how in no time at all. Like all plants, African violets have certain preferences. Just keep in mind the points covered below and you'll have no trouble in cramming your violets so full of bloom, they'll look like old-fashioned nosegays.

First of all, make sure you give your plants enough light in a warm (65 to 75 degrees) room. In winter, they like morning sun—about three hours of it. In summer, they prefer sun filtered through a window screen or light net curtain. If your African violets have lush dark green foliage but no blossoms, they need more light. But if you keep them in a sunny window and their leaves look healthy but are pale green, it's a sure sign they are getting too much light. Try moving them back a foot or two from the window so they won't have quite so much sun. It's a good idea to experiment a little by putting your African violets in various places around the house until you find just the right spot.

ANOTHER THING African violets insist on is adequate humidity. The air in heated rooms is usually quite dry, but you can overcome this by doing several things. It helps to set each African violet in its clay pot on a pebble-filled saucer. Pour enough water into the saucer to cover the pebbles and reach just below the base of the clay pot. As the water evaporates, it adds moisture to the air, improving conditions for your violets—and for you, too.

When soil is damp, moisture exudes from the sides of a clay pot, too, so the porous pot does its bit in keeping your plant collection healthy. Water-filled trays on radiators increase humidity, too.

A good soil mixture for African violets is equal parts loam, sand, peatmoss or leaf-mold, and vermiculite thoroughly mixed. Place a concave piece of broken clay pot over the drainage hole, cover with an inch of pebbles and fill in the soil around plant roots, pressing it down lightly to eliminate large air spaces.

IT'S SIMPLE to water African violets in clay pots. Pour in enough warm water at the top of the pot so some runs out of the drainage hole at the bottom. Then withhold water until the topsoil begins to feel dry when you touch it. Or, if you like, you can set the clay pot in a bowl of water until it soaks up moisture through the drain hole and its porous sides. It's a good idea to keep all your violets in clay pots so you can use this method. As soon as soil is damp, return the plant to its customary pebble-filled saucer. Once a month add liquid plant food to the water.

With this good routine care, it won't be long before you, too, will have windows full of cheerful African-violet blooms.

Begonia Meeting

Long Beach Parent Chapter, Begonia Society, will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at 728 Elm Ave. Mrs. Alice Martin will discuss tuberous begonias.

A flower and plant show is scheduled for Saturday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., with plant sale, snack bar and other activities. Tuberous plants will dominate the display. No admission will be charged.

in the garden

By Dorothy Jonson

Always remember to water plants well if you are going to spray them. You naturally try to select materials that will be easy on the plants, as well as ruthless on the insects. Nevertheless, the application of any spray material is bound to be something of a shock to plant life and giving the plants plenty of water before you spray them is equivalent to giving a man a good breakfast before he starts out to do a hard day's work.

And since thoroughness of application is half the battle against insects and plant diseases, be sure that you have a sprayer that gives you a good even coverage and an accurate mixture of the materials you apply. These things are just as important to success as the material you use.

Never fertilize immediately before spraying. This can be very disastrous to your plants, especially if you use a fertilizer high in nitrogen content.

Let's Go for a Ride

AH, YES. It's another beautiful Southern California day, perfect for an unusual boat ride across the harbor. "And 'unusual' is definitely the word for the Princess, the luxurious paddlewheel boat operated by the glamorous Reef and Ports O'Call restaurants, which are located on the waterfront. With seating for 176 persons on its glass-enclosed saloon deck, the Princess offers Gay 90s decorations, cute cocktail waitresses in can-can costumes and entertainment by pianist Ken Senke.

Also unusual is the Princess' departure schedule. On even-numbered days of the month, the boat departs from a pier at The Reef, 800 S. Harbor Scenic Dr., Long Beach. On odd-numbered days, it departs from the Ports O'Call, Berth 76, Port of Los Angeles, San Pedro. It operates nightly (except Mondays) from 7 to midnight and Sundays from 3 to 10 p.m. Each hour-long trip takes the passengers on a tour of all the beautiful harbor sights. When the voyage ends, the passengers are returned to their starting point.

TODAY being an even-numbered day, the Princess' trips will originate and end at The Reef. The charge is $1.25 per passenger. Food is not served aboard the boat, except for charter parties when buffet-style cuisine is featured. Charter parties may be arranged by phoning HE 5-2867.

New manager of The Reef is personable and efficient Ralph Fulton, formerly assistant manager. New manager of the Ports O'Call is Tommie Noh, blond, wavy-haired former Reef manager. Both restaurants feature superb American cuisine with Polynesian touches. Luncheons are priced from $1.75; dinners from $2.95. Among the entrees are Teriyaki steak, broiled swordfish, a variety of charcoal-broiled steaks, Tahitian drumsticks (barbecued spareribs), Polynesian Delight, shrimp and lobster. Both restaurants also feature unusual tropical drinks.

BOOM IN AMERICAN BALLERINAS PAGE 8

Dancing is really part of Hawaii...like laughter. We dance to Hawaiian music, the latest hit tunes, Dixieland...you name it, we have it. No finer dance orchestras, anywhere.

Vacation on Kauai, the Garden Island. If you like tropical flowers and spectacular scenery, make Kauai your first Island side trip. This is the island other islanders visit for beauty.

You'll love Waikiki Beach. Everyone does. Palm trees along the shore...old Diamond Head...the surf. Nothing like it anywhere. And wait 'til I take you on an outrigger canoe ride!

Ever see a "tame" volcano? This is snow-capped Mauna Kea on Hawaii, the "Big Island." And when you're here, I'll show you tree fern forests, orchid farms, coffee plantations. Come soon.

"We'll be seeing you soon in the Islands of Hawaii"

Has Statehood Changed Hawaii? Not for the visitor. It's still just 4½ smooth hours by jet from the Pacific Coast ($266 round trip) or a 4½ day vacation cruise by luxury liner ($380 round trip). Currency and language? Pure U.S.A....Drinking water? Likewise. Passports, visas and shots? None. Costs? Hotel rooms from $5 to $30 per day. Stay long enough to see all the islands.

The weather is fine any month of the year — about 74° average. Travel light — buy reasonable "island things" when you arrive. Many fine new hotels and hotel additions give you a wide choice of accommodations and assurance of no waiting for rooms... All things considered...

Isn't this your year to visit Hawaii?

Hawaii's colorful pageant, Aloha Week, is October 14-21

Do you enjoy exotic eating places? Hawaii has many. Some Oriental, like this tea house. Some in tropical gardens. Some by the seashore. Fine steak houses, restaurants, hotel dining rooms, too.

Did you ever hit a tee shot through a rainbow? I have, right on this seaside course. But you'll want to play all the Island courses. Good golf country with lots of variety, whatever your game.

Romantic and colorful Old Hawaii is never far from your modern hotel here on Maui, the Valley Isle. You'll want to see Haleakala Crater, lovely Hana, historic Lahaina. Maui welcomes you.

In Honolulu's Bishop Museum you can trace Hawaiian history from stone age to statehood. Then you'll want to see where Hawaiian history was made, and enjoy colorful Polynesian pageantry.

You're looking at a bit of "modern" Hawaii. This is a part of the business side of the 50th state, where new construction topped $275 million in 1960. Investment opportunities? I found many.

The first thing most visitors do is get out of tight fitting mainland clothes into comfortable things like these. They're as colorful as the Islands themselves, where they're designed and made.

“You’re much too ripe to be the Birds Eye type!”

Everybody wants to get into the act! But only the juicy, jewel-bright berries get in at Birds Eye! The fancy Northwestern Strawberries. Filled with tart-sweet flavor.

Birds Eye picks, packs and freezes them—take note please—in just a few hours from harvest. To give you the freshest flavor this side of your own strawberry patch.

WALTER SCOTT'S PERSONALITY PARADE

David Brinkley

Diane Varsi

Prince Rainier

Doris Day

Jack Dempsey

Raymond Burr

Martha Raye

John F. Kennedy, Jr.

Ann Sothern

Sarah Churchill

Q. David Brinkley, the TV commentator — doesn't his wife write his material?—L. P., Washington, D.C.

A. Brinkley is married to Ann Fischer, a former reporter, but she does not write his commentary, is too busy looking after their sons, Alan, Joel and John.

Q. Whatever happened to Diane Varsi, who walked out of Hollywood after starring in Peyton Place?—Selma Steinman, Miami, Fla.

A. She was recently married in San Francisco to Michael Hausman, son of a New York textile mill owner. At 23, it was her third marriage.

Q. Would you please explain the background of Monaco royalty involving Prince Rainier? I would particularly like to know about his grandfather.—George Elston, Newark, N.J.

A. Rainier's grandfather was Prince Louis II. According to popular history, popular in Monaco anyway, Louis II became extremely fond of his laundress in his palace. When the laundress gave birth to a daughter, Louis recognized her as Princess Charlotte and married her off to Prince Pierre of Polignac. Princess Charlotte gave birth to two children, Antoinette and Rainier III. Antoinette ran off with a tennis player who eventually deserted her, and Rainier married Grace Kelly. In 1949, when Louis II died, Rainier ascended the throne of Monaco.

Q. How many children did the late Mario Lanza and his wife have, and who has custody now?—Mrs. C. E. Sutherland, Honolulu, Hawaii.

A. The Lanzas had two boys and two girls. They are being cared for by Mario's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Cocazza.

Q. Please tell me if Laurette Taylor was the first wife of Jack Dempsey?—Mrs. Louise Garrigan, Orange, Conn.

A. No. Dempsey was married to Estelle Taylor.

Q. How old is Doris Day, and is it true that her step-mother is a Negress?—Alyce McMurtry, Richmond, Calif.

A. Doris Day is 38. Her father, William Kappelhoff, 62, white, recently married his saloon manageress, Luvenia Bennet, 49, who is a Negress. Kappelhoff is divorced from his first wife, Doris Day's mother. His second wife died in 1958.

Q. Who said: "Counting time is not so important as making time count"?—D.P., Chicago, Ill.

A. The late mayor of New York City, James J. Walker.

Q. Queen Elizabeth II of Great Britain and her husband, Prince Philip—aren't they also cousins?—Henry Johns, New York, N.Y.

A. Yes, they are distant cousins.

Q. Is it on the level that Raymond Burr, who plays Perry Mason on TV, receives more than $5,000 a week?—K. Turner, Seattle, Wash.

A. True, when his deferred salary is included.

Q. Does Martha Raye have any children and what are their ages?—P. Muller, Brooklyn, N.Y.

A. Miss Raye has one daughter, Melody, 18, by her fourth husband, Nick Condos.

Q. Who is the godfather of President Kennedy's son—Charles Bartlett or Prince Radziwill?—P.S., Hempstead, N.Y.

A. In the christening ceremony, Mr. Bartlett was a proxy for the child's godfather, Prince Stanislaus Radziwill, the President's brother-in-law.

Q. Is it true that Darryl Zanuck and his protégée, Juliette Greco, have split?—Phil Oppenheimer, Newark, N.Y.

A. True as of this writing

Q. Every time I see Ann Sothern on television, the camera shoots her above the waistline. Why is this?—Jennie Peterson, Provo, Utah.

A. Miss Sothern has a weight problem the cameraman tries to hide.

Q. How many children has Dennis Day fathered to date?—Ellen Franklin, Orlando, Fla.

A. Dennis Day, 44, has three daughters, five sons.

Q. Recently Sarah Churchill, actress daughter of Sir Winston Churchill, was involved in an overseas mess which was hushed up in the American press. Won't you please tell us the truth?—L.T., Bridgeport, Conn.

A. Unhushed was the news that Sarah Churchill on June 6, 1961, was fined $5.60 for being drunk and disorderly in a Brighton pub.

ARE RUSSIAN SPIES REALLY ANY GOOD?

Hidden camera catches Miroslav Nacvalac on San Francisco street corner. Nacvalac, a Czech diplomat, denied he was ever in California. The accused spy left under deportation threat.

by JACK ANDERSON

Parade Washington correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C.

LAST MONTH, Miroslav Nacvalac of the Czech U.N. delegation was expelled from the U.S., charged with heading Czech espionage in this country. The incident reflects a situation well-known to U.S. counter-espionage agencies—and even to the American public: that the Kremlin runs the most elaborate espionage web in the world. It has also scored quite a record of successes. Yet ask any U.S. counter-espionage agent what he thinks of the Russians as spies, and you learn an astonishing answer: "Cornball, strictly cornball."

Deep in the Russian soul is a passion for drama, and nowhere does it find better expression than in the cloak-and-dagger business. Russian spy-masters arrange their trysts with all the imagination of a TV director planning a scene for a grade B thriller.

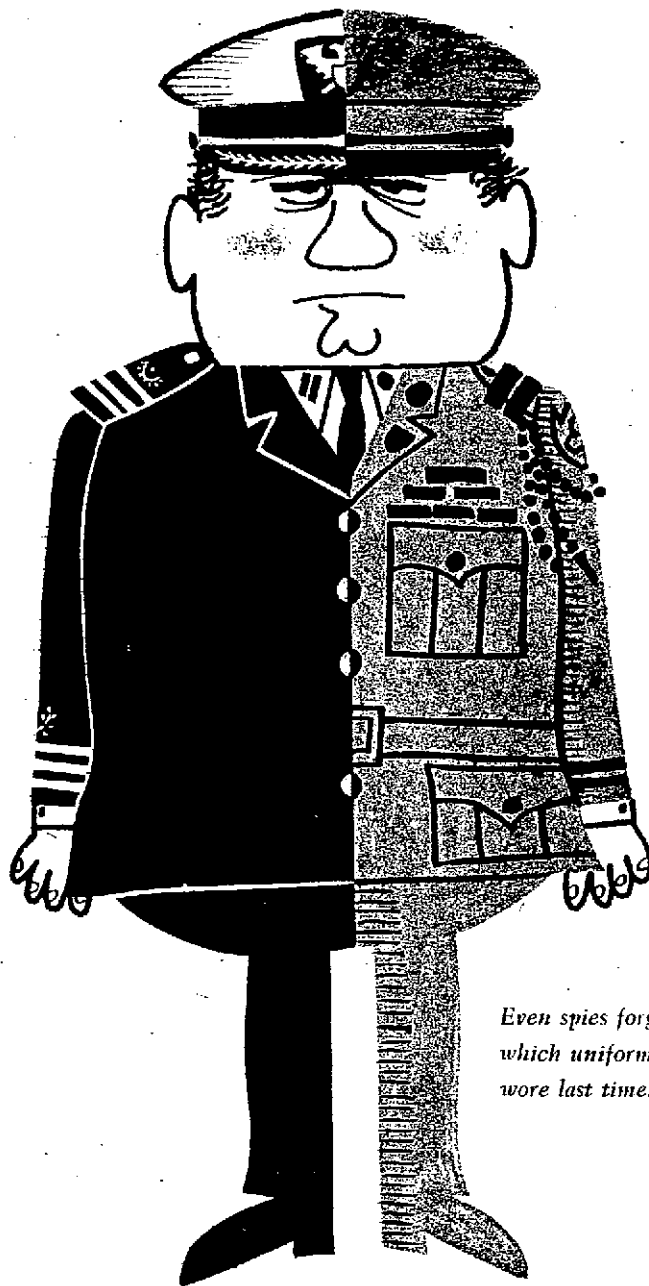

The Russians operate excellent spy schools (one reportedly is a replica of a small American town so that agents in training can get the right atmosphere), and turn out some slick operators. But the rank-and-file Russian agents, according to men who have tracked them down, would be better qualified to be Keystone Cops. Their skill is less responsible for Soviet successes in the dark underworld of plot and counter-plot than the treason of native Communists.

Take the case of Aleksandr Kovalev, an assistant Soviet naval attaché who set out to subvert an American officer and chose Lafayette Park here for their meeting place. Perhaps he got an extra thrill out of plotting across the street from the White House. But he overlooked the fact that Lafayette Park is a hangout for sex deviates, drug pushers and other shady characters, hence is probably the best policed place in Washington. Even the benches occasionally have been wired to pick up incriminating conversations.

To add to the drama, the American was instructed to carry a Redbook magazine under his arm. He stood around looking mysterious—and obvious—until Kovalev strolled up and asked for a match. At this recognition signal, the two moved off together like heavies in a movie and, appropriately, were filmed by FBI cameramen.

A Starring Role

But the plot was only beginning. Kovalev decided Washington was too risky, directed the American to drive to New York and carry out another elaborate rigmarole. He was to park his car in a pre-arranged place and leave microfilms of a Navy manual in a red package visible through the rear window. Kovalev would pick up the package and give a "receipt" by making a code mark in the telephone directory of an uptown restaurant. The conspiratorial Russian continued to star in the FBI's secret films for two years

wore last time.*

DRAWINGS BY CARL N. MOINO

before his usefulness was exhausted and the State Department declared him persona non grata.

Yuri Novikov, another Soviet diplomat, made even more dramatic arrangements for his meeting with an Air Force officer who had been sent to him by Red agents in Vienna. The officer was told to dress in civilian clothes, wear a snap-brim hat low over his eyes, carry a rolled newspaper under his left arm and hold his right glove in his left hand. Place of rendezvous: the base of the Washington monument. This was followed by nine more melodramatic meetings, all filmed by the FBI, before Novikov was kicked out of the country.

Russian agents seem to be fascinated with the name "George." Leonid Pivnev, an assistant air attaché, said, "just call me George," when he approached a Virginia photographer to make aerial maps of Chicago. The fact that he didn't sound a bit like "George" with his thick Russian accent served only to arouse the photographer's suspicions. Later "George" gave himself the surname "Tinney" in an attempt to obtain a Washington business address as a mail drop. Pivnev never got his photographs of Chicago, but the FBI took his photograph—and out of the country he went.

Four years later, another man called George was still trying to get aerial photographs of Chicago. His real name: Kirill Doronkin, a Russian UN employee. The informant he picked happened to tip off the FBI. At their rendezvous in a parking lot outside the Seaside, N.Y., railroad station, Doronkin showed up with his wife. She strolled around looking about as casual as Mata Hari while the contact was made. Exit Mr. and Mrs. Doronkin from the U.S.

He Flunked the Test

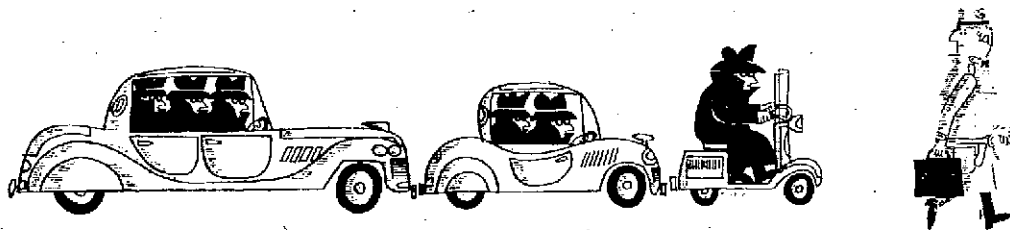

Soviet fascination with Chicago is puzzling. Probably no other American city is more open, more photographed, more flown over. The Russians can buy all the city maps, aerial views and picture postcards they want without risking a single spy.

Yet another George, better known around the UN as Vadim Kirilyuk, tried to subvert an American student who had applied for a Soviet scholarship. He urged the young man to use his knowledge of cryptography to get a Pentagon or CIA job and pass on information.

Explained friendly, reliable George: "You would have more to offer us by way of cultural exchange. Education in our country is a serious matter, not like in the United States. Persons must undergo severe tests to gain admission to our universities. This is your test." The FBI, listening in, decided Kirilyuk had flunked his test. Within a month, he was sent home.

The Russians show little discrimination in making contacts (example: A Soviet first secretary held 15 meetings with Roger Foss, a henchman of the self-styled, crackpot American Fuehrer, George Lincoln Rockwell), and even less finesse. They choose obscure little restaurants (although they would be far less conspicuous in a crowded place), ply the victim with vodka to loosen his tongue and invariably arrive first to set the scene.

One American double agent told PARADE about meeting a Russian for cocktails. Typically, the Russian arrived early and ordered martinis. When the time came for a new round, he took elaborate pains to point to his glass and ask for "another of the same." Laughs the American: "I've spiked the drinks of too many girls to be caught by that old trick. When he wasn't looking, I sniffed his glass. He was drinking sauterne with a twist of lemon peel, which looks like a martini but lacks the knockout punch."

They're often embarrassingly obvious, and then you notice spies tailing the spies.

Another time, they met at the Red Fox Inn in Middleburg, Va., not far from President Kennedy's country estate. Not only was the Russian's accent more conspicuous in this secluded Virginia setting, but the Inn served only wine and beer. Undaunted, he produced a couple of pints of vodka from his car. However, his strategy backfired. The American made sure they both drank from the same bottle; the Russian got drunk and ran three red lights driving back to Washington.

The Devious Route

Perhaps the most amusing story is that of the American double agent who was invited to a Russian's apartment for a cozy dinner for two. They hadn't got past the soup before the American spotted two outsize brogans sticking out under the floor-length window draperies. "They were flap-over, button-down shoes like granddad used to wear," chuckled the American. "You couldn't miss them. As the evening wore on, the man behind the curtain became hot and tired. In the end he was panting so loudly he could be heard across the room."

On an espionage mission, a Russian will never follow a straight line from Point A to B. He invariably takes a devious, twisting, tortuous route—a useless waste of time for both shadowed and shadowers. For it is almost impossible to shake the FBI, which will use a squad of men and a fleet of automobiles to keep one man under surveillance.

A favorite Soviet trick is to duck into a crowded department store, ride up and down the escalators and try to get lost among the hustle of shoppers. But while the Russian is wearing himself out inside the store, the FBI patiently watches every possible exit and quietly resumes the tail when he emerges.

One Soviet operative arranged a tryst in a cheap dive near the Baltimore railroad station, less than an hour's train ride from Washington. Although the appointed hour was 7:15 p.m., the Russian set out for Baltimore at 9 a.m. He wandered around Washington, ducking in and out of eateries and art galleries, ordering ham and eggs at five different luncheon counters, until 3 p.m. Then he caught the train to Baltimore where he repeated the same pattern. "If only they would go directly to their appointments," complained a G-man wearily. "It would save us all a lot of trouble."

For their part, the Russians are surprisingly inept at shadowing people. "Even the most rank amateur would know he was being tailed after the first block," says one who has been followed. The Soviet gunshoes are almost always grim, glum, plodding characters in blue serge suits and fedora hats. Often the Russians will follow a man on foot by automobile, driving a few paces behind in slow, grinding gear. "They are so obvious it becomes embarrassing," says the American. "You are not only aware of their presence but soon discover that the trailers are themselves being trailed by another set of snoopers."

Army or Navy?

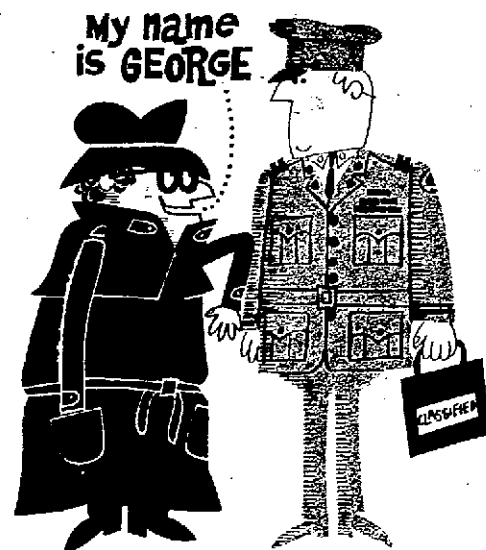

Some Soviet spies have a careless habit of turning up in different disguises. One who appeared at a Washington cocktail party in Army uniform forgetfully showed up next time in a Navy uniform.

Such a man of multiple identities was M. I. Krievashkov, a lowly Russian interpreter, whom the Americans at the UN nicknamed "Baby Face" because of his blond, blue-eyed, guileless face. But the FBI had seen the same unmistakable baby face elsewhere, once as a Red Army officer, another time as a Naval officer. Naturally the FBI tightened its surveillance on Baby Face who evidently realized he was being watched. For he suddenly disappeared from the UN without bothering to turn in his credentials.

It is typical of Soviet spies to pose as lowly flunkies. They are treated with such deference by their supposed superiors, however, that their true status becomes painfully evident.

A favorite front is that of chauffeur. One who was kicked out of the country for spying was Vassili Molev, who also put in time as custodian in the Soviet Embassy. He contacted an American undercover man the first Tuesday of each month on New York City's West 58th Street with all the usual mystery and drama. For his pains, he was declared persona non grata and obliged to turn in his chauffeur's suit.

The Communist spy apparatus, like the octopus it resembles, is bound to pick up some secrets with all its weaving, twisting, slippery arms. But the Soviets are not as relentlessly efficient in the pursuit of our secrets as we often suppose.

They have a weakness for the name George.

BOOM IN BALLERINAS

by R. M. LUGER

LIKE BASEBALL SCOUTS on the prowl for new pitchers, the trio of ballet's major leaguers scoured the bush-leagues for home grown ballet talent.

The experts, choreographer George Balanchine, dancers Melissa Hayden and Diana Adams, their pockets jingling with $100,000 of Ford Foundation money, watched pirouettes and arabesques from Maine to Arizona.

When the search was over 15 talented boys and girls from 15 to 21, copped the prizes—full time Ford Foundation scholarships to the School of American Ballet, official school of the celebrated New York City Ballet Company.

The program is now a year old and the Foundation and ballet school are accepting bouquets with their curtain calls. Four of the regional scholarship winners have made the professional grade as hired performers of the New York City Ballet, The American Ballet Theatre and the Ruth Page Chicago Opera Ballet.

The rest of the students, their scholarships renewed, will continue to study. Other talented dancers from regional areas will be auditioned to fill vacancies.

Ford's grant-in-aid to ballet is the first major breakthrough for the dance in this country. While Russia, France, England and Denmark have subsidized the training of dancers for years, the United States has had no such program of direct aid to gifted artists.

The grant to improve the state of ballet in this country is geographically divided. Easterners have $100,000 to draw from for study in the New York center, while residents of Western states have $50,000 available for instruction with the San Francisco Ballet School.

INTEREST IN BALLET hasn't just happened, it's been growing toward a boom for the last 10 years. Cross-country engagements by England's Sadler's Wells company and Moscow's Bolshoi Ballets have focused attention on the romance and beauty of this classic dance.

Our own cover girl, 18-year-old Kathleen Carlin of Philadelphia was inspired to study ballet, when at the age of 6 she saw the Sadler's Wells do The Nutcracker in her home town.

America's own crop of ballet stars who have toed their way across the United States has further fanned an enthusiastic response.

The result is that America has discovered its toes.
Almost every little girl from New York to Southern California who has ever seen a ballerina glide across a stage, craves the shoes and a pink tutu of her own.

It takes at least 10 years of hard work and a minimum of $5,000 to make a ballet dancer, but parents of boys and girls who want careers in the field spend more. The scholarship winners, from 10 states and Puerto Rico, are given a financial assist while studying in New York.
Apart from ballet lessons, they get living expenses plus tuition at an academic school to complete their education.

Living is not easy for these 10 girls and one boy. With no dormitory facilities available, they board out or live in residences, a lonely life for youngsters under 21.
There's nobody around to see that they eat properly and get enough sleep.

But what's a little sacrifice when the goal is stardom?
With a lot of hard work their daydreams of greatness may some day become reality.

A warmup at the barre begins the day's work for every dancer.
Suzanne Ficker, 15-year-old Ohio girl, puts in 13½ hours a week in the hope she'll be tapped for the N.Y.C. Ballet Corps.

Zsa Zsa Gabor hasn't any problems saying no to a man; she says it firmly but nicely. It's another story when her little daughter wants her to stay and she can't. She always feels guilty.

Ambassador Angier Biddle Duke has diplomatic immunity to hide behind if he chooses, but he would rather face facts frankly and with integrity. He finds honesty with a little tact is the best policy in government and in personal affairs.

Cornelia Otis Skinner has little difficulty with the written no, but call her up and she's trapped. "I don't know why but I'm weakest on the phone. After I say Yes, I think, Oh, it will never happen, but it does," and Miss Skinner regrets.

Do you know 'NO' how to say...

BY ROSALIND MASSOW

A 23-YEAR-OLD WOMAN hauled before the court for having married seven servicemen without even shedding one was asked by the judge why she did it.

"I didn't want to hurt their feelings," she said tearfully.

She was a girl who couldn't say no and in a terrible fix, but she was facing a common problem in her own unique way.

Whether it's compassion or cowardice, anybody with any sensitivity finds it difficult to say no to favors, dates and requests for time and money. As a result we often end up doing things we don't want to do or becoming involved in situations we're not even interested in.

One "nice guy" who for years was running himself ragged saying yes, finally found the right solution to the problem.

"I use a very simple device," he says. "I lie. It's the easiest way out and the kindest."

Books of etiquette have nice rules with sweet words of regret, but the trouble often is that they are geared to situations where you might want to be asked again. There is no sure guide to permanent escape.

The problem has two major elements: 1) it's difficult for most of us to say something that will be unpleasant to the next fellow, and 2) it's hard to reject a flattering evaluation of yourself.

How do other people handle the situation? Do they suffer as much as you do?

PARADE conducted an informal check among solid citizens in the fields of entertainment, business and public affairs to see how they handle their "regrets."

We start with the ladies first because women have to learn early in life how to say no without shutting the door permanently on love and romance.

Lilo, the popular and curvaceous French singer, is an admitted coward about the whole thing. Says Lilo:

"I always say, 'Yes, I'd love to go to your party!' and then I run home to my husband and say, 'Get me out of it.' It's very difficult for me to say no because I have the impression I'm hurting someone's feelings."

Girl Who Says No

Celeste Holm, who made her fame and fortune as the "girl who couldn't say no" in Oklahoma! years ago, has worked on the problem and now handles the situation in a more mature way.

"When someone asks me to a cocktail party that I don't want to go to, I simply say, 'Oh, I never go to cocktail parties.'"

If someone taps her for a contribution to a charity she isn't interested in, she passes the buck-giving to her attorney with, "Oh, all my contributions are handled by my lawyer."

Zsa Zsa Gabor is the essence of diplomacy when it comes to saying no. She sugars up her regrets with, "Dahlink, I'm heartbroken but I can't come. I'm rehearsing, I have another engagement," etc., etc.

Some people can't bear to say no. The wounded look, the hurt which they think they are inflicting, are too much to bear.

What's the real reason people find it hard to say no? Subconsciously, the concern is really for ourselves masquerading under the sensible kindness of not wanting to hurt others. This is the analysis of Morton Schillinger, director of Lincoln Institute for Psychotherapy.

"Our unwillingness to say no is not really the great benevolence and Christian spirit that it seems to be, but more a concern with protecting ourselves against retribution, and also preserving the idealized image of oneself of being a nice guy," Schillinger says.

A Senator's Method

Sen. Henry Jackson, the bachelor senator from Washington, was approached by PARADE to tell how he says no effectively. He couldn't be reached, but both his press officer and his administrative assistant couldn't be more pleasantly disposed to the idea. After three direct phone passes to them, which they received affably, and three other calls, which they never acknowledged, we figured that Senator Jackson and his men take care of the problem by evasion.

In Washington, where saying yes could be a prelude to a Congressional investigation, there are rules and regulations by which government people live, which makes the problem easier.

Miss Frances Knight, director of the Passport Office, always says no with an explanation.

"I think you reach the ultimate when you say no to people and they thank you afterwards. That's what happens in our department because I take the time to listen to complaints and then carefully explain why a situation could be impossible," says Miss Knight.

In her personal life Miss Knight gets invited to a score of things, but she has made it a rule never to go out at night when the next day is a working day.

"Even though there are times when I am tempted to do so, I have to be consistent about it, I just don't accept these invitations."

Ambassador Angier Biddle Duke, State Department Chief of Protocol, is another man who has given the problem some thought.

"Saying no comes easier when you grow older," Ambassador Duke says. "You understand yourself better and you know your capabilities. I've found that frankness and truth is the best way to handle the situation."

Ambassador Duke's point of view is shared by G. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, who is always being asked for "tips" in the market.

"Over the years I have found that a candid discussion of the facts, along with a polite explanation, makes a negative answer relatively simple," Funston says.

"An honest and forthright no is better than all the equivocating in the world, and surely it is an obligation we owe to the many people with whom we deal."

There is no great gift required to say no. The problem for too many people is that they say "maybe" or "possibly" when they really would rather shake their heads vigorously from side to side.

Cook-out Rice

Ready in minutes, rain or shine, but only with Minute Rice.

Tempting partner to any grilled meat. Mellow cheese, tangy onions and spices—all blended deliciously by the flavor-absorbing magic of Minute-Rice. Secret—you don't boil the rice first. It goes in, right from the box. As the dish cooks, Minute Rice absorbs savory flavors, gives you glorious eating—all so fast.

1½ cups water • ½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup catsup • ½ cup grated Cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons chopped onion • 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon pepper • 1½ cups Minute Rice

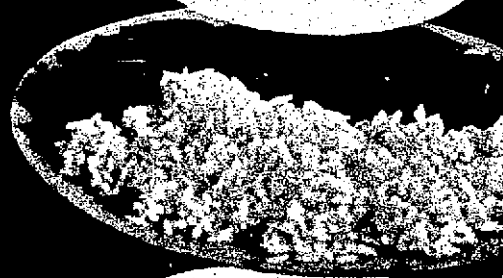

Sunny day. Combine all ingredients, except rice, in covered pot. Bring to a boil over glowing coals. Stir in rice. Cover. Remove from direct heat and let stand at edge of grill for 5 minutes. Fluff with fork.

Or prepare rice this way... shape a pouch from a large square of aluminum foil. Combine all ingredients in pouch. Seal tightly and heat over coals 12 to 15 minutes.

Rainy day. Tastes just as good fixed indoors on the range. Merely follow grill directions for rice prepared in a pot. Serves 4, deliciously.

Heinz Safety-seal Screw Caps protect the purity of baby's food as no others can!

HERE'S WHY:

1. They can't tarnish or rust, because they're made of 100% pure aluminum.
 2. They can't taint baby's food ever—aluminum is friendly to food, as you know from cooking with aluminum utensils.
 3. They seal better! Tops are not only airtight—sides are custom-fitted to each individual jar. No dust or air can possibly enter.
 4. They reseal easily, too, so you can keep fresh taste and vitamins in . . . flavor-spilling odors from other foods OUT.
 5. They have the Parents' Magazine Commendation Seal—the only baby food caps that do!
- And remember, the baby foods under these caps are unsurpassed Heinz quality—famous for 92 years!

Two new dishes

Here are two new ideas for the summer cook: a main dish in minutes, a cooler-than-cool dessert. Put them together in the same dinner menu, and serve a green vegetable, and a tomato salad with the scallops, plus a frosty cold beverage of your choice. Save the watermelon shell and use it as a serving dish for the watermelon sherbet. —BETH MERRIMAN

SCALLOPED POTATOES AND SCALLOPS

- | | |
|---|--------------------------------------|
| 2 lbs. sea scallops,
fresh or frozen | 2 tablespoons butter
or margarine |
| 2 pkg. scalloped potato mix | Paprika |

Defrost scallops, if frozen. Prepare and bake scalloped potato mix as directed on package. About 15 minutes before end of baking time remove from oven. Arrange sea scallops on top; dot scallops with butter or margarine; sprinkle generously with paprika. Return to oven for remaining baking time. Makes six servings.

for summer

WATERMELON SHERBET

4 cups (about 3 lbs.) diced seeded watermelon
1 package unflavored gelatine
1½ cups light corn sirup
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Few drops red food coloring (optional)

Crush watermelon through a strainer or with electric blender. This will make about 3 cups liquid. Soften gelatine in ½ cup watermelon juice. Place over boiling water; heat until gelatine is dissolved. Combine corn sirup, lemon juice and food coloring; add softened gelatine and remaining watermelon liquid. Turn into freezing trays. Freeze until almost firm, 1 to 2 hours. Turn into chilled bowl; break up with spoon; beat until smooth. Return trays; freeze until firm (about 3 hours.) Makes about 1 quart. Serve in half watermelon shell, if desired.

An old family recipe "comes alive" in new Pillsbury Nut Bread Mix

Moist and tender...crunchy with nuts!

You can taste that someone with a generous hand planned this mix...someone with a memory as well! Such a rich and fragrant loaf, so generously flecked with nuts...the kind that only a precious, old family recipe could make before. Bake it with ease and serve with love...for just-the-family occasions or for special friends to share. It's saying a lot, but mark our words: the first Pillsbury Nut Bread you bake, a new family tradition will be born at your house!

Family-pleasing Nut Bread Ideas:

Salad lunch: Fix your favorite fruit plate. Add grated orange rind to softened cream cheese; fill thin Nut Bread sandwiches.

Picnic: Just take along a loaf and a knife! Toast thick slices on the grill and don't spare the butter!

Dessert: Add 2 tps. maple flavoring to batter. Top slices with vanilla ice cream and maple syrup.

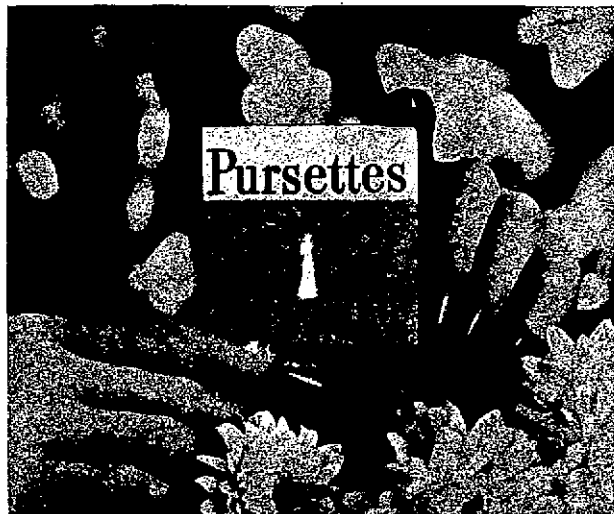

TV Snack: Lemon iced tea—fantalizing with cool buttered Nut Bread. For more serving ideas, write Ann Pillsbury, Box 90, Minneapolis 60, Minnesota.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Donald O'Connor who recently finished The Wonders of Aladdin, a film the youngsters should flock to in droves, is a 36-year-old comedian, well-recognized as possibly the most versatile entertainer in show business. O'Connor, born in a trunk, as the show biz expression goes, is the son of a circus strong man and a tight-rope walker. He was 1 year old when his parents made him part of their act, and he's been working ever since—on the stage, radio, television, films, supper clubs—telling jokes like these.

My favorite jokes

by DONALD O'CONNOR

A FATHER was berating his son who was reluctant to do his homework. "When Abraham Lincoln was your age," the father lectured, he walked 10 miles to school every day and then studied by the light of the fire in his log cabin."

"So what?" the boy rejoined. "When John Kennedy was your age, he was President!"

AFTER BEING INTRODUCED to Dr. Smith at a cocktail party, an elderly matron maneuvered him into a corner and said, "Doctor, it's such a privilege to have met you. I wonder if you would answer a question for me. Why is it that every time I bend down, I get a cramp in my left leg."

The doctor smiled and gently informed her, "I'm sorry, but I'm not that kind of a doctor. I happen to be a doctor of economics."

The lady nodded understandingly. "In that case," she said, "Doctor, in view of the Supreme Court decision in the DuPont action should I sell my General Motors stock?"

AFTER THE TEACHER TOLD the class that the U.S. "Echo" satellite would be visible that evening, a little boy went home and asked his mother if he could go out and see it. "All right," she said, "but remember, don't get too close."

THE RANCH HAND was nonchalantly displaying his skill in rolling cigarettes one-handed. A duly impressed Easterner expressed his admiration for the dexterity involved. "Actually, rolling them don't take much," said the cowhand. "It's getting the filter in that's the trick."

AT THE 15th ANNIVERSARY of their wedding, a tight-lipped Vermont farmer turned to his wife and said, "When I think of how much you have meant to me all these years, it is almost more than I can do sometimes to keep from telling you so."

I KNOW AN ACTOR who always wanted to play the part of the lamp in Aladdin so that he could keep half-lit all the time.

AN ITALIAN RESTAURANT OWNER stood by his barbecue pit cranking a rotating spit and singing O Sole Mio when one of his slightly inebriated customers said to him, "Excuse me, Mister, but your monkey's on fire."

A FATHER AND HIS SMALL SON WERE OUT walking one afternoon when the youngster asked how television pictures traveled through space.

"I don't know," said the father. "I never knew much about electronics."

A few blocks farther on, the boy asked how a gasoline engine works. "To tell the truth," confessed the father, "I never exactly understood that myself."

"Say, Pop," began the boy, after a while. "Oh, well, never mind."

"Go ahead," said the father. "Ask questions. How else are you going to learn?"

A HYPOCHONDRIAC told his doctor in great alarm that he was sure he had a fatal liver disease.

"Nonsense!" protested the doctor. "You would never know if you had the disease or not. With that ailment there's no discomfort of any kind."

"I know," gasped the patient. "My symptoms exactly!"

IN ROME I SAW a very distinguished gentleman who was pointed out to me as the finest swimmer in Europe. He used to be a mailman in Venice.

TWO ELDERLY LADIES were going on their first ride in a jet. When the pilot walked through the plane prior to the takeoff, one woman stopped him.

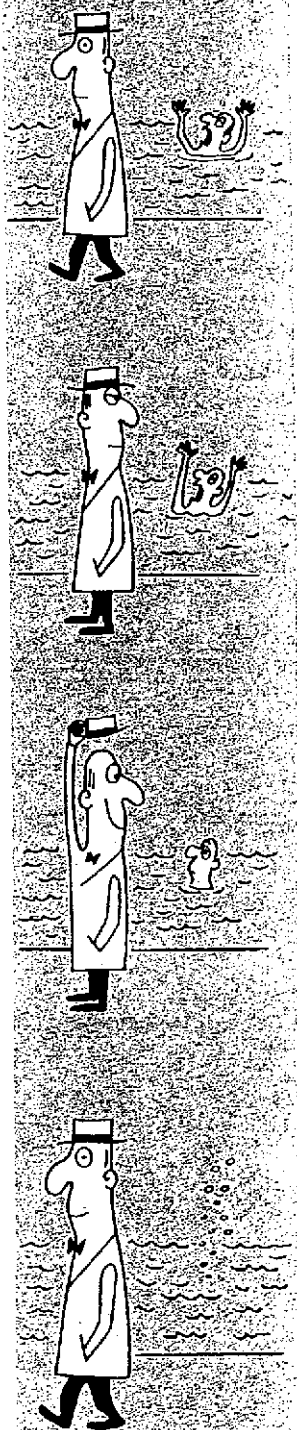

"Please don't start going faster than sound," she told him. "We want to talk."

AN OFF-BROADWAY PRODUCER sought to borrow $100,000 from the bank to put on a highly original play. "That's a lot of money," said the bank president. "Can you give me a statement?"

"Yes," said the producer. "I'm optimistic."

This boy loves the good natural flavor of Parkay

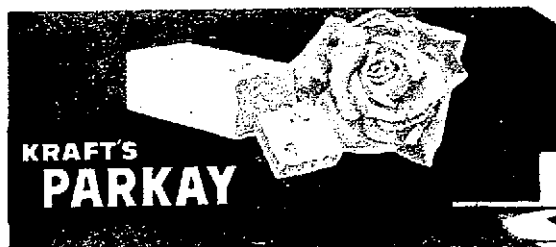

(This margarine is so sweet and fresh tasting, even real fussy folks love it.)

His Mom approves of its healthy helping of Vitamins A&D

(Just 3 average servings supply the minimum daily requirement of both these important vitamins.)

And his Mom's doctor can explain the value of its liquid oil!

(Parkay has the kind of linoleate-rich, poly-unsaturated liquid oil many doctors are recommending.)

Why this generous offer? Simply to introduce you to an exciting new way to understand and enjoy the scientific marvels all around us

"PREPARE TO SUBMERGE!" You're off on a great adventure... a cruise through the eerie underwater world of SUBMARINES.

You'll travel back to 1620 and board that first submarine, the Nautilus. A friendly expert will show you the atomic reactor, where one pound of uranium produces as much power as 2.5 MILLION pounds of coal... the radar and periscope in the Control and Attack Center. You will see why 7 million parts are needed for a single nuclear submarine.

AND FOR THE BIGGEST THRILL OF ALL, you'll fire practice shots from the newest and mightiest nuclear-powered missile-firing submarine! You'll stand breathless as the Skipper gives the command to launch the Polaris missile... cheer with the crew as the history-making shot lands on target 1,200 miles away!

These are just a few of the thrills that await you - in the new Science Program presentation of SUBMARINES. And it's yours for only 10¢ on this "get-acquainted" offer.

Enjoy Monthly Adventures Like These Each month this new program will take you on a "guided tour" of a different field of science. One month you will see earth and sky through the eyes of the weather man. Another time a chemist will show you metal that burns and gas that pours. A biologist will let you look through his microscope at a living cell. On other adventures your guides will be radio engineers... medical researchers... map-makers... nuclear physicists.

Each month you receive sheets of full-color photographs - also an illustrated album, crammed with information, and with spaces for mounting the pictures. In addition, there will be many interesting things-to-do, such as (in the SUBMARINES set offered on this page) mounting, on an Ocean Chart, full-color punch-outs of Men, Mammals, and Machines That Have Achieved World Record Depths.

What It Will Mean to Your Family

Think what these adventures will mean to your family - especially if you have children in school! It will stimulate them to participate in science projects. It will help prepare them for life in the space age - may even lead to a scientific career.

MAIL COUPON NOW with only 10¢ for the introductory package. With it we will also send the current Activity Kit for which you will be billed only $1, plus shipping. No further obligation.
